U.N. Delegates Study U.S. Border Guard Proposal

THE SUBJECT IS LAOS—U. S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson talks to Roger Seydoux, center, of France, president of the U.N. Security Council, and U.N. Secretary-General U Thant before debate on the Southeast Asia crisis. In his address to the Council Stevenson pledged that the U. S. will continue to defend Southeast Asia against Communist attacks as long as the people are determined to preserve their independence. (AP Wirephoto)

Laos Air Move 1st In Plans

Close U. S. Watch Is Needed on Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The start of U.S. jet reconnaissance flights over Red - threatened Laos may be only the first of several actions enlarging American military operations in Southeast Asia, officials said today.

Faced with Communist advances posing increasingly serious threats to Laos and neighboring South Viet Nam, U.S. policymakers have been considering a wide variety of moves, including:

Strikes against North Viet Nam, dispatch of more air and sea power into the area, landing of forces in Thailand if the Thai government agrees such help is necessary, and direct military intervention in Laos itself.

Further steps will be ordered, officials said, if the situation continues to deteriorate.

Another Carrier

In another development, not necessarily connected with the Laotian crisis, a Navy carrier squadron has left the Indian Ocean and rejoined the main body of the U.S. 7th Fleet in the Pacific, it was learned today. It brings to three the force of big attack carriers in Far Eastern waters.

Officials said they were not certain how quickly the confrontation in Southeast Asia would reach a showdown stage if diplomacy fails to find a way out of the present crisis.

Could Come Fast

Events could develop quickly, however, depending on what the Communists decide to do.

President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk were described as still hopeful that diplomatic pressures on the Communist powers and the prospect of greater U.S. military involvement in the area would cause the Communists to stop their offensive campaign against the forces of the neutralist Laotian government.

The reconnaissance flights were announced by the State Department Thursday after Peking Radio broadcast a report that Communist Pathet Lao troops had fired on two U.S. jet planes flying over the Plaine des Jarres.

Answer to Requests

The State Department said the United States had undertaken the reconnaissance flight in response to a request from the Lao government.

A spokesman declared that the information gained from the Council Is Slated To Meet Monday

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — U.N. delegates today studied the possibility of the Security Council agreeing on U.S. proposals for the United Nations to sponsor military patrols along the troubled border between Cambodia and South Viet Nam.

Cambodia's representative at the U.N., Ambassador Voeunsai Sonn, told a reporter the suggestions for a U.N. watch on the frontier were "the really important part" of the policy speech that U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson made to the 11-nation council Thursday. He asked his government for comment.

Hunts Resolution Basis

Moroccan Ambassador Ahmed Taibi Benhima was in touch with other council delegates trying to find the basis for a resolution on the dispute.

The council meets again Monday.

Cambodia has charged that South Vietnamese troops, accompanied by U.S. officers, have been crossing into Cambodia and killing villagers. Sonn denied to the council Thursday that Communists fighting against the South Vietnamese government were using Cambodia as a sanctuary.

Stevenson insisted they were and said "this is the real reason for troubles on the Cambodian border." He admitted that an American adviser was with the South Vietnamese on one of the three border crossings Cambodia cited to the council. Pham Khac Rau of South Viet Nam said his country's troops had made an "occasional inadvertent crossing in pursuit of their enemies."

Alternative Suggestions

Stevenson made three alternative suggestions:

1. That the council ask Cambodia and South Viet Nam to establish a joint military force to patrol the frontier and report to U.N. Secretary - General U Thant;

2. That the force be given U.N. observers or a U.N. Command.

3. That it be "an all - U.N. force."

U.S. to Pay Part

He said the United States would contribute part of the cost of a U.N. force.

Sonn pressed for a new Geneva conference to guarantee Cambodia's neutrality and territorial integrity, but Stevenson

Can Retake White House, Rocky Avers

Goldwater Returning

Campaign aides of the absent Arizona senator accused Rockefeller forces of spending huge sums of money in "the most deliberate hatchet job ever attempted in American politics."

Goldwater himself tossed the charge of "cheap political demagoguery" at Rockefeller and announced in Washington he'll intensify his drive for votes in the June 2 primary.

Goldwater will return to the state Saturday, two days ahead of schedule. He plans to remain almost without a break until the primary.

Rockefeller has reached thousands of people in a four-day statewide tour. He has played down formal speeches and played up getting out among the voters.

Thursday he greeted hundreds of workers in a Fresno telephone company office, danced with several women at the Senior Citizens Center and spoke in Spanish to Latin-American students at the University of the Pacific in Stockton, and rode in a motorcade through the San Francisco East Bay area.

The New York governor stood for nearly three hours to shake 6,000 to 7,000 hands at a reception in Oakland, similar to one in Anaheim the night before. Rounding out a 14-hour day, he dropped in on a Negro restaurant to speak briefly with Oakland Negro leaders.

Growing Enthusiasm

Rockefeller declared he feels a growing enthusiasm for his race for California's 86 Republican delegates.

In a speech prepared for a San Francisco breakfast today he said "the Republican party can win the presidential election this year."

"Don't let anyone—even the pollsters—tell you otherwise," he said.

"The present Democratic administration can be beaten and should be beaten in order to restore leadership in Washington based on principle rather than political expediency."

Johnson Trains Aim At Grand-Slam Win

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyndon Baines Johnson, today six months in the presidency, is reported to be training his sights on a grand-slam victory at the polls in November — 50 states and the District of Columbia.

Johnson, who stepped out of the background Nov. 22 to grasp the torch of government from the fallen John F. Kennedy, often talks—Texas style—about "standing tall."

To Stand on Record

Friends say he hopes to stand taller on the political horizon in another six months than any other president in U.S. history.

And like the army of other politicians, small and mighty, Johnson intends to stand on his record.

He has, in this half-year from autumn to spring, labored like a muledriver to try to whip the New Frontier legislative program through Congress — but emblazoned with the fresh LBJ brand.

A dedicated poll watcher, Johnson is very much aware that a recent Gallup poll credits him with greater popularity than President Franklin D. Roosevelt enjoyed in May 1936.

That was the year FDR carried every state except Maine and Vermont, rolling up a landslide record that still stands.

Johnson calls Roosevelt his "second daddy," but being a man who likes to stand tall he intends to do his "dead level best"—a pet Johnson phrase—to beat that record.

Has High Spirit

If this sounds audacious, the President is not one to sell himself short. Woven into the record of his first six months in office is a never-say-die spirit.

As leader of Senate Democrats in the 1950s, Johnson's strong point was an ability to compromise the views of opposing factions and fashion coalitions capable of enacting major legislation. In fact, his emphasis on compromise was so marked that, at times, disgruntled Democrats labeled him "lying down Lyndon."

As President, Johnson has been a different kind of leader. Time and again, he has refused to take no for an answer.

When Congress has defeated or pigeonholed important administration bills, he has insisted on another vote. This has been true of measures to raise the pay of federal executives, to finance the International Development Association, to extend the food stamp plan, to provide price supports for wheat growers. And when the House voted last December for a foreign aid rider aimed at thwarting wheat sales to the Soviet Union, Johnson won a reversal.

Sometimes it seems that John-

Shults Buys Store Where Flanagan Sells Clothing

Another large business property on Wall Street has been sold.

The premises at 331 Wall Street, owned by the Raphael Cohen Estate., and occupied by Flanagan's clothing store has been acquired by J. Richard Shults.

For many years the building was occupied by the S. Cohen Clothing store, later acquired by the late E. Frank Flanagan, and continued under the name of Flanagan's by his son Albert C. Flanagan.

Built After Bad Fire

The three story brick structure, which was erected many years ago following a disastrous fire that swept through Wall and North Front Street, is presently leased to Flanagan's.

Albert C. Flanagan, proprietor of the store, today said his lease on the building expires on January first and he has made no definite plans for the future. Flanagan said he had been investigating facilities at the Kingston Shopping Plaza.

Price Reported $55,000

Shults had "no comment" to make on the sale or future use of the building.

It is reported the purchase price was "about $55,000".

A. J. Cook of Cook & Cook was attorney for the seller.

Pilgrim Co. Signs for Plant Site

A contract to purchase the former Fuller Shirt Company factory plant on Pine Grove Avenue was signed Thursday afternoon by Max Z. Kligman, president of the Pilgrim Furniture Company of Kingston, representing the D. & R. Realty Corporation.

The transaction includes the first factory building on Pine Grove Avenue, a newer modern addition adjoining and the newer concrete and steel addition. All three buildings are inter-connected and form one big plant. The premises are located at 45-57 Pine Grove Avenue with entrance to the rear from Susan Streete.

While no figure was released, it is understood the sale price is in the neighborhood of $145,000.

Kligman was reported to be in New York city over the weekend and was not available for comment on future use of the building. Brokers were Raymond E. Craft and Moe Solomon, Kingston real estate brokers. The seller was represented by Attorney Richard B. Overgaugh and the purchaser by Judge Aaron E. Klein.

Employed Large Force

The Fuller shirt factory was at one time one of the largest manufacturing plants in Kingston, employing a large force. In later years the Skyline Manufacturing Cmpany, also a fuller interest, operated a factory on the premises manufacturing infants wear. Presently the Fuller interests operate factories in the south.

Presently the premises are occupied by IBM, whose lease expires in October; the Kingston Shirt Company, a division of Ramar Shirt Company, which also operates the F. Jacobson & Sons, shirt factory on Cornell Street, and the Faymo Sportswear, Inc., factory. Ramar occupies the second and third floors of the plant while the IBM and Faymo Sportswear Company occupy the lower floor.

The three floors of the factory comprise approximately 71,000 squart feet.

Gould Is Selected As SUNY President

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Samuel B. Gould, 53, will move from a New York educational-television post to the long-vacant State University president's chair on Sept. 1.

His appointment to the $40,000-a-year position Thursday ended a 21-month search by the university's board of trustees for a successor to Dr. Thomas Hale Hamilton.

90 Were Considered

When Gould takes up the reins of the 16-year-old university, slightly more than two years will have elapsed since Hamilton announced his intention of departing to become president of the University of Hawaii. He left Dec. 31, 1962.

Meanwhile, the university board considered more than 90 potential successors before settling on Gould, who had headed two colleges before moving into the educational-TV field.

Gould told a reporter yesterday that "I didn't apply" for the job.

"They came to me and asked if I was interested," he said. "We talked several months ago, but it was only in the last several weeks that I thought seriously about it."

One factor that helped convince him, he said, was the recent state legislation "that strengthens the position of the president and strengthens the university in its ability to achieve its goals."

Pays $40,000

At Gov. Rockefeller's request, the 1964 Legislature granted greater fiscal freedom to the university and more latitude to the president in choosing his key personnel. Tight budgetary and personnel controls had been considered a deterrent to potential presidents.

As another lure, the salary for the post was increased from $28,875 to $40,000 a year.

Gould said this was $5,000 less than he is paid as president of the Educational Broadcasting Corp., which conducts a pro-

One of 8 Children Loses Life in Fire at Hyde Park

State Police and Hyde Park firemen continued their investigation today into a fire which claimed the life of a two-year girl this morning in that village.

Theresa Malloy, one of eight children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Malloy, of 1 Sherwood Place, Hyde Park, was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Francis Hospital in Poughkeepsie shortly after fire broke out in the family's two - story home off Route 9 about 1 a. m.

Two other of the Malloy's children were hospitalized and 16 fire fighters were injured in battling the blaze.

Charlotte Malloy, 9, was treated in St. Francis Hospital for smoke inhalation, while her Brian, 10, also was treated for first degree burns of the left hand.

Firemen Treated

Firemen Donald Allhusen and Howard Martin, both of Hyde Park, were treated at the same hospital for smoke inhalation and released. The other fire fighters injured suffered smoke inhalation and cuts and bruises but were not taken to the hospital.

The property loss was set at $30,000.

State Police at Rhinebeck said

Aldermen Ask Board Review of Plaza Sign Bid

A reappraisal by the Zoning Board of Appeals of an application by the Kingston Plaza Corp. to erect a sign in the vicinity of Washington Avenue and Taylor Street was suggested by the common Council's laws and rules committee Thursday night.

The corporation applied for permission to erect a sign 50 feet high and 32 feet wide. Zoning regulations limit the size to 50 square feet, and the zoning board in a recent decision denied the request, but proposed consideration of a change in the zoning law on a compromise basis.

The council committee met this week with Attorney N. Jansen Fowler and Robert H. Herzog, of the corporation, and proposed that the zoning board decision be given "further review and consideration" by the zoning board.

Attorney George A. Beck, chairman of the zoning board, said the report from the council committee was received this morning and probably will be considered over the weekend.

Th council's laws and rules committee is composed of aldermen John Machione (R) 12th Ward, chairman, Alderman-at-Large Joseph F. Carroll Jr., Raymond Armater (R) 11th Ward, James F. Howard (D) 10th Ward, and Peter J. Mancuso (D) Eighth Ward.

Senior Citizen Housing Bids Due In Near Future

Final plans and drawings for construction of the Wiltwyck Gardens housing project for senior citizens on Albany Avenue, have been submitted to the New York State Division of Housing, George E. Yerry Jr., chairman of the Kingston Housing Authority announced today.

Yerry said it is hoped that the authority will be able to obtain bids for the project within a short time.

Meanwhile, he said, bids will be received May 26 for reproduction of specifications and drawings, which will be available to contractors who wish to bid on the project.

Yerry noted that May has been proclaimed Senior Citizens Month, and he hoped that by this time next year, Wiltwyck Gardens would be near completion to provide "many of Kingston's senior citizens with adequate housing that they can afford."

The plan, designed by Architect Harry Halverson, calls for construction of 30 three-and-one-half room, and 30 two-and-one-half room specially designed apartments for senior citizens.

Other members of the authority are Max Mones, John DeGasperis, Robert Slover, and Benjamin A. Storms. Alexander Yosman serves as executive director of the authority, and former Mayor Frederick H. Stang, as counsel.

NIGHT OF A HERO AT CITY HALL—Robert Sickler, 14, of 16 Hunter Street, who received two citations and an award Thursday night at City Hall for saving the life of Anthony Williams, 6, of 19 Meadow Street May 12, is to be nominated for a citation by the Carnegie Hero Commission Fund, Pittsburgh, it was learned today. Robert rescued the Williams boy after he had fallen into the Rondout Creek from a dock beyond Ferry Street. Nomination for the Carnegie citation was proposed by Frederic Snyder, of 34 Lucas Avenue, writer and lecturer, who is cooperating with Mayor John J. Schwenk and Police Chief Robert F. Murphy in processing the nomination. Snyder said the commission has been notified of the city's interest in obtaining the citation. That given last night by Mayor Schwenk at a police board meeting said: "Greetings — In recognition of distinguished service, and in appreciation of the assistance freely and unselfishly given in a time of dire emergency, for saving of a human life at the peril of his own, the police department of the City of Kingston, County of Ulster, State of New York, on behalf of all those directly concerned, the mayor, and the people of the City of Kingston do hereby present this Citizens Citation Award." Among those present at the presentation were (l-r) police Commissioners, the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, W. Anderson Carl and Joseph F. Policano; Mayor Schwenk, Robert and Police Chief Robert F. Murphy. Robert also received a citation and savings bond from the Kingston Patrolmen's Association. (other photo on page 5) (Freeman photo)

Homicide Verdict In Porter's Death At Brown's Hotel

State Police at Ferndale said today there were no leads in the murder of 54-year-old porter who was found dead in his room Thursday at Brown's Hotel in Sullivan County where he had been employed.

The victim was John Jepson, of Oshkosh, Wisc.

Dr. Sidney Schiff, acting coroner's physician, gave a verdict of homicide. He said that Jepson died from multiple fractures of the skull and associated concussions caused by a blunt instrument inflicted by an unknown person.

Lt. Supervisor Edgar Croswell of the State Police Troop C Sidney headquarters, who is heading the investigation, told

Bush's Record Defended, Wilson Scores Newcombe

The record of State Senator E. Ogden Bush, who is seeking the GOP nomination for reelection to the 34th Senatorial District post, was strongly defended Thursday night by Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson.

Assemblyman Wilson, who is Ulster County GOP chairman addressed a gathering of more than 200 committeemen and Republican Club members at Emil's Town of Gardiner.

In the strongest terms used thus far in the primary campaign, Wilson scored the senator's opponent, Lloyd A. Newcombe, Catskill businessman, for the type of campaign he has conducted.

"It is difficult to concieve that one would stoop to such untruths in a primary contest as Senator Bush's opponent has seen fit to do," Wilson said. It is for this reason that I want to set the record straight this evening.

Citing the remarks of the senator's opponent as to his poor attendance record in the Legislature, Wilson displayed a letter received from the Secretary of the Senate stating that the journal record of that body showed a 100 per cent attendance mark for the senator.

Referring to statements, also by the opposition, that the senator had packed the payroll with relatives, the Assemblyman stated, "Senator Bush doesn't even have a 16th cousin working for the state on his payroll. As for the statement that he is a 'do nothing' Senator, let me say right now, and this information is documented and appears in the record of the Senate, Senator Bush introduced 85 bills during the session just completed.

In education, New Paltz College will receive $942,835 more for operating expenses this year, compared to last. And $15,000,000 is now available for major construction. Highway improvements in Ulster County will include resurfacing Route 209 from Hurley to Kingston and reconstruction of Lucas Avenue Turnpike from Route 209 to Route 213 at High Falls.

Also, reconstruction of Route 32 from Modena to Orange County line; reconstruction of Route 28 from Shandaken to Phoenicia

Dear Abby . . .

Sow the Seed, Lady!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: How do you tell city relatives that you aren't living on a farm just to keep their kids for the whole summer? These relatives don't ASK if they can send their children, they TELL you they are coming. I think two weeks is plenty, but we get them the day after school lets out, and they stay until the day before school starts again. These kids are older than our own, and they tease ours continually. I am supposed to do all the cooking, baking, washing, ironing and help with the chores in the field, and be real happy to have the extra work from the nieces and nephews. Advice through your column would be appreciated. Maybe they'll read it and take the hint.

DREADING SUMMER

DEAR DREADING: If you haven't the courage to TELL them that you will be glad to have their children for TWO WEEKS ONLY, then you'll have to put up with them all summer. The meek may indeed inherit the earth, but they don't have to accept abuse as a downpayment.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and quite popular with both boys and girls. About 50 kids a day tell me that they tried to get me on the phone but my line was busy for so long they gave up. It's my mother! Abby, I hate to complain, but she is the gabbiest person in the whole world . . . and it is wrecking my popularity. She gets on the phone and talks for an hour to one person, and as soon as she hangs up she calls another person and ties up the phone for another hour. How does a 15-year-old girl tell her mother she talks too darned much?

GIRL WITH A GABBY MOTHER

DEAR GIRL: She doesn't — not if she's smart.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: I am so lonesome I could die. I would like a nice man I could support, keep house for, buy presents for and to love. All he would have to do is love me back. I have never had anyone love me and no one to love. I have been married for 22 years to a I-don't-know-what-you-would-call-him, but he isn't a man. I am still married, but if a real man came along I would get a divorce fast. I am 53 but don't look it. I work every day and love my work. I want to meet a good clean man who would like to meet a good clean woman with a house (paid for), a car (also paid for) and a job.

LONESOME

DEAR LONESOME: When you married your husband you swore in the presence of God and man to keep him in sickness or in health, for better or for worse, 'til death parted you. I don't know what ails your mate, but he is yours. You will have no trouble finding another mate to support, buy presents for, keep house for and to "love" if all you ask in return is to be "loved back." But don't expect to replace your "I-don't-know-what-you-would-call-him" with a real man because real men don't let women support them in exchange for "love."

• • • •

Friday Night Is Hollywood's Woe

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This is Hollywood Boulevard—and the boulevard will be swinging tonight, this being Friday.

The convergence of teen-agers each week has become a local ritual that is a bother for residents and a headache for the police.

Fun or Trouble

Nobody knows how it started. Two or three years ago, crowds of kids began appearing on the boulevard on Friday nights. Their numbers grew until the boulevard would become a bumper-to-bumper mass of hot rods and family cars packed with youngsters out for fun—or trouble.

"Friday night is a problem," says Police Capt. Otho C. Woods. "It has become a mobile lonely hearts club, with carloads of boys driving up and down the boulevard trying to make contact with carloads of girls.

"We have to police the boulevard pretty closely. When you get that many kids together in one area, there is bound to be some trouble. The patrolmen watch for thrown eggs, hooliganism and faulty equipment on cars. And we have to keep traffic moving, which is pretty difficult at times."

What attracts the kids to Hollywood is a puzzle. Most of them seem to come from outlying areas—the San Fernando Valley, West Los Angeles, the East Side—in search of excitement. Hollywood is a central location and the magic of the name lends allure.

But, as one veteran police officer remarked, "there isn't a damned thing for them to do when they get here."

Oddly Seasonal

Ten is the curfew hour in Los Angeles and the crowd begins to lessen. By midnight the teenagers have returned home or to other haunts, and the oldtimers who people the hotels and rooming houses can reclaim the boulevard.

The intensity of the invasion is oddly seasonal.

"The last two months of the year are the most critical," reported Woods. "The kids descend in greater numbers then, and we have to put four to six two-man mobile units in the field. The rest of the time we can get by with half that number."

He had no explanation why November and December bring a greater influx. It might be the rah-rah spirit of the football season, or the attraction of Christmas. It might be anything.

Why Khrushchev Is Slipping in Africa

By LEON DENNEN
Newspaper Enterprise Analyst

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — (NEA) — Not even Nikita Khrushchev's staged tour of Egypt can obscure the fact that Russian influence in Africa, as in Asia, is waning.

Moscow might succeed for a time in bribing Egypt's President Nasser or Algeria's Ben Bella with lavish economic help. Soviet aid to the Aswan Dam alone stands at $400 million. But according to reports in the United Nations, ordinary Africans and Asians, influenced by Red China's propaganda, increasingly consider the Russians as little better than "white imperialists."

It is in the sphere of personal relations that the Chinese seem to have scored most heavily over the Russians.

"Soviet technicians in Asia and Africa tend to remain oblivious of the ordinary people around them," a neutralist Asian diplomat said. "The gloomy Russians have not yet forgotten Stalin's regime when it was dangerous for Soviet citizens to be friendly with foreigners."

But the "friendly Chinese" — diplomats and technicians — quickly identify themselves with the Asian and African man-in-the-street, the diplomat said.

It is indeed one of history's ironies that a major propaganda weapon long used by Moscow to browbeat the West has now been turned by the Red Chinese against the Red Russians themselves.

Mao Tse-tung's agents peddle at every opportunity the argument that the Russians are not to be trusted because they belong to the same color group as the Americans, British and other "white imperialist nations." They exploit to the full the recent riots of African students in Russia, Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia.

Peking is also distributing maps of Asia and Africa which mark with red torch symbols all areas where "just wars of liberation" are currently being fought against white colonialists. All of Russia's "independent" Asian republics are so dotted.

In vain did Moscow complain recently against Peking's efforts to exclude Russia from the Asian-African conference scheduled to be held next year in Bandung, Indonesia.

"The Soviet Union accounts for 40 per cent of Asia's territory," Moscow's "Izvestia" said in a blistering editorial. "The Asian part of the Soviet Union is almost twice as big as the territory of all of China."

The Chinese who, like the Russians, consider themselves Marxist - Leninist dialecticians, were not impressed. Past masters in the art of Red doubletalk, they turned "Izvestia's" arguments against the Kremlin rulers themselves.

No doubt the Russians rule much of Asia, said China's Foreign Minister Marshal Chen Yi. "But they rule it as a white colonial power and not as a genuine Asian nation."

As Peking sees it, large parts of Soviet territory in Asia were seized by the czars from China in the 19th century. The treaties concluded then were "unequal" and therefore unjust. Red Russia is merely continuing the policies of Czarist Russia.

All this may be a bitter pill to swallow for the Kremlin's self-proclaimed champion of the "oppressed" colonial people. But as Lenin, Khrushchev's ideological master, once said, "facts are stubborn things."

And all the facts, according to United Nations reports, indicate clearly that it is Red China and not Red Russia that is winning the battle for the minds and souls of Africans and Asians.

Real Quiet

MIAMI (AP) — A southwestern suburban resident told the county zoning board he moved to the area for peace and quiet, but wasn't happy with all the quiet he would get. The board had given permission for a 150-acre cemetery to be built near the man's home.

The Conestoga Wagon, or prairie schooner, was responsible for causing American traffic to move on the right hand side of the road. Early colonists had perpetuated the English custom of keeping to the left, and carriages and wagons were driven from the right side. However, the Conestoga wagon had to be guided from the left side, and drivers, to get a clear view of the road ahead, began to keep their vehicles to the right.

Mustang leads the stampede the big Ford started. This has been the hottest sales year in Ford Division history. We have a winner in the Super Torque Ford, a car so well built, so predictably tough, that competition-modified Fords took eleven of the last twelve NASCAR 500-mile races. Ford sales are up 17% this year. We have a luxury car that's taken off like a skyrocket: Thunderbird, with sales up 68%. Falcon is selling almost as many cars as Valiant and Chevy II combined. Fairlane continues to be a favorite in its own field. Now comes Mustang . . . turning the trend to Ford into a downright stampede. Mustang, by any measure of sales or excitement, is the most successful new car ever introduced in America—ever. When you see a stampede, it makes sense to find out what started it. That's something only your Ford Dealer can tell you about.

Laos Becoming Red Would Endanger Asia, World Peace

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Communist victory in Laos would be a virus in the intestines of all Southeast Asia. Soon the whole area would have a Red fever. This country is now considering action to stop it. It's easy to see why.

Landlocked Laos, about the size of Britain, is right in the stomach of Southeast Asia. It has 1.8 million people, mostly illiterate, and with a life expectancy of 40 years.

Most of them, living in hamlets scattered by mountains and jungles, have never heard of democracy or communism. There are no railroads, no highways in the modern sense. Few roads are suitable for cars or trucks.

Travel is by jungle path or plane. Communication is mostly by mouth or foot. Laos has fewer than 1,000 telephones. But it's the way it's landlocked that could be fatal to its neighbors.

It has frontiers with Red China, Red North Viet Nam, South Viet Nam which this country is helping fight communism, Burma, Cambodia, and Thailand. The only major neighbor it doesn't touch is Malaya.

Made to Order for Guerrillas

Because of the mountains and jungles no traditional war of big armies could be fought there. It's made to order for small-scale and specialized guerrilla operations which the Communists have been perfecting for years.

Even if the Communists were crushed and driven out, they probably couldn't be kept out. Small bands could go back in by jungle path from North Viet Nam. Yet, from the description just given, Laos by itself is no attraction.

But once Laos became Red, pressure on already besieged South Viet Nam would increase and the pressure on Burma, Thailand and Cambodia would begin. All of them would mean land, people, and rice bowls for Red China and North Viet Nam.

The pressure of a Red Laos on its neighbors would get its greatest initial boost from this: U.S. prestige and confidence in its help against communism would suffer disastrously in Southeast Asia and, perhaps, in the general world.

Two Reasons

Why is the United States mixed up in Southeast Asia at all? There are two reasons, one idealistic, although the Communists would probably hoot at this, and the other very practical.

The idealistic reason—to help people in small, weak or backward countries to work out their own destiny before communism can try to gobble them.

The practical reason—nobody gave it better than the late secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, when he said in 1954 about defending Indo-China:

"Any significant expansion of the Communist world would indeed be a danger to the United States because international communism thinks in terms of ultimately usings its power position against the United States.

Would Endanger Peace

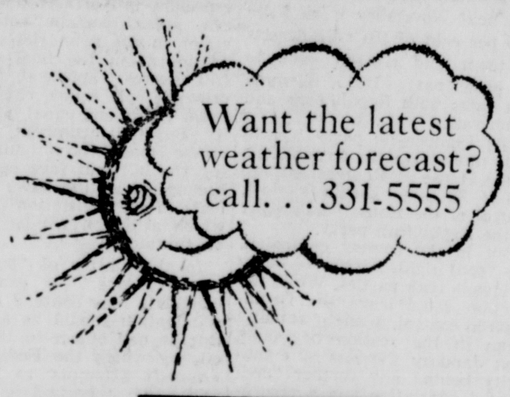

"Therefore Communist armed aggression in Southeast Asia would, in fact, endanger our peace and security and call for counteraction on our part."

President Eisenhower put it another way, with a now well-worn analogy: If one Southeast Asian country fell to communism, other free nations would then fall like stacked dominoes.

But something else would be endangered: The confidence of the American allies in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization. These—Britain, France, the Philippines, Thailand, Pakistan, Australia, New Zealand—signed a pact in 1954:

It was an agreement to help defend one another and their area.

Since 1954, when the French who used to use Laos as a hunting preserve pulled out, the United States has given the Laotians about $500 million in aid, most of it for defense. But in these years the Communists have grown stronger.

Guthion®

the standard fruit insecticide for all-season insect control

This season, give your fruit low-cost insect protection from bloom to harvest. Use Guthion, the standard insecticide of fruit growers for many years. Guthion is the broad spectrum insecticide that gives season-long control of major insects of economic importance on fruit.

Guthion's long residual effect lengthens the interval between cover sprays and frequently reduces the number of sprays per season required. Guthion leaves lower residues and helps to give fruit better finish and color.

Start your fruit off right this season. Use Guthion, the standard with fruit growers.

As with any pesticide, follow label directions carefully.

In areas where post-bloom mite infestations are severe, use Systox . . . another product of Chemagro.

BABSON on BUSINESS

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass., May 22. There have been a number of periods in our country's history when public distrust of business was strong and bitter. There was such an explosion of popular feeling against business interests during William Jennings Bryan's day in the 1890's. The next surge of indignation — probably the most violent of all — came during and immediately after the depression of the 1930's, fanned into flame by Franklin Roosevelt's accusing implications.

Reversal of Anti-Business Tide

I now feel that the tide is turning. It is no longer fashionable for educated men and women to lambaste business and discredit its social value. Rapidly losing ground is the old belief that business does not care about people as individuals, that business contributes little or nothing to human welfare in our present social order. The public is becoming increasingly aware of the fact that business has founded all kinds of research institutions and has heavily endowed them; that it has operated more and more for the purpose of developing better products, — and better living conditions.

It was interesting to note how our late President Kennedy grew steadily more pro-business as he became better acquainted with the attitudes of most of today's businessmen. Naturally, he realized that business like any other human institution, was far from perfect. But it was clear that he also began to see that business was no longer heavily infected by opportunists who would exploit the many for the special benefit of the few. There were numerous indications that President Kennedy recognized that business management was further advanced than the political management that tried to regulate it.

Johnson Continuing Trend

While President Johnson strives to build his image as a man of the people, he too obviously realizes the essential need for government to work amicably with business. It is evident that he feels business in general is a responsible force having high regard for the welfare of the individual. The next administration, which the voters will decide upon in November, will have to stay with this approach, and I believe that both the Republicans and the Democrats know this.

The marriage of business to physical sciences brought our nation to its present high pinnacle of technological achievement. From now on, emphasis must be upon a similar union between business and the social sciences. The depression crisis of the thirties brought about a reluctant engagement between these two forces, but it was accomplished by crucial pressures rather than by mutual desire. There was still distrust, and even hostility, between the common man and the big industrial powers.

Unions Have Helped the Situation

Some of the largest and most responsible labor unions have helped bring about a closer tie between the worker and the employer, — and also between government (representing the people) and industry. Since I do not believe that our nation should be high-handedly dominated by either management or labor, I am always encouraged when I see men in high government places who want equality and justice for both sides. It is my honest opinion that whoever wins the election next November will work wholeheartedly to apply this principle.

As for business itself, it must not only keep up its vigorous interest in technological improvements, but also stress the dignity of the individual and the meaningfulness of life. Probably the most destructive influence of our industrial civilization has been its focus on materialism and the pitiful lack of religious fervor. To change this situation, the social scientists, government authorities, advertising writers, and businessmen must all work together. The party that is carried into power by the voters next November will have a real challenge to develop the type of philosophy and the course of action that will carry us to ever-better human relations, — both within our country and among the other nations of the world.

Missing in Hudson

FORT MILLER, N.Y. (AP)—George Middlebrook, 44, of Victory Mills was missing in the Hudson River today and presumed drowned after toppling into the water from a paper-mill dam.

Middlebrook fell into the churning river water Thursday while attempting to break up a log jam at the Fort Miller Pulp and Paper Co. in this Washington County village.

State Police said the plant foreman, George Emery, tied a line around his waist and leaped into the water in an effort to save Middlebrook, but the victim was swept away by the current.

MOUNTING NATIONAL DEBT

By law, the federal government may not go into debt beyond $275 billion.

It's been a long time since the national debt was anywhere near that modest figure. But that's what the law says, so every year — or several times a year — the U. S. Treasury must come to Congress asking for a temporary lifting of the ceiling.

Congress always raises the roof, in more ways than one.

This year the Treasury expects the debt to amount to $311 billion by June 30th, which is the last day of fiscal year 1964. This is $2 billion above the last temporary (nine-month) ceiling reluctantly granted by the lawmakers.

Now the Treasury wants a new ceiling (hopefully to cover the entire year) of at least $320 billion — the extra $9 billion to cover necessary borrowing requirements for the first half of fiscal 1965.

The Treasury Department in general and Secretary Douglas Dillon in particular can be expected to come in for some sharp questioning by the House Ways and Means Committee and Senate Finance Committee when hearings are held shortly.

It was ever thus. But it is passing strange, for the government, in all its many bureaus, agencies, departments and what not, can spend no money not authorized by Congress. The Treasury is, in this regard, merely the agent of the legislative branch.

But the American electorate is again to be treated to the spectacle of Congress voting billions, then criticizing the Treasury for exceeding the debt limit.

Possibly it is evidence that our congressmen, despite all their burdens, have not lost their simple faith in the Good Fairy and believe that somewhere along the line between the voting and the spending something magical will happen to make everything come out all right in the end.

Or could it also be a feat of political prestidigitation — the congressmen hoping that their constituents will watch the frantically waving right hand of economy and not notice what the quiet left hand of spending is doing?

SAUCE FOR THE GANDER, TOO

According to White House physician Janet Travell, the reason women live longer than men on the average is because "a woman never retires. She keeps on doing the things she's been accustomed to doing all her life."

This should be welcome information for those men whose wives sometimes drop hints, subtle or otherwise, that they could use a little help with the housework.

Now hubby can relax in his easy chair with a clear conscience and cite the authority of Dr. Travell to explain to the little woman that he's only thinking of her health.

On the other hand, it will occur to some men that if women can add years to their lives by working around the house, it might be a good idea if they tried it, too — not to excess, of course.

DRUG REACTION DATA

The prolific fruits of drug research pose a difficult problem for the drug industry, the Food and Drug Administration and the medical profession. New Products come so fast that the testing program to measure their effectiveness and safety is hard put to keep abreast. The desire to make full use of a new drug is often in conflict with the danger of unexpected damaging side effects.

Not all possible adverse reactions can be foreseen; not all tests can be made in the laboratory. The final answer can only be gained by testing a new drug clinically — that is, by use on patients. This underscores the importance of the central registry of drug reactions established by the American Medical Association's Council on Drugs. Through it, physicians everywhere will have access to data on patient reactions to all therapeutic chemicals.

Such data has not been entirely lacking, but much of it has been scattered in medical journals. As a result, the average doctor has found it difficult or impossible to know about all the potential reactions. Now the AMA Council on Drugs has invited the nation's physicians to send information on new drugs to the central registry, and its wealth of data will be readily available. This will permit fuller and more confident use of some of medicine's most effective tools for healing.

THE POLLS HAD A BACKLASH IN OREGON

So Henry Cabot Lodge was going to win in Oregon. He didn't. So Nelson Rockefeller was washed up. He wasn't. Once again we have witnessed the fallibility of the pollsters. Or have we?

The trouble with the polls, one surmises, is not that they are wrong at any given moment. The real danger in trusting them is that they inevitably become a dynamic factor in themselves, and no one can be really sure in what direction the dynamism is going to work. The poll-based predictions that Lodge would win in Oregon resulted in two things that we know about for certain. They caused Rockefeller to grit his teeth and dig in — and the Oregon voters, admiring his dogged and Harry Truman-like courage, responded to his show of energy. On the other hand, the polls caused the Barry Goldwater forces to divert strength and time from Oregon to what seemed to them the more important problem of nailing down the California primary vote. A further complication was that the polls made the uncommitted Oregonian think twice about where the absentee candidate Lodge stood on various issues. It could have been that the uncertainty on this point led to some last-minute shifts to Rockefeller or Nixon.

Whether Goldwater made a mistake in passing up an intensive Oregon campaign is a question, but the Goldwaterites are confident that he made the correct decision. While Rockefeller was busy bidding for a small number of Oregon votes, Goldwater was using a Madison Square Garden forum in New York to make a case for himself as a regular Republican who stands on the Declaration of Principles signed by the GOP Senators in 1962. Barry, the darling of the New York conservatives, went out of his way at the Garden to praise the liberal New York Senator Kenneth Keating for supporting the 1962 Declaration of Principles. Though the crowd booed the mention of Keating, Goldwater stuck to his guns. He was talking over the heads of his immediate audience to Californians who occupy the center of the Republican Party, knowing that if they are stampeded into believing that Goldwater is himself an extremist the Rockefeller campaign in California will pick up some perhaps crucial votes.

From now on until June 2 the battle of rival publicities in California will follow the lines already laid out. Rockefeller will keep on with his effort to hang the John Birchers around Goldwater's neck. And Goldwater will be fighting to get his own position papers, none of which follow Birchite lines, read in responsible California quarters.

The first great victory in making his real positions heard was won by Goldwater when no less a person than Dwight Eisenhower told Walter Cronkite of CBS that he personally believed that "Goldwater is not as extreme as some people made him." Eisenhower went on to say that he thought the Goldwater position on TVA made sense. It was not a proposition to sell the big dams and water power generators; it was merely a proposition to let private enterprise take over in such things as the steam generators that have been grafted on to the TVA. If Eisenhower had wished to continue in this vein, he might have noted that his brother Milton's position paper on Cuba is almost word for word identical with Goldwater's own ideas of how to put an unbearable pressure on Castro without committing American soldiers to an invasion.

A second big ace card in Barry Goldwater's campaign to convince the Californians that he is in the mainstream of Republican thinking is the presence in his corner of former Senator Bill Knowland, who succeeded to Bob Taft's mantle as leader of the Republicans in the U. S. Senate. Knowland, now the editor of the Oakland Tribune, his family's paper, is in every way a solid citizen. If Goldwater wins in California and, later, in the nation as a whole, the Knowland Republicans will certainly be rewarded both in terms of influence and jobs. This should be reassuring to Republicans who have been assailed with the nonsense that the extreme Right will own Barry Goldwater if he becomes President.

Single Ounce of Liquor Able to Affect Judgment

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—How much whisky must I consume to have alcohol show in a blood test? How much would justify a drunk driving charge?

A—Since the alcohol you drink is eliminated fairly rapidly, the amount in the blood depends in part on the amount of time that has elapsed since your last drink. If the only whisky you consumed was ¾ of an ounce and you had taken it within an hour or less of the blood test, your blood alcohol level would be 1/100th of 1 per cent. There would be no appreciable effect on your behavior or your driving ability.

With one ounce, the level would be 2/100th of 1 per cent, and the alcohol would begin to affect your judgment.

With two or three ounces, the level would be 1/20th of 1 per cent, and you might be inclined to address some injudicious cracks to the police officer. Officially, however, you would still be considered sober but very close to the borderline of drunkenness. With five or six ounces the level would be 1/10th of 1 per cent, and you would be too sloshed to drive a car until you had sobered up.

Q—I have taken Bonadoxin for dizziness for about three months with good results. I would like to know what side effects might occur. Is this drug habit-forming? Will it lose its effectiveness if I continue to take it?

A—Bonadoxin is a combination of meclizine, an antihistamine that is especially useful in controlling dizziness and motion sickness. and pyridoxine, a part of the vitamin B complex that sometimes helps to control nausea.

Side effects such as drowsiness, dry mouth, and blurred vision occur only when large doses are taken. The drug is not habit-forming and it should not lose its effectiveness on prolonged use.

Q—I have been taking Vistaril for an overactive thyroid. What side effects might there be?

A—Vistaril is a brand of hydroxyzine pamoate. It is one of the antihistamines and it is used to reduce nervous tension. In the usually prescribed dosage it can be safely used for prolonged periods. In some persons it causes drowsiness and dryness of the mouth.

Q—I have heard that taking one teaspoonful of vinegar after the noon and evening meal will cause you to lose weight. Is this true and is it harmful?

A—In order to reduce you must take in fewer calories than you use up. Since vinegar furnishes no calories it will put no weight on you. If it reduces your appetite it might help you to lose weight and in the amount suggested it would not be harmful.

"I Could Use Some Advice, Champ!"

Washington News

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — New U. S. studies indicate Red China and the Soviet Union are making increasing use of their government-controlled religious organizations to subvert underdeveloped countries.

This is at a time when both Russia and Red China are conducting strong antireligious drives at home.

Red China has been making strong attempts to enlist and organize Buddhist priests and Buddhist organizations in India, Ceylon, Laos, Burma and South Viet Nam.

In the drive for Laos, the local Buddhist priests were a prime objective of the Red organizers. Once some leading Laotian Buddhists and a number of local priests were won, the Communists gained a certain amount of local "respectability" and organization work among the religious-minded peasants went easier.

The North Viet Nam Red regime is now attempting to marshal Buddhist priests for service in the South Viet Nam guerilla operations.

THE REDS MAKE IT CLEAR they thing a Buddhist priest network would make an excellent spy organization.

Priests can travel freely and usually without suspcion. They hold, too, that Buddhist priests could better win the confidence of the local Vietnamese people who might otherwise be suspicious of communism.

What success the Reds are having in their attempts to subvert Buddhist priests for the South Viet Nam war is not known.

Though it continues to persecute Buddhists, the Chinese Communist government keeps up several showplace Buddhist temples in Red China to which foreign Buddhist leaders are invited. Mao Tse-tung has put his own men in key posts in the Chinese Buddhist hierarchy. Buddhists under Red Chinese control regularly attend international meetings of Asiatic and World Buddhist groups.

A NEW, AS YET UNPUBLISHED U. S. government research paper reports:

"As an instrument of the Russian state, free of suspicion of foreign or particularist ties, the (Russian) Orthodox Church enjoys of the position of a kind of unofficial department of the Soviet Foreign Ministry, entrusted with foreign assignments better conducted in a cassock than a doublebreasted suit.

"Co-operation with the government's foreign and diplomatic activities is the price which the Orthodox Church must pay for the small and shrinking freedom of activity it enjoys within the U.S.S.R."

(Despite the Orthodox Church's usefulness to the Khrushchev regime, however, the Church and its members are now undergoing the same harsh attacks as other religious believers).

THE STUDY CONTINUES:

"There are a number of Orthodox monasteries and other small religious communities in the Middle East traditionally affiliated with the Russian Orthodox Church of the Tsars to which delegations of Russian churchmen, bearing Soviet passports, hardly ever issued to other faiths, make periodic visits.

"The solicitude of the atheistic Soviet state for the spiritual health of a few thousand Christians in the region puzzles the governments of these countries.

"Some observers interpret the exchanges of religious visits with the Ethiopian Coptic Church as a Russian desire to build it up as an African competitor to a more dangerous African rival of the Soviet Union—Islam."

"The Russian Orthodox Church has also (been trying) . . . to regain control of branches of the church in North and South America which became independent when the church in Moscow fell under the control of the Soviet authorities."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—It is 11:54 p. m. and the President of the United States has just come out of the Hotel Shelburne across the street. The crowds are held back by ropes. State troopers line both sides of Michigan Avenue from the boardwalk to Pacific Avenue. Secret Service men, bareheaded, stand in the middle of the street looking up at hotel windows. Others are in silhouette on the rooftops.

It is impossible to protect our President. I am in room 102A at the Hotel Dennis. The room is on the third floor and, as President Johnson waves his arms over his head, he is exactly 225 feet away. I can see him without leaning out of the window. He stops to bend into the crowd, shaking hands with both hands.

The lights of the marqueee over his head are bright. He is tan, and he has the alert healthy expression of a man who enjoys meeting people. On the curb, his appointment secretary, Kenneth O'Donnell, stands with arms folded, waiting. Mr. O'Donnell has been through these scenes with President Kennedy. So have the men of the White House Secret Service detail. They grow gray young, watching strange faces in crowds, trying to protect Chiefs of State who complain that the Secret Service stands between them and the "people."

We drove into Atlantic City a little after 5 p. m. We passed old Bader Field, a place where little planes take off with restaurant advertisements streaming out behind them. President Johnson was due any minute. Crowds lined the edge of the airport, and policemen were everywhere. The Chief of Police of this city had them on rooftops with guns, even standing on top of monuments.

Army helicopters scoured the blue sky, keeping it clear of strange aircraft. Any farmer, squatting in the marshes between Pleasantville and the airport, could have hit the President's aircraft. It was big, and it came in low. A shot which could snap a rotor blade would have been enough. The President is here to help Governor Richard Hughes raise funds for the Democratic party. The convention will be held here this summer, and the only excitement in town is who will be Mr. Johnson's Vice President.

The man who worries the most is State Attorney General Arthur Sills. He was a polio victim as a child, and he wears braces and uses a cane. He is known as a lawyer's lawyer. As the man in charge of State Troopers, he anticipates the worst and guards against it. The task is impossible. He sits in a car with his attractive miniature, Mina Sills, and studies the sky with the frown of a man who expects rain.

He knows that he cannot keep the President under a bullet-proof glass bell. He also knows that all Presidents, with the exception of Dwight D. Eisenhower, fight their protectors. They wave their own White House detail away from the official car. The President always makes himself a conspicuous target by standing in his car and waving both arms above his head.

Ironically, the President gets more protection in his home than abroad. In the White House, I have found that I cannot move from one room to another, or down a corridor, without being stopped by a tall man with good manners. This is where he needs protection the least. James Rowley, Chief of the Secret Service, was a young grinning fellow with wavy hair when he protected President Harry Truman.

Now he is gray and his face is lined. He parks in the White House driveway and studies the faces of visitors even though it is not part of his duty. Rowley refuses to admit that the assignment is impossible. If he was here now, standing beside me inside these three bay windows, he would be shocked.

Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley, President-elect Roosevelt, Truman and Kennedy—each faced an assassin and we lost four of this six. Now we have a man who is beginning to show confidence in his conduct of American affairs, a man whose personal idol was Franklin D. Roosevelt, a man who enjoys meeting strangers looking them in the eye and shaking hands.

It is not going to be easy. He comes a little closer to where I stand in a darkened room diagonally over his head. All the men below could not protect him from me. The President walks around to the back of his big black car and now he is even closer. Someone opens the rear, right-hand door.

I grieve for him because he senses no danger. He is in no hurry. Sometimes, on television, I study the face of Mrs. Johnson and I see tension in the nervous little smile as she threads her way through a crowd with her husband. She knows. She knows better than he that none of it is worth the risk.

The car starts down the street. The crowd cheers. A Secret Service man stands in a second car, looking up at windows. Four others race beside the President's car. Two press cars follow. In a moment, Michigan Avenue is empty. The crowd disperses.

There was no danger at all. It was all in my nervous mind . . .

Civil Rights Bill May Cost Congress Seats in Election

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Many of the present members of Congress who won their seats by very close margins are getting out their pencils and trying to figure what would happen in the election next November if as little as 5 per cent of the vote deserted them and crossed over to the other party. It's a dilemma that faces both Republicans and Democrats.

The Democratic party has 76 seats more than the Republicans in the House of Representatives, and if 36 seats should be lost, control of the House would shift to the Republican party.

But in the coming campaign, the "civil rights" issue is likely to invade both parties. While the election could leave the Democrats in control, it might actually mean in the session beginning next January the loss of a majority behind any further "civil rights" legislation and a resurgence of an opposition coalition of both parties.

Many people may think the "civil rights" controversy will be over when the pending bill in the Senate is enacted this year, but the fact is large appropriations will be necessary—possibly many hundreds of millions of dollars—to enforce the most far-reaching statutes that will have been passed since Prohibition days. The cost of enforcing Prohibition laws was heavy not only because of the need for more government agents to detect those who were violating the law but also because of the expenses of court procedures and legal processes involved.

The Republican party faces losses of seats, just as do the Democrats, on the "civil rights" issue in the coming campaign, because this question cuts both ways. A Republican, for example, who has voted in the House for the "civil rights" measure is likely to be opposed in the primaries by someone in his own party attempting to garner the anti-"civil rights" vote. Even if the incumbent is nominated, however, on his own party ticket, the aspirant in the opposite party for the same seat will also endeavor to get the benefit of all the discontent.

The technique that is expected to develop is a familiar one. Thus, in the case of "civil rights," especially in Northern and Western areas, certain candidates either in the primaries of both parties or in the final election will express approval for the principle of equal rights and equal rights and equal opportunity. But the incumbent member of the House who actually voted for the bill will face opposition because of all the flaws and defects in the legislation itself, to which attention wil be directed on the stump.

In the matter of "public accommodations," for example, a candidate may contend that discrimination should be abolished. But he will object to the methods by which the Federal government attempts to interfere with the operation of hotels, motels, restaurants, barber shops and other facilities that are covered by the pending bill. Also, many people who favor school desegregation do not like the idea of being required to open their business establishments to persons whom they may not like.

Perhaps the biggest single issue will arise on the question of hiring employees, or what is known as discrimination in employment practices. In areas where there is a predominance of white voters, fears have already been expressed that whites may lose their jobs because of the pressure placed upon employers to hire Negroes in order to get or retain a government contract. It is widely reported that mere discussion of this very phase of "civil rights" legislation has already turned public sentiment in many parts of the country against the pending measure.

The House of Representatives has, of course, already voted on the "civil rights" legislation, so the roll-call of members is a matter of record, but an aspirant who tries to take away the seat of an incumbent will find plenty of defects in the legislation itself and will argue that the bill should have been amended in the House.

The inference will be that the candidate making such criticism would have voted for revisions of the bill if he had been a member of the House. The emphasis will be on a change of seats, and the voters who are discontented with respect to various phases of "civil rights" will be expected to line up either against the Republican or Democrat who actually did vote for the "civil rights" legislation.

Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia said the other day that the Maryland vote revealed a "groundswell among the people of this country," and he predicted that when the people become aware that the government is trying to force social equality, it will be an issue in every Congressional race. He added:

"As I told the leader of this nation (President Johnson) in the only conversation I have had with him on this bill, he may pass this bill, but he will have more new faces in Congress in the next four to six years than any President has ever had."

There are at least 40 districts in which Democrats won seats in the House in the 1962 election by a vote of 55 per cent or less. These marginal districts are nearly all in the Northern or border states.

But inasmuch as many Republicans also have voted for the "civil rights" legislation, a number of Republican seats will similarly be challenged by a "cross-over" among the voters.

Diplomas Given To 247 Wallkill Prison Inmates

Two hundred forty-seven inmates of Wallkill Prison were given 318 diplomas and certificates for education achievement at the 6th annual graduation exercises conducted Wednesday.

Of this number 18 men were granted the New York State high school regents diploma and 66 men received high school equivalency diplomas.

During the past year, more than 620 inmates received instruction in the prison's educational program. Some 430 of these were enrolled in vocational education in the areas of automobile repair, carpentry, radio and television repair, electronics, barbering, tailoring, machine shop practice, masonry, blacksmithing, welding, baking, cooking and laundry practice.

Warden Gratified

Dr. Walter M. Wallack, warden of this medium security prison, expressed his satisfaction at the large number of men involved in the educational activities of the institution and congratulated the recipients of diplomas for using their time productively — making it serve them. In commenting upon the splendid music and art program available to the inmates, Dr. Wallack noted the high cultural peak reached in these areas under the direction of Edward Bizzell and Samuel Segall, teachers of these subjects respectively.

Samuel Moreno, education director at the institution, opened the program and spoke briefly to the graduates.

The Rev. George Hann, Protestant chaplain, delivered the invocation and the Rev. John Meade, Catholic chaplain gave the benediction. Other Wallkill officials participating were Lloyd E. Whipple, deputy warden, Walter J. Mason, assistant deputy warden, Neil J. O'Connor, vocational supervisor and Charles J. Scanlan, supervisor of academic education. Teachers, Instructors and other members of the educational staff were present.

Moreno introduced the main speaker, Robert J. Robinson, supervising principal of Wallkill Central School, who congratulated the students on the various diplomas and certificates that they received and reminded the recipients that no man's education is ever completed.

Distributes Diplomas

Warden Wallack introduced David A. Freer, a member of the Wallkill Central School Board and Correction Officer at the prison, and distributed diplomas and certificates; which, in addition to the regents and equivalency diplomas, included the following: International Correspondence Schools, 58 diplomas; Knights of Columbus, 2 diplomas; Salvation Army Bible Course, 6 diplomas.

Of the 430 men enrolled in the vocational section of the prison training program since May 1 of last year, 122 received the State Education Department Diplomas for satisfactory completion of prescribed courses of study under certified instructors.

PATROLMEN HONOR YOUNG HERO—Robert Sickler Jr., 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Sickler of 16 Hunter Street received a Citizens Citation Award and a $25 Savings Bond from Kingston Patrolmen's Association at the Thursday night meeting of Kingston Board of Police Commissioners. Young Sickler was honored for his heroic rescue of a downtown boy who had fallen into Rondout Creek May 12. At the presentation ceremonies here are (l-r) Mr. and Mrs. Sickler, Anthony Williams, 6, of 49 Meadow Street, the boy that was rescued; young Sickler (holding citation) and John Crespino, president of the Patrolmen's Association, who is also a secretary of the Police Conference of New York State. He'd March Again Against Segregation

United Presbyterians Elect First Negro Board Chairman

By HUELL WARREN JR.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—Edler G. Hawkins nervously fingered the two silver crosses, fused and hung from a long chain around his neck.

"Yes, I'll march on the line again," he said, "if the occasion demands it. One belonging to a minority has a kind of special understanding of what happens."

First Negro Chairman

His eyes glistened and he measured his words. Of the 3.3 million members of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., he is one of the 5 per cent who are Negroes; and the church's General Assembly had just elected him its moderator. For the first time, a Negro would be "chairman of the board" for a year and speak in unison with Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, the assembly's Stated Clerk and chief executive officer.

The Rev. Mr. Hawkins is 55, and in 26 years under his ministry St. Augustine Presbyterian Church in New York's Bronx has grown from nine members to more than a thousand.

More Than Sermon

His election will be more eloquent than any sermon," said J. Vernon Lloyd, an attorney from Danville, Calif., who put Hawkins in nomination and later was appointed vice moderator.

"In this measure at least," said Dr. Blake, "we have become color blind. It marks the direction in which the church intends to go."

Long Way to Go

"We have a long way to go," the new moderator said, "and my first concern is to bring all the resources of our church to bear for the passage of the civil rights bill stalemated in the Senate."

The fused Celtic crosses he fingered are a talisman of another major concern. The Presbyterian Church of Scotland gave the crosses several years ago to the moderators of the three main Presbyterian branches in the United States.

Two were fused after the merger which resulted in the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. in 1958. The other is held by the moderator of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S., the dominant body in the South.

The Rev. Mr. Hawkins, elected moderator Thursday, received 465 of the 833 votes in a contest with the Rev. A. Ray Cartlidge of Erie, Pa.

The assembly continues through Thursday.

Kodak Dividend

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The Eastman Kodak Co. will pay a dividend of 55 cents a share of common stock July 1 to stockholders of record June 1. The company declared the dividend Thursday.

Deaths

SYOSSET, N.Y. (AP) — Sir Thomas Ashley Sparks, 87, former chief Cunard line representative in the United States and onetime director of the line, died Thursday.

NEW YORK (AP)—Margaret Downey, 42, wife of the former singing star Morton Downey, died Thursday. Mrs. Downey underwent an operation for cancer some time ago. Downey was a popular radio singer in the 1930s but in recent years he turned to business as a career.

Will Check Idea Of State Pageant Day at N. Y. Fair

There is a possibility that a Miss New York State Pageant Day will be scheduled at the New York World's Fair.

Albert Kurdt, manager of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce and head of the State Pageant this year, will confer with the special events staff of the New York State Commission of the World's Fair Saturday. The various possibilities will be discussed and the Pageant board of directors will consider the question at a meeting next Thursday, May 28.

Kurdt will visit the World's Fair tomorrow, accompanied by Joseph Foley of New Paltz, to participate in the Ulster County-Kingston Honor Day program. Thomas Wickham, another member of the committee also will be there. Sixteen groups from all parts of Ulster County will perform during the day between 10 a. m. and 8:30 p. m. in the New York State Pavilion.

The opinion was expressed that the Miss New York State Pageant, held here July 9, 10 and 11, would receive a great deal of publicity if arrangements can be made to have most of the contestants appear at the World's Fair prior to the Pageant here.

Patron tickets, at a nominal price, are now available for the Miss New York State Pageant. The purchase of patron tickets may be considered as a contribution toward the support of this major statewide promotional event or may be redeemed for the best seats at the performances. Herman G. Rafalowsky, chairman of the pageant ticket committee, said that the purchase of a large number of patron tickets would assure Kingston being awarded the state franchise by the Miss America Pageant year after year.

Judy Refuses Calls at Hotel

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Judy Garland locked herself in her hotel today after her Australian concert tour ended in a chorus of public indignation.

Her 21 pieces of luggage packed, the singer was scheduled to leave for Hong Kong although she canceled two early flights.

Miss Garland refused to accept any calls in her penthouse suite and a guard stood outside.

"Why would Judy want to see anyone in Sydney after this dreadful thing in this morning's paper?" asked Karl Brent, her manager.

"Judy would like to punch a few Sydney people on the nose."

Jeered during a concert she cut short in Melbourne on Wednesday night, Miss Garland continued to draw critical comments for her performance at the Melbourne airport Thursday.

Sydney newspapers gave frontpage display to stories of how she shouted "No, no!" as she was pushed aboard the plane by actor Mark Herron her traveling companion, and three airport officials.

"She had been talking to fans and kissing babies," Brent said. "Her skirt started to slip a little. Judy turned round to fix it up. That was all there was to it. That is why it might have appeared she was hustled aboard the plane."

"From now on so far as Miss Garland is concerned, that's it" said Condoli. "No more for me."

Teacher to Get Pay

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The State Board of Education has upheld the appeal of a school teacher fired on charges involving class procedure and for calling pupils "wall-to-wall idiots."

The board held Thursday that Howard Weld, a science teacher at Stockbridge until his dismissal March 23, must be paid for his present contract which runs for the rest of the year.

Werbalowsky President

President of the Key Club at Kingston High School is Allen Werbalowsky, and chairman of the drive that raised $1,225 for Kingston City Library is Donald Wolf. Their titles were inadvertently reversed under a photo Thursday which showed them presenting a check for the amount to library officials.

Organizer Will Visit CORE Unit

Robert Gore, national field representative of the Congress of Racial Equality, will be in Kingston Saturday to attend a meeting called for 4 p. m. at the newly organized Ulster County CORE headquarters, 18 Mill Street, Kingston.

Gore's purpose in coming to Ulster County will be to inspect the local organization and to assess its present capabilities and its potential as a co-ordinated non-violent action group working to bring about an immediate end to discrimination against the Negro in housing and employment. The meeting is open to the public.

Artists Association Slates Opening Exhibition June 5

The 1964 forty ninth exhibition calendar and other plans have been announced by the Woodstock Artists Association.

Eight shows are planned with the opener on June 5 scheduled to be an Invitational in which Life Members Choose Three.

Franklin Alexander is chairman of the executive board. Other officers for 1964 are: Dan Gottschalk, vice chairman; Nancy Summers, recording secretary; Jane Jones, treasurer; Mary Orser, membership chairman; Bea S. Gardner, publicity; Robert Cenedella, exhibitions; Tom Riley, house committee.

Phyllis Ott will be the extension and corresponding secretary and Barbara Neustadt will serve as special events and corresponding secretary.

The 1964 show schedule:

June 5-June 18—Invitational, Life Members Choose Three; June 19-July 2; All-Membership Show, all media, purchase prize.

July 3-July 16—Figure show, all media, 3-man jury; July 17-July 30—Pop Art and Construction, invitational and juried.

July 31-August 13—Recent Work Show, oil and sculpture, juried.

Aug. 28-Sept. 10—Invitational, 5 painters, two sculptors, selection by the board.

Sept. 11-Sept. 25—Edward Millman Memorial show.

Plan Symposia

The Extension Committee has planned a series of Gallery Evenings and Symposia for this season. Dates and subjects to be announced.

Any resident of the community of Woodstock may submit work to shows, except for All-Membership shows. There is no hanging fee.

New applicants for Active Membership in the association must submit to an Admission Jury in order to become eligible. Information regarding the admission jury may be obtained from the gallery attendant.

Norma Millman will be the gallery manager. The graphic workshop at the rear of the building will be directed by Lillian Lent. Full information may be obtained from the gallery manager.

Gallery Hours

Gallery openings are from 3 to 6 p. m. on Fridays. The gallery hours are: Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, 1 p. m. to 5:30 p. m.; Wednesday - Thursday, closed; Friday and Saturday, 1 p. m. to 6 p. m. and 7 p. m. to 9 p. m.

WAA members wishing to send paintings to the Albany "Artists of the Upper Hudson" exhibition can do so by bringing one or two paintings to the WAA gallery.

A special meeting of the Woodstock Artists Association has been called for Saturday, June 13, at 8 p. m. at the WAA gallery to vote on a proposed change in the by-laws, reducing a quorum from the present "one half of the active membership" to 10 per cent of the active membership.

Retirement Plan Is Explained to Local Rotarians

Woodstock Rotarians were treated to a presentation and discussion of the "Keogh Act," a tax-exempt retirement program led by Robert J. Baron of the investment firm of the same name, and Peter J. C. Adam, representing Calvin Bullock, investment brokers of New York city.

The central feature of the act, as explained by Adam, is that it allows a self-employed individual who has earned income from his trade or business to establish a formal retirement plan which, if it fulfills the requirements for qualification under the Internal Revenue Code, will enable him to enjoy many of the tax advantages previously available only to employees of businesses which had adopted qualified pension or profit sharing plans. At the close of the discussion, material was made available to the membership.

During the regular business meeting, Jim Post donated $50.00 in memory of the late Wendell Jones, to be used as a schlarship gift to a student of the Town of Woodstock who has shown the Spirit of Rotary, "Service Above Self." Each year in the future a similar gift will be awarded by the Woodstock club.

A $100 check was donated to the club by Mrs. Louis Wald in memory of her husband, Louis Wald, who was a member of the club and passed away four years ago. During the past four years, Mrs. Wald has made similar donations. The heartfelt appreciation of Woodstock Rotary was expressed by the president, Loryne Connick.

Reformed Church News and Notes

A church family night beginning with a pot-luck supper will be held Saturday, May 23 at 6:30 at the Woodstock Reformed Church, the Rev. Donald Edgar Hicks, minister. The supper will be followed at 7:30 with one of the "Sermons From Science Films" now playing at the New York World's Fair.

The Sunday theme at the 11 a .m. morning worship is "The Unbroken Chain" with music by the choir, with Mrs. Richard Braen directing and Mrs. Carll Harrington at the organ and carillon. A nursery is provided for the care of small children during the worship hour.

Sunday church school is scheduled at 9:30 a. m., with preschool children at the church house in back of the church on Old Forge Lane. All others report to the church proper. Adult Bible class meets with Mrs. Artinian at 9:30 a. m. Communicants' Class members report back to their regular church school teachers.

Junior Christian Endeavor meets at 4:30 p. m. No Senior C.E. because of Confirmation. Service of Confirmation with Communion is open to all in attendance with the class at 8 p. m., with the class to report at 7:20 p. m. with gowns.

The weekly calendar:

Monday — Boy Scout troop meeting, 7 p. m.; Tuesday—11 a. m., Guild Prayer Group at the Lamonte Simpkins' home; Wednesday—Brownies meet at 1:30 p. m.; annual May luncheon at the White Horse Inn at 12:30 p. m. The speaker will be Delmar Thiesse of the Elmendorph Chapel in East Harlem.

Thursday—church choir rehearsal, 8 p. m.

Citizens Committee Sets Monday Meeting

A meeting of the Onteora Citizens Committee will be held on Monday, May 25, at 8 p. m. at the Woodstock school to discuss and act on further steps concerning a satisfactory school budget for 1964-65.

The defeat of the budget has raised the possibility of an austerity budget unless an affirmative majority can be assured at the June 16 special vote.

Superintendent of Schools George R. Sullivan will be present to answer questions on the budget and explain the affects of an austerity budget. The main purpose of the meeting will be to discuss means of informing the public and assuring a strong vote in Woodstock township. All interested parents and others are urged to attend to safeguard the education of the children.

Jaycees Slate Anther Circus

The Woodstock Junior Chamber of Commerce announces that it will again this year sponsor the circus for Woodstock. This year's show will be given on Sunday, July 5, and will feature the Von Brothers 3 Ring Circus and Wild Animal Menagerie.

This yearf's circus features many new animals including a hippopotamus and a three ring performance with a full band. Only a matinee performance is scheduled unless demand calls for an evening show.

Tickets will be available from any member of the Woodstock Jaycees during the month of June. Tickets will be sold at various locations in the town during the week preceding the show.

Formulate Plans For AFS Groups

Final plans are being formulated for the AFS bus trip group which will arrive in the Onteora district area on July 7. Several families have contacted Mrs. Harry W. Carle, chairman, of Mt. Tremper asking to host students. More homes will be needed as there are a total of 44 students and two chaperones.

Persons interested in hosting one or two of the foreign students in their homes from July 7 to July 10 are asked to call Mrs. Carle.

As a dividend, at the end of the school year AFS/N.Y., organizes bus trips to broaden the foreign students picture of the United States. Volunteer groups in communities across the nation are hosts for several days of this three-week period. From past reports, this has been a rewarding experience for the Americans they meet and live with and an opportunity for Onteora families to enjoy knowing more AFSer's.

The Catskills have great intrinsic beauty and many advantages to offer these visitors. To name a few; fishing, hiking, trips to the Ashokan Reservoir, Belleayre Mt., Woodstock, the Senate House in Kingston, North Lake, etc.

The requirements are few. Not more than two students to a home. They may share a room but each must have a bed of his own. Entertainment to be in an informal home atmosphere and the host family must be responsible for all transportation.

Students are to be met by host families at the Onteora Central School building in Boiceville, on Tuesday, July 7 at 3 p. m. and be returned to the school building, for departure at 9 a. m. Friday July 10.

The only activity, scheduled for the group is a Student Council Panel Discussion, to be held at the Central School Thursday evening July 9 at 7:30.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Peekers into the future have new reason today to see everything coming up rosey. Some of the most reliable business indicators of things to come are taking on healthier glows after a period of hesitation.

Busy Schedule Ahead

Factory orders for durable goods took a big jump in April to a record high of $20.6 billion, a 7 per cent climb in one month. Although shipments also set a record, the orders poured in at such a rate that the backlog of unfilled orders advanced to $49 billion. That all but guarantees busy schedules for many factories for weeks and even months to come.

A happy factor in the flow of orders a s spring got going is that it marks a rebound from two months of retreat from the previous peak in January. The February and March trend had given the prognosticators pause. Many feared that the upsurge in the economy in the final weeks of 1963 might be leveling off, or worse.

New orders strengthen earlier reports that industrial production as a whole was climbing and employment increasing more than seasonally. The record order backlog should keep output on the upgrade for May and probably June.

Consumer Prospects Bright

At the consumer level the prospects are bright, too. Personal income has risen to a new high of $483.1 billion, at an annual rate. Business translates this into more spendable dollars to be tapped for finished goods or for services.

Cash dividend payments rose to $1.13 billion in April, 9 per cent more money than stockholders got in the like 1963 month.

Merchants have come to watch dividend payments as an index to what to expect, or hope for, since many happy recipients of increased payments spend them quickly at the stores. Retailers of luxury goods often are the greatest beneficiaries of this windfall.

Others are the recreation and travel industries, and purveyors of personal services.

Housing Starts Ebb

Housing starts are drooping a bit. Permits for future construction also slumped a little in April.

But housing experts warn that the industry is a tricky one, with month to month changes the rule and trends hard to spot. Some federal authorities have been expecting a slowdown in home construction, and especially apartment building, after the big spurt last year. Vacancies in many communities have been mounting, cooling the ardor of builders.

The consumer is still spending for other things, however. And the competition for his dollar is keen.

SHOKAN NEWS

SHOKAN—Mr. and Mrs. Burdett Clark, Broadway, and Mr. Mrs. Nelson Smith, Lucas Avenue were among the many Kingston residents calling in the hub of the reservoir country Sunday.

Also in town Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cosmen and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Cosmen, East Orange, N. J. The elder Cosmen, a friend of John Aalto, Ashokan water supply chief engineer, is connected with the New York City finance department. Roger Cosmen, formerly a department manager at Lord & Taylor, is now loan officer at one of the large metropolitan banks. The two families are frequent visitors to the Mt. Tremper area each summer.

Schuyler Van Loan, Athens, has turned over to the Green County Historical Society museum a bound book of recepts and stubs of the old Howland warehouse, Athens. The books pertain to thousands of bales of hay and straw shipped down the river to supply Union Army cavalry and artillery regiments during the Civil War years 1863-65. Shipments of fodder by Hudson River sloops were light from late December to March 1 but during other months drew heavily upon farms in the neighboring county.

The Charles Relyea Jr. sale of dairy cattle last week Tuesday drew farmers from as far away as Carmel across the river. The Relyeas live on the one time George Barclay place high up against Tonche Mountain. The old Barclay farm is now a part of the vast Pitcairn holdings north of Temple's Pond.

Theodore Peck, Kingston who was stationed at Fort Stevens during his term of miltary service, was a Shokan caller Tuesday. He is a descendant of Darius Hover who kept a general store down the Esopus Creek from the old village of Brodhead.

Having a birthday May 25 is Dr. Ralph Elfant, elder son of Joseph and Rose Cohen Elfant, who now makes his home in the Los Angeles area.

R. Bennett and Principal J. Moule of the new Onteora School District recently accompanied members of the state board of education on a 753-mile trip to inspect different school buildings with a view to obtain ideas for the proposed big education center at Boiceville. Future trips along this line will take the officials to points down the Hudson and on Long Island.

Residents of the Ashokan, Glenford and West Hurley Methodist Charge welcome the Rev. Milton H. Ryan who comes here from Downsville, Delaware County. The churches have not had a resident pastor since last summer when the Rev. Wayne Williams resigned to go to New Jersey. The Rev. Dow McBain, Phoenicia, has been the faithful supply minister during these intervening months. It is interesting to note, in connection with recent Conference changes, that the Rev. Stanley Jones, former Ashokan boy and communicant of the Methodist Church here, who went to the Treadwell Church six years ago, is now the regular pastor at Highland. The young clergyman's father, Spencer Jones, an Ashokan Reservoir department foreman, is one of Ulster County's leading Methodist workers.

Planes Startle Jersey

MCGUIRE AIR FORCE BASE, N.J. (AP)—A low level supersonic boom startled residents of three New Jersey counties early today and touched off reports of a huge explosion in the central shore area of the state.

The sonic boom was produced by a plane participating in an Air Force training exercise, an Air Force spokesman said.

The exercise, called Top Rung 4, is a joint operation by the Strategic Air Command and the Air Defense Command, in which subsonic and supersonic booms, both at high and low altitudes, would occur, he said.

In scope, the exercise covered the northeastern United States and as far south as South Carolina and as far west as Chicago.

India Seeks F-104s

WASHINGTON (AP)—India is asking the United States to sell it three squadrons of F104 Sabre jet supersonic fighters as part of the Indian defense build-up against Communist China, diplomatic sources said today.

The jets would cost an estimated $150 million.

While no decision has yet been reached, sources indicated the Indian request was running into State Department resistance on the grounds such a sale would upset U.S. relations with Pakistan.

COLLEGE CLUB GETS CHARTER—The Circle K Club of Ulster County Community College formally received its charter of organization at a recent dinner at Williams Lake Hotel. Emil T. Bejsovec, second from left, New York District chairman of the committee on Circle K Clubs, presents charter to William H. Yates, president of the club at the college. Also in the photo on the left is Lloyd R. LeFever, president of Kingston Kiwanis and Ronald Goldleaf, vice-president of the Circle K Club. The Circle K Club is not a social fraternity but a service organization for college men operating on the campus and is similar to Kiwanis and other service clubs. It is a leadership and character-building group which serves the campus and the community.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman didn't show up at his office Thursday and later his wife announced he had cancelled a trip to Lexington, Va.

"He has a stomach upset and doesn't feel like making the trip," said Mrs. Truman.

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru appeared today at his first news conference since he suffered a stroke last January.

Nehru seemed weaker than usual and at times his voice was barely audible. But when a newsman asked the 74-year-old prime minister whether or not it would be democratic for him to settle on someone to succeed him in his lifetime, Nehru replied with a broad smile: "My lifetime is not ending."

MOSCOW (AP) — Marlene Dietrich opened a Soviet tour to a sell - out audience that brought her back for 15 minutes of curtain calls.

The crowd of 1,350 in a Moscow variety theater included Yekaterina Furtseva, Soviet culture minister.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham says the U.S. Supreme Court erred in even considering the issue of reading in prayer and Bible public schools.

"The Supreme Court was wrong in even tackling the problem," he said, "because now it will have to rule on chaplains in the armed forces, 'In God We Trust' on our coins, chaplains in Congress and even chaplains in the Supreme Court itself."

Will Name Scranton

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Pennsylvania Republican leaders concerned themselves with selection of national committee members and plans for the party's national convention as they arrived here today for two days of meetings.

The delegates were set to select Gov. Scranton as chairman of the Pennsylvania Republican delegation. The state's 113-member state committee meets Saturday and is expected to reelect Craig Truax to a two-year term as state chairman.

Truax said Thursday the leaders would select Thomas B. McCabe, board chairman of the Scott Paper Co., and one of the governor's political advisors, to the post of national committeeman.

Greene Drivers Hurt In Coxsackie Crash

Two Greene County motorists were injured when their cars collided Thursday afternoon on a county road in the Town of Coxsackie near Midway in that county.

State Police at the Leeds substation said Joseph A. Caputo, 24, of West Coxsackie, suffered chest injuries, while Jessie E. Boyd, 78, of Surprise, suffered facial cuts. They said Caputo was driving eastbound on the county road near Route 81 and Mrs. Boyd was headed west when their cars collided on a curve. The injured were treated by Dr. Sol Yarvin.

Husband, Wife Die Within Hours at Home

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—A husband and wife from Oxford, N.Y., died within eight hours of each other in a convalescent home Thursday. Both were 86 years old.

They were Mr. and Mrs. James E. McEneny. She died first. He was a retired self-employed farmer.

Survivors include a son, Francis, of Batavia, N.Y., and two daughters.

Funeral services will be held in Oxford.

Capitol News In Brief

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

SCHOOL PRAYERS: A Roman Catholic law professor says the record of the Supreme Court in the area of freedom of religion and church-state relations has been very good.

It would be neither desirable nor wise to amend the Constitution to undo the court's school Bible reading and prayer decisions, adds Prof. Chester J. Antieau, who teaches constitutional law at Georgetown University.

Antieau testified Thursday before the House Judiciary Committee, which wound up its fifth week of hearings on a variety of proposed amendments which were prompted by the court's ban on public school religious exercises. The hearings are now in recess until Wednesday.

PASSPORTS: A bill to extend the validity of the passport to five years and raise its price by a dollar was introduced in the House Thursday.

American citizens now can get passports initially valid for three years, plus a single two-year extension upon application for a renewal. The fee is $9.

CATHOLIC MASS: Decrees authorizing extensive use of English in the Roman Catholic Mass and other of the church's rituals in the United States were made public Thursday.

The changes will go into effect later in the year after publication and distribution of new liturgical books. his may not be until the start of the church year, Advent Sunday, Nov. 29.

Title Seven, Civil Rights Bill

Equal Opportunity One of Two Which Break Ground for Law

EDITOR'S NOTE—In the 11 weeks of the Senate civil rights debate, scores of amendments have been proposed to clarify, strengthen or weaken various parts of the bill. One provision attracting a major share of the suggested changes is the equal opportunity provision. The following article, the second of a three-part series on the bill's provisions, explains the equal opportunity title and the voter rights provision as they stand now and some of the proposals for changing them.

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the 11 weeks of Senate debate and cloakroom bargaining on the civil rights bill, much of the attention has focused on the equal employment section.

Counting on Changes

It has attracted a large share of the scores of amendments proposed to change the bill.

The equal opportunity section, known as Title Seven, is one of two provisions which break ground for federal law. The other is the public accommodations provision aimed at discrimination in hotels and motels restaurants and amusement places.

Republican and Democratic Senate leaders and administration officials have accepted a number of amendments to the job title as part of a whole package of changes. They hope the proposed changes will win the bill the two-thirds majority needed to break the Southern filibuster.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, chief author of the compromise package of amendments, is fond of pointing out there was no equal employment provision in the original civil rights bill submitted to Congress last year by the late President John F. Kennedy.

But Dirksen has said he can support its retention if his suggestions for changing it are accepted.

Would Ban Bias

As the bill cleared the House, it would ban discrimination in any phase of employment or membership on the part of employers, unions or employment agencies on grounds of race, color, religion, national origin or sex.

It would apply to companies and unions with 100 or more employes or members in the first year, 75 or more in the second, 50 or more in the third, and 25 thereafter.

A five - member Equal Employment Opportunity Commission would be created to receive complaints.

The commission is directed to try to settle any complaint by conciliation and persuasion. But if those methods fail, it may bring an injunction suit to end the discrimination.

Dirksen's agreed - upon package of amendments would modify this so that the commission could call on the attorney general to bring a suit only if a pattern of discrimination existed.

In individual cases, the aggrieved person would have to file suit, although the attorney general would be allowed to intervene.

Under the House bill, the federal commission could allow a state or local agency to handle a complaint if it found that the agency was functioning effectively.

More Power to States

Dirksen's amendments would strengthen power of the states by giving them exclusive jurisdiction of any case for a specific period. Thirty-one states now have fair employment practices laws of some type.

Southern senators simply want Title Seven eliminated.

They argue that it would give the federal government far too much power to interfere in hiring, firing and promotions.

The voting rights section of the House bill, Title One, would extend the federal powers in this field contained in the 1957 Civil Rights Act.

It would require that identical standards be applied to all voters in elections for federal officials, provide that immaterial errors on registration forms must be disregarded, and require that literacy tests must be in writing unless the individual agrees to an oral test.

In voter discrimination suits brought by the attorney general under the 1957 law, the presumption is created by the 1964 bill that a sixth-grade education is sufficient to meet the literacy test.

The attorney general is allowed to request that a three-judge court be set up to hear such suits.

Southern senators bitterly attack the latter provision, contending it would allow the attorney general to shop around for a favorable court.

They also insist that the title constitutes an additional interference with the right of states to control their own elections.

Time to Gas Up

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. (AP) Anthony Sposato never knows whether folk who drive up to his filling station want gasoline or to see his autique clocks. There are 40 clocks in the station here and 100 more at his home in Purchase. Sposato has been collecting clocks since 1939. The timepieces at the filling stations have been given him by customers who "clean their attics," Sposato said. He has a grandfather clock he estimates was made about 1760 and what he believes may be the first battery-run clock made in this country. The clock can run a year on three cell batteries. Part of the job of keeping the clocks ticking belongs to Sposat's brother, Angelo, who works at the station — and whose hobby is racing pigeons.

Wildlife Management

ALTON, Ill. (AP) — Ralph, a Peruvian anteater, is providing Jack Lupien, a Principia College biology major, with plenty of wildlife problems. Lupien, who plans to take up conservation and wildlife management after graduation, has to mix its special feed and keep it caged in his bedroom. A sister sent him the baby anteater as a combination Christmas and birthday present. When the two-month-old creature is two years old it will be six feet long and will be able to nuzzle the foundation from beneath a building to get at ants. But Ralph so far has not eaten any ants. "He's never had to," Lupien said. He gets a mixture of sweet potatoes, milk, raw eggs and ground beef.

Dock Ceremony To Honor Sea Dead on Sunday

Final plans and principal speakers for dock ceremonies honoring sea dead were announced today by Mrs. Thomas Hughes, president of the Ladies Auxiliary of Joyce-Schirick Post 1386, Veterans of Foreign Wars, sponsors of the ceremonies.

The annual event will be held Sunday, at the Freeman Dock at the foot of Canal Street at 3 p. m. Guest Speaker will be Lt. David Larish, U. S. Naval Reserve.

The invocation will be given by the Rev. Clarance E. Brown, chaplain of the American Legion. A solo will be sung by Richard Scherer of Kingston following which will be a brief address by Mayor John J. Schwenk. In closing the benediction will be given by the Rev. Edward Kelly, chaplain of the VFW Post 1386.

The public may attend these services honoring veterans of all wars who died at sea while protecting the liberty and freedom of America.

There's Little Doubt He Enjoys Job

Word Portrait of L. B. Johnson With Aim to Be President of All

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just six months to the day since he ascended to the presidency, Lyndon B. Johnson is a contented, confident man who has seared an unmistakeable LBJ brand on the White House.

The duties and responsibilities are heavy and they press down on the man more heavily than he had once thought. There's a little more salting of gray in his dark hair, especially in back.

But there is nothing of doubt and much of assurance these days in the manner of the President.

Definitely he likes his job and wants to keep it. He feels comfortable and secure in it, although he is too good a politician to believe he is completely safe.

It wasn't that way at the start, when he took over the helm of government from the slain John F. Kennedy last Nov. 22.

Crowded Change

Much of the change apparently was compressed into six days in April.

Then it was that a five-year rail dispute that had threatened to explode into a calamitous nationwide strike suddenly was settled, on April 22.

Two days later, the President was off on his first visit to poverty pockets in Appalachia. Thousands and thousands of people saw him, and he saw them. The surging crowds left him glowing. He tossed security precautions aside and rode in an open car for the first time since Kennedy was assassinated in one.

He said: "I wish I could look into every face and shake every hand." He did his best.

By April 27, he was addressing the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in Washington, in Constitution Hall. It was one of the most memorable performances in an auditorium which has seen many.

With jokes and jabs and hard-hitting appeals, Johnson quickly had his businessman audience with him, applauding and laughing for an hour.

Fortifies Idea

These six days fortified in Johnson the idea that he can be what he told the Chamber of Commerce he intends to be: "President of ALL the people."

Over and over, to people representing every facet of national life, Johnson keeps saying, "I am the only President you have."

And what they have is a complex, contradictory, personable, hard-working, driving chief executive who can't be neatly tagged by any one label.

He has fantastic stamina, an agile mind, bulldog determination, sentimentality, sensitivity. There is a compulsion and urgency about him that might have taken him far in the business world.

He can be brusque or kindly, thoughtless or thoughtful, domineering or gentle—he is great with kids.

He goes great guns with grown-up gals. In Johnson's six months in office, probably more women have been kissed on the cheek and more damsels danced around the East Room than in any administration in history.

Admired FDR

The White House hasn't seen such informality and folksy good times since the days of Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was what Johnson called his second Daddy.

Incidentally, in the pattern of FDR after a polio attack, Johnson gave up golf and went in for therapeutic swimming after a heart attack in 1955. He's back at golf again now.

Incidentally, too, the word a few weeks ago was that an electrocariograph test of heart functions gave Johnson a "normal" reading, with no signs of an enlargement.

As did Presidents Kennedy, Eisenhower and Truman before him, Johnson has a temper that flashes explosively now and then.

Publicly, he reacts with jocular remarks when he has been reported speeding, sipping beer at the wheel, or pulling the ears of his beagle pups. But he does not forget.

He Is Sensitive

He is sensitive to stories or events that reflect unfavorably on him. And he is sensitive about being called sensitive.

While he lacks the darting, flicking wit of a Kennedy, Johnson does have a ready sense of humor that is often on the droll, homespun side.

Sometimes there are references to powder rooms or boudoirs. But more often to make special points, there are stories about preachers so often that there are occasional headlines about "Parson" Johnson.

In six months, Johnson's skittishness about news conferences has disappeared, to the extent he has held three in one week, conducted a roving conference on a seven-lap tour of the back yard, and turned another into a punch and cookies outing for wives and children of reporters.

No president has made as many speeches in such a short time. Several a day aren't unusual. And two or three times a day the President can be counted on to invoke the Golden Rule, to do unto others as you would have others do unto you.

Likes People Around

Johnson likes people around him. He seldom has a meal alone. He may invite himself out to lunch now and then, but mostly he does the inviting—tourists invited into a rear gate for a walk around the grounds, guests invited into the private living quarters, and into the swimming pool.

Some Congress members and their wives have seen the upstairs at the White House for the first time in their many years in Washington.

With all the folksy touches, the President, whose fat[h]er farmed on shares, now unaba[sh]edly enjoys fine, expensive c[l]othes, clothes and cars.

Lately, though, there ha[ve] been signs that the White Hou[se] may be wondering wheth[er] there has been too much of pr[e]sidential appearances and [ex]posure. News conferences ha[ve] slacked off and the Presiden[t]'s official daily schedule is le[ss] jammed.

But for a man who had abo[ut] 11 months to create and sell h[is] own presidential image in a[d]vance of the next election, Joh[n]son seems to be doing pret[ty] well.

Ontario Invites Eight Governors For Water Talks

TORONTO (AP) — Ontario's Premier John Robarts is inviting the governors of eight states, including New York's Nelson A. Rockefeller, to confer here next month on Great Lakes water levels.

Robarts said Thursday he had issued invitations to Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec and the governors of New York, Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Michigan and Minnesota.

He scheduled the meeting for June 29-30.

In a letter to the governors, Robarts said Ontario was taking the initiative in setting up an international conference because its borders stretch the full length of the northern shores of the lakes.

Ontario is greatly concerned, he wrote, with "the internal problems of our own province arising from lowering water tables and drought."

Robarts said the eight states and two provinces should pool ideas to determine what action might be taken to correct the situation "both now and for the future."

Poverty Drive Gets Backing of Church

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Despite the objections of some members, the New York Conference of the United Church of Christ was on record today as supporting President Johnson's anti-poverty campaign.

A few delegates protested at Thursday's closing session of the three-day meeting that a resolution endorsing the program favored "one political party." Most of the 500 delegates voted for it.

The resolution mentioned the Democratic President but did not refer to any political party.

It urged member churches to study the causes of poverty in their communities and work for better schools, housing, health programs and increased job opportunities.

Member churches also were exhorted to "declare their memberships open to people of all races, classes and ethnic backgrounds."

The conference embraces 393 churches with a total of nearly 118,000 members.

$250,000 Sought For Damages in Arizona Arrest

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Theresa Robichaud is seeking $250,000 in damages from the Maricopa County attorney and his deputy as a result of her arrest in the slaying of a Sherrill, N.Y., couple.

Attorneys for the 17-year-old Fresno, Calif., girl filed the damage suit in Federal Court Thursday against Charles Ronan and Felix Gordon.

The suit accuses them of depriving her of her civil rights and refusing to dismiss murder charges against her even though they knew "no probable cause existed."

Miss Robichaud had been held in the slaying of Mr. and Mrs. John Bertella, whose bodies were found in the desert near Apache Junction, Ariz., earlier this year.

A Superior Court judge dismissed murder charges against her earlier this month. Herbert Shockey, 30, described as Miss Robichaud's boy friend, was held for trial in the case.

The damage suit alleged that the prosecutors sought "by trick and deceit to cause the plaintiff to say or do things which would incriminate her."

Mother's Efforts Fail

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—The small boy's mother, a nurse, applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation in the car that raced them to the hospital. He was alive when they arrived but died later.

Mrs. Nelson W. Badger had found her son, Richard, 20 months old hanging by the hood of his jacket from an outside cellar door at their home in Galeville Thursday.

State Police said the boy had been jumping off cinder blocks and the hood apparently caught on an edge of the door, strangling him. He died in St. Joseph's Hospital Thursday night.

Same Reporter Recaptures Tragedy of Squalus Sinking

By JAMES CALOGERO

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP)—A small floral wreath will bob in the Atlantic 15 miles off Portsmouth on Saturday where a sea drama of life and death held a nation's attention exactly 25 years ago.

The submarine Squalus sank in 240 feet of water off the Isle of Shoals on May 23, 1939, with 57 Navy men and two civilians aboard.

It was to be many hours before a waiting nation would learn that 33 men were alive in two separate compartments of the 310-foot submarine.

33 Men Rescued

And for two tense-filled days all attention focused on the spot in the Atlantic until 33 men who survived the disaster were brought to the surface in one of the great rescue feats of the sea.

Even the submarine itself eventually was brought to the surface in an historic salvage operation in what 25 years ago was the deepest water in which Navy divers ever operated.

Twenty-four years later — on April 10, 1963—the nuclear submarine Thresher passed the same spot en route to her own untimely death with 129 men, 220 miles at sea in more than 8,000 feet of water—also during a test dive.

Thresher never was recovered —and because of the extreme depth may never be.

Th Squalus was raised, refitted and went off to World War II as the Sailfish. She acquitted herself well, torpedoing 45,029 tons of Japanese shipping in its Pacific patrols.

The wreath marking the 25th anniversary of the Squalus' sinking will be tossed to the sea by a man who survived the sinking and later returned to her when she was rechristened Sailfish.

He is Gerald McLees of Portsmouth, now a civilian employe at the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard and former electrician's mate on the Squalus. The anniversary tribute was arranged by the Squalus Memorial Chapter of the Submarine Veterans of World War II.

Relives Disaster

McLees relived the disaster for The Associated Press on the silver anniversary:

"We had left Portsmouth on Monday and anchored 15 miles out. On the next morning, May 23, I was in the three-foot crawl space of the forward battery room, taking cell readings.

"Allen Bryson was in the hatchway just above me with his headset on so we could keep in touch with all other compartments—the normal practice on a submarine.

"We started the dive and had gone down about 50 feet in about 40 seconds when Bryson shouted to me 'The engine room's flooding!' It was 8:40 in the morning.

"I jumped up out of the battery section and headed for the forward torpedo room right behind Bryson. The submarine was going down stern first so we had to fight our way uphill.

Settles on the Bottom

"There was no big bang when we hit the bottom. The Squalus just slid backwards and we settled easily on the bottom."

McLees continued:

"We could hear the high-pressure air system trying to blow out the water ballast and enable us to surface. It was a losing battle.

"There were about a half-dozen people in the forward torpedo room when I got there. Others followed me. The rest of us who lived through it were in the control room.

"We in the forward section didn't know that 26 of our shipmates were dead in the after section. We didn't hear about it until we reached the surface a couple of days later."

In another part of the ship, the disaster was to hand Lloyd B. Maness a cruel duty. He was nearest the hatch which separated the flooding sections from the dry area. If he didn't shut that heavy metal door everybody on board might perish.

Maness waited until the last possible moment, permitting the passage of a few men soaked by the incoming sea water. Then, as water poured through the hatchway—and with not another second to spare—he shut the door on the fate of those men aft.

Acts Rigidly

After the rescue of the survivors was completed, Maness said:

"At such a time there is no time for sentiment. We are trained to act rigidly, so I gave no consideration to the fate of my shipmates.

"It was not until the first impulsive action was over that I began to feel the awfulness of the men's situation in the after section.

"Particularly, I thought of Sherman Shirley, my chum. I was to be best man at his wedding the next Sunday."

Maness was one of four men from the Squalus to serve on her again when she was the Sailfish. Later, he transferred to another warship and was killed in World War II action.

Lt. Oliver F. Naquin, the Squalus commander, looking back to the tragic day in an interview at his Arlington, Va., home, said:

No Outcry

"There was no outcry. Nobody shoulted 'Oh, my God!' or anything like that. Only one man mentioned the people aft, and I shut that off real fast.

"If one or two men had panicked, the whole thing might have gone up in smoke."

Squalus rescue operations were put under way from the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard within minutes after she failed to report by radio.

Navy divers operated from the Falcon to prepare the Squalus hatches to accept the diving bell so no water would get into the sub as the men left in small groups to be raised to the surface.

The first diver reached the Squalus at 9:15 a.m., May 24. The diving bell was lowered only four hours later.

The bell made four trips to the submarine to rescue all the survivors, but the final trip was fraught with danger and excitement.

Trapped Four Hours

The lines had frayed and become tangled and the last eight of the survivors and the diving bell's two operators were trapped for four hours between the Squalus on the bottom and the Falcon on the surface.

Next came the epic salvage. For two months Navy divers, working only short periods on the bottom because of the high pressure, tunneled away under the boat to make a passage for salvage chains.

Finally all was ready and air was blown into the pontoons which were to pull the sub from the bottom.

The first lift came on the morning of July 13. All appeared to be going well. Suddenly, a great burst of foam erupted, and one of the pontoons shot out of the water, falling back with a splash just as another pontoon surfaced.

The sea bubbled and boiled. Churning foam spread in an ever widening circle.

In the midst of this confusion came a new eruption—the bow of the submarine shot out of the water then slowly settled to the bottom.

All the salvage work had been undone in a few, brief moments.

The salvagers had to do it all over again. It took all summer. Finally on Sept. 15, the submarine was towed to a drydock in the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard.

The bodies were removed from the after compartments.

WILL PLAY AT WORLD'S FAIR — The Thunderbirds, one of the area's well known musical combinations, are scheduled at the New York State Pavilion, World's Fair, New York, Saturday from 5 to 6 p. m. They are (l-r) Tommy Martino, Don Eaton, Ray Palen and Lonny Kegon. Playing together for five years they do the latest versions of the Beatles, Dave Clark Five and the Four Seasons. Synagogues Set Day of Prayer For Soviet Jews

The Sabbath of May 22-23 has been proclaimed as the National Day of Prayer for Soviet Jewry by the American Jewish Conference on Soviet Jewry. Orthodox, Conservative, and Reform Synagogues throughout the land will arrange special services on that day in recognition of the plight of the Jewish Community in Russia.

Rabbi Jacob Rubenstein of Congregation Ahavath Israel of Kingston announces that special prayers will be held on Friday, May 22, at 8 p. m. and Saturday, May 23, at 9 a. m. in the Synagogue at 72 Wurts Street. All congregants are urged to be present, and the public may attend as well.

In addition to proclaiming the National Day of Prayer, the American Jewish Conference on Soviet Jewry framed an 18-point appeal addressed to the Soviet government. These 18 points are a catalogue of discriminatory practices visited upon the Soviet-Jewish community in violation of the Soviet constitution. This 18-point appeal states, "We protest the denial to the Soviet Jews of the basic institutions and facilities granted to other religious and nationality groups within the Soviet Union."

The appeal also calls for redress of many wrongs and sufferings, for the enlimination of discrimination and for the full restoration of Jewish rights in the USSR.

It spells out the many curtailments and injustices imposed by the government and party and asks for restoration of rights of worship.

Talleur was headed west on Washington Avenue, and the other car, moving east, was turning into Pearl Street. Officers George Barringer and Albert Johnson investigated.

Hatfield Fined $200

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Robert E. Hatfield, a young salesman who spat in Adlai E. Stevenson's face and called him a traitor, was found guilty Thursday of aggravated assault on a policeman. Jurors assessed a $200 fine as punishment.

Hatfield, 22, a resident of Irving, a Dallas suburb, told a reporter after the verdict: "I am innocent of the charges."

Hatfield was charged with assault on a Dallas policeman who escorted the U.N. ambassador after Stevenson's United Nations Day speech Oct. 24 at the City Auditorium.

50 Arrests Are Made in April, 19 People Hurt

Police Chief Robert F. Murphy's report to the police board Thursday night listed 50 arrests in April on criminal charges, and 12 persons injured in 21 city traffic mishaps.

The March totals were 61 arrests and 19 injured in 17 traffic accidents.

Reported also for April were 44 summonses issued for moving traffic violations and 18 for vehicle and traffic offenses. The March totals were 43 and 17.

Of the 50 arrests on various charges, 27 were for public intoxication, 10 for third degree assault, three for disorderly conduct, and two each for second degree assault and failure to appear in court. One each was for third degree burglary, fraudulent check, common gambler, vagrancy, violation of a family court order and preventing an officer from doing his duty.

Of those arrests, five were committed to jail, six paid fines, and 13 received suspended sentences. Two were discharged, four charges were withdrawn, one case went to a grand jury, two to family court, and 13 cases are pending.

Of the mishaps, 18 involved two or more vehicles, one person was injured in a fall from a car, one accident involved a pedestrian, and one involved a collision with a fixed object.

Gift Ship for Alaska

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The earthquake that shook Alaska also shook up lumber mill operator Jack Brandis.

He started a campaign to donate lumber and plywood to needy Alaskans ravaged by the quake. He started the drive off with 50,000 feet of half-inch exterior plywood. It touched off a groundswell of giving by forest industries throughout Oregon and Washington.

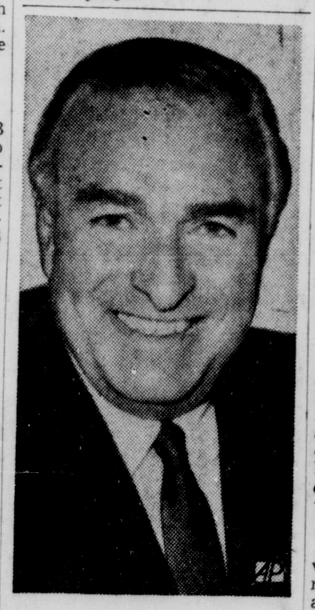

Convoys of loaded trucks rolled into Portland almost daily from mills to be put aboard the "gift ship" heading for Alaska. The material was consigned to Alaska's Gov. William Egan.

Good Intentions

MIAMI (AP) — Twenty well-meaning firefighters caused more damage than the hotel fire they attempted to battle, the Miami Fire Department said. Hotel guests grabbed a fire hose, but ran out of hose 40 feet from the fire, so they decided to give the area a good soaking, "for good measure." The Fire Department said its men arrived, threw a mattress out the window. Damage from fire: slight. From water: substantial.

Three Calls in 10 Minutes

Firemen answered three calls in about 10 minutes shortly after noon today. One at 12:24 p. m., was for a fire in a trash can near the Kingston City Library, Broadway. About a minute later a call was for the flushing of gasoline which had leaked from a car at the rear of the City Hall, and at 12:36 a brush fire was reported in a wooded area off East Chester Street. Firemen from Central Station responded to all three.

Baptists Reject Integration for Dixie Churches

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) —Southern Baptists have rejected an endorsement of church integration and left the issue up to member churches.

"It is our conviction that the final solution to these problems must come on the local level," said a policy statement adopted Thursday by messengers (delegates) to the Southern Baptist Convention, largest Protestant body in the United States.

In contrast, the American (Northern) Baptist Convention was expected to approve a resolution today calling for participation in demonstrations for civil rights and support of the civil rights bill pending in the Senate.

The conventions, holding separate meetings, both planned to take up proposals opposing any change in the U.S. Constitution because of the school prayer controversy.

Both groups, together with five other Baptist denominations, join in a program celebrating their 150th anniversary today.

A block of Deep South ministers led the fight against Southern convention endorsem...t churches that open their doors to Negroes, as recommended by the convention's Christian Life Commission.

The commission also proposed a pledge "to support the laws designed to guarantee the legal rights of Negroes." It would have called on Southern Baptists to "give themselves to the decisive defeat of racism."

Attacking this as possible endorsement of the civil rights bill, the Rev. James Middleton of Shreveport, La., won adoption of a substitute policy statement.

His statement said Southern Baptists "fully recognize the dignity of every human being," and added: "We would urge every Southern Baptist and every church to earnestly pray and work that peaceful Christian solutions may be found in all the racial relationships facing the world today."

The convention cannot bind its actions on member churches; it can only recommend.

Charged As Fugitive

Educator Denies Conduct Charge In Altercation

Dr. Gerson Robison, 55, of 10 South Oakwood Terrace, New Paltz, one of two men arrested on separate charges after an altercation last April at the former Place bookstore in New Paltz, denied a disorderly conduct charge at his arraignment Thursday night before Peace Justice S. Parks Glenn, New Paltz.

Hearing Next Thursday

Dr. Robison, a mathematics professor at New Paltz State University College, was continued paroled into the custody of his attorney, Norman Kellar, for a hearing on next Thursday, May 28. Kellar asked for a bill of particulars on the subdivision of the section of law with his client is charged. Assistant District Attorney Albert I. Lonstein, representing the people, said he would provide Kellar with the bill of particulars before that date.

Justice Glenn set the case down for trial on June 4. The law does not provide for a jury in the charge, which is an offense. Attorney Kellar entered the plea for Dr. Robison.

James Konrad Warner, 25, of Tillson charged with third-degree assault in the case, also was granted an adjournment to next Thursday when he said his lawyer, John D. Graves of New York City, was engaged in court proceedings in that city.

He was continued free in $500 bail for arraignment on the charge on that date. Glenn also scheduled next Thursday for picking of a jury to try the case and set down June 4 for the trial date. Under law, the charge provides for a jury trial. Glenn said the cases of Warner and Robison were to be tried separately but on the same night.

Warner was originally arrested by State Police on a felony charge of second-degree assault after an altercation in The Place bookstore he operated in New Paltz, in which he allegedly struck Dr. Robison on the head with a baseball bat. The college professor was arrested later on a disorderly conduct charge on the complaint of Warner.

However, the case went to the grand jury, which in turn directed District Attorney David W. Corwin to file an information referring the matter back to the New Paltz magistrate's court for further prosecution and reducing the felony charge against Warner to a misdemeanor count of third-degree assault. The order also directed that the disorderly conduct offense charge remain against Robison. Lonstein represents the prosecution in both cases.

Argument Ensued

State Police said that Robison entered Warners bookstore and removed a copy of a publication entitled, "Common Sense," from the window of the store, charging that it was "hate literature." An argument ensued and when Robison refused to leave the store, Warner allegedly went behind a counter and returned with the baseball bat and another publication entitled, "Thunderbolt." Both publications are regarded as "extreme Right Wing." Dr. Robison characterized them as anti-semitic.

Troopers said that a group of students from the college gathered at the store and when the professor tore down the second publication, the students witnessed Warner strike the professor on the head. Robison was taken to New Paltz Medical Center where eight sutures were taken to close the head wound.

Warner posted bail after staying overnight in the County Jail after the incident.

NEW YORK (AP)—Profit taking among several mineral stocks was a feature of an irregular stock market early this afternoon. Market averages were up slightly.

Occidental Petroleum, which was a big gainer Thursday as the most active stock, was delayed in opening. It fell ⅛ to 33 on initial blocks of 30,000 and 1,800 shares, then extended its loss to more than a point.

Most of the other issues involved in the current vogue for companies with actual or possible natural resource also encountered profit taking.

A slightly higher trend prevailed among steels, oils, chemicals, rails, utilities and farm implements. Motors, rubbers, aerospace issues, nonferrous metals, airlines and building materials were mixed. Cigarette stocks declined.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .5 at 307.3 with industrials up .6, rails up .2 and utilities up .3.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .98 at 820.78.

Texas Gulf Sulphur fell more than a point.

Bendix was steady while Boeing lost a fraction.

Eastman Kodak, up more than 2, showed continued strength.

IBM and Xerox were up about 2 each, Pan American World Airways more than a point. Zenith lost over a point.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were irregularly higher, with rails mixed. U.S. government bonds were steady to slightly higher.

One of 8 Children

that Brian Malloy discovered the fire about 1 a. m. and woke his mother, Mrs. Charlotte Malloy, who started to gather up the children while Brian turned in the alarm. The father was on a fishing trip in Canada when the fire broke out.

Troopers and fire fighters said that Mrs. Malloy passed the children one by one through the windows of the home and in some instances passed them from the top floor to firemen below. When she left the building, officials said, Mrs. Maloy discovered that Theresa was missing. Firemen reentered the home and found the girl. They brought her out and she was rushed to the hospital by ambulance.

Starts in New Part

Firemen said that the blaze broke out in the east side of the building where a five-room addition had recently been completed.

Dr. Sherman Hirst treated the injured. Medical Examiner William Tompkins, Dutchess County, gave a tentative verdict of accidental death by asphyxiation in the case of Theresa Malloy. Fire Chief William Schryver of Hyde Park was in charge of fire fighters, while Capt. William Hunt was in charge of the Hyde Park Fire Department Ambulance Corps. The Hyde Park and Roosevelt ambulance corps. took the injured to the hospital. Roosevelt Fire Department assisted at the scene.

The fire fighters returned to service at 8:23 a. m. Troopers William Schamberg and Hart and Investigator A. J. Waters, Rhinebeck substation, investigated for the State Police. Cause of the fire is still under investigation.

Homicide Verdict

The Freeman that a blood-stained stone—believed to be the murder weapon—was found in the victim's room. He said that it was presumed that robbery may have been the motive since no money was found in Jepson's room.

Lt. Croswell said that George Pascual, who roomed with the victim, has been missing since the incident. He said that Jepson's body was discovered Thursday by a hotel security guard when Jepson failed to report for work. Croswell told The Freeman that Jepson had been employed at the hotel since April as a porter. The troopers are investigating the homicide with District Attorney Robert Williams and his staff. Dr. Schiff, of Liberty, represented Dr. Lee R. Tompkins, also of Liberty, as coroner's physician.

Program Listed For Concert at Central School

NEW PALTZ—The music department of New Paltz Central School is in the final stages of rehearsal in preparation for the annual spring concert to be given in the high school auditorium May 28 at 8:15 p. m.

The program will open with the intermediate band under the direction of Stuart Krams, playing a march Safety Patrol, followed by Little Prelude, by Finalyson; Grant Us Thy Peace; The Emperor Waltz, by Johnann Strauss; and Satellite Patrol, by Dedrick.

The high school girls' ensemble, under the direction of Mrs. George Bond, will sing a group of numbers they recently performed for NYSSMA rating at Glens Falls Competition Festival. The high school mixed chorus will conclude the first part of the concert with the following selections: Three Short Psalms, a contemporary choral composition with organ accompaniment by Gorden Young; Consider Yourself, from the musical Oliver by Bart; The Last Words of David, by Randall Thompson; and A Hymn for United Nation, based on the theme of Beethoven's finale of the Ninth Symphony, arranged by Wood.

Linda Dyer, graduating member of the mixed chorus, will be organ accompanist in the Young and Beethoven compositions, using a Hammond organ owned by William Dunn, Tillson. Barbara Barmgartner will be piano accompanist with the choral groups, also.

The second half of the concert will be devoted to music by the concert band, under the direction of Paul Steiner. They will play: Americade, a selection of patriotic songs, by DeLamater; Tamerlane by Erickson; Skyline, an Overature, by Morrissey; and Parade of the Charioteers by Rozsa, from the MGM production of Ben-Hur.

Solos by some of the outstanding students of the music department will also be heard.

Special arrangements are being made to seat all parents and friends who wish to attend the concert. No repetition of the crowded conditions at the Winter Concert are anticipated as all performing groups will not be seated in the auditorium. Young children should be accompanied by adults. There is no admission charge.

C-H Dividend

The Board of Directors of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, at the monthly meeting held at the company's South Road office, Poughkeepsie, today declared a dividend of $1.08-¾ per share on its 4.35 per cent cumulative preferred stock; $1.12-½ per share on the company's 4½ per cent cumulative preferred stock; $1.18-¾ per per share on its 4.75 per cent cumulative preferred stock and $1.24 per share on its 4.96 per cent cumulative preferred stock. Each of these dividends will be payable July 1 to holders of record June 10.

Johnson Trains

son believes all things are possible if the presidential will is steadfast.

Certainly this was true of his approach to the five-year-old dispute that threatened a national rail strike. While some advisers warned that Johnson would risk injury to his prestige by committing the force of the presidency to a hopeless cause, he went ahead and staged last-ditch negotiations in the White House. He got the settlement.

The rail agreement was widely regarded as something of a miracle. So, too, was enactment of the biggest tax cut in history.

When Johnson took office, it seemed quite possible the Senate would take many, many months to act on tax legislation. Johnson broke the logjam by undercutting opposition with a much-publicized economy in government program.

Many Americans laughed when the President dramatized his pinch-penny proclivities by dousing lights in the White House. However, he set an example that is hitting home—evidenced by the recent move to substitute hydrogen for helium in weather balloons. The $14,000 saved by the Weather Bureau in this fashion won't pay off the national debt, but it's a start, and it has helped win Johnson applause from critics of big government spending.

Does Selling Job

Johnson repeatedly proclaims his desire to be "president of all the people." And, in six months, he has worked feverishly at selling himself—and with some apparent success.

A few months ago, street crowds that turned out for Johnson were modest in size and restrained in their applause. But recently when Johnson visited 13 states in 13 days, his receptions everywhere bordered on the triumphal.

Johnson rarely makes a speech without talking about civil rights and poverty. And in recent weeks, he has added medical care for the aged to his catalog of items he plugs with drumbeat persistence.

Persistence Key Word

Persistence is the key word in Johnson's approach to pressing his programs. He summed it up like this when he was discussing the poverty program before a New York audience:

"We are going to strike the hammer of truth against the anvil of public opinion — again—and again—and again—until the ears of this nation are open and the conscience of America is awake."

Unquestionably, domestic concerns have dominated Johnson's public utterances during the past six months. But problems abroad have multiplied, in Panama, Cuba, South Viet Nam, Laos.

Criticism of his record has centered on his conduct of foreign affairs. The allegation heard most often is that the President's interest in this area—and his knowledge of it — is limited and contributes to stagnant, unimaginative policy.

Johnson bridles at this, arguing that he has a strong background in foreign affairs and devotes a great proportion of his time to them.

At home and abroad, the great compromiser of the 1950s has emerged in six action-packed months as a man of unyielding force. The next six months will determine how well the voters like the new Lyndon Johnson.

Octegenarian Fights Hard To Keep Off Welfare

Q) "I am 80 years old, no social security, no insurance and am trying hard to keep off 'Old Age Assistance.' I own Tennessee Gas Transmission, American Telephone, and New England Electric. What do you think of these? I am most concerned about American Machine & Foundry, bought years ago, which shows me a profit. Would you sell this stock?" E.P.

A) You seem to be an indomitable sort of person, and if you are trying hard to keep off Old Age Assistance, I'm quite sure you will.

I like the first three stocks you mentioned, but I might suggest that by switching American Telephone into New England Telephone you would substantially increase your yield with some loss of growth.

As regards American Machine & Foundry, this stock has been making a moderate recovery and now yields less than 4 per cent. There are risks in this situation, and in your position I would switch to Maytag, yielding 4.5 per cent.

Q) "I am retired, in good health, have excellent income and insurance protection, own my home and have $15,000 savings. Among others, I hold 100 Goodyear; 100 Weyerhauser Timber; 50 Cluett, Peabody; 25 U.S. Playing Card. I like U.S. Playing Card because of its fine yield. I have $4,000 to $5,000 to invest. Would you advise that I add to this list or pick something else?" C.T.

A) I am very much pleased that you have been able to retire under such comfortable circumstances. All your holdings are of good quality.

Cluett, Peabody has been showing a fine growth pattern in recent years due to its expansion of Arrow products, its royalty income from the "Sanforized" trademark, and its move into retail merchandising. I think you might well build up your holdings here to 100 shares.

U. S. Playing Card is facing more competition but is still dominant in the field, and its strong financial position makes the dividend seem secure. I suggest another 75 shares of this stock.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Will Compete for Page One Queen's Crown; Contest Scheduled for This Sunday

DIANA KNIGHT, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Knight of West Hurley has joined other Ulster County contestants in the competition for Page One Queen. A senior at Onteora Central High School, Miss Kright plans to attend Syracuse University in the fall. She is president of the Honor Society and Leaders Club and serves as secretary of the senior class. Miss Knight, who is an avid sports fan, is interested in water skiing, swimming, and scuba diving. The competition will be held on Sunday at 3 p. m. in The Flamingo, Saugerties. Three finalists will be chosen.

JOSEPHINE DEGIORGI is 18 years old and a student at Kingston High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Degiorgi of 156 Hunter Street, this city, lists art as her main interest. Miss Degiorgi plans to major in art in the fall at State University College, New Paltz. She is now art editor of the 1964 Maroon Yearbook and has won awards for her artwork. Miss Degiorgi also plays the accordion and her other interests include swimming, water skiing, and music. She is active in all school and club activities.

GAIL BOYCE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Boyce of 215 Lucas Avenue reigned as Montgomery Ward's 1963 "Back to School Queen." She is a member of the junior class in Kingston High School and serves on the executive council. She is a member also of the Leaders Club and Varsity Cheerleading Squad. Miss Boyce includes skiing, swimming, tennis and dancing amongst her hobbies and says she also enjoys modeling and playing the piano. The queen's competition is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

DENISE HUDELA, 18 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bronislaw Hudela of 198 Washington Avenue, this city, and a student at Academy of St. Ursula, has entered the competition for the Page One Queen's Crown. The girl chosen will reign over the Page One Ball on Saturday, June 6 at the Wiltwyck Country Club. All tickets to the ball have been sold and a cancellation list is now being compiled by the sponsor, the Kingston Newspaper Guild. Miss Hudela plans to major in history when she enters Trinity College in Burlington, Vt. She recently placed in the Singer Sewing Contest. Her other interests include painting, sewing, water skiing, winter skiing, swimming and tennis. (Photo Workshop)

WORRIED ABOUT HER VALUABLE LINEN

Q: My husband and I are planning a large, formal reception in honor of our son's Bar Mitzvah. I will be using my very best china, silverware and linens for the tables. My linens are heirloom and run into hundreds of dollars. It would actually run them should a tea or coffee or food stain get on them. They are cut out and heavily embroidered. Will you please tell me if it would be permissable to use clear plastic table covers over these fine tablecloths to protect them?

A: Plastic tablecloths, while very practical for family use, have no place on a formally set table and if you are afraid that your heirloom tablecloths will be ruined, I would advise your using others rather than cover them with plastic covers.

Anniversary Present to Boy Friend's Parents

Q: My boy friend's parents will soon celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. He and his two sisters have planned a surprise anniversary party for them and I have been invited. This will be my first meeting with his parents and I am anxious to do the right thing. Would it be proper for me to bring a present to the party? I do not want to seem as though I am trying to buy their approval.

A: Never having met his parents, you will not be expected, in fact it would be in rather questionable taste, to take a present to them.

Wants No Silver

Q: A friend of mine will be celebrating her 25th wedding anniversary the end of next month and is planning to give a party. She does not want any silver gifts. Would it be permissable to state this on the invitations?

A: "No gifts please" would be quite all right, but "No silver, please" would not. The reason being that the second assumes that presents are expected. You may, as her best friend, tell others of her dislike for silver.

A Damaged Gift

Q: I received a gift from a relative and it was damaged. She said she would replace it. That was almost two months ago and as yet she hasn't done so. May I remind her of this?

A: It will be best to say nothing and hope that she will remember herself to replace it.

KINGSTON HIGH SCHOOL ART STUDENTS arranging exhibition of work by the high school's art department in Artcraft Gallery are (l-r) Robert Rota, Harold Houghtaling, James Becker and Juanita Bilyou. The exhibition will be open to the public through May 29.

KHS Art Students Open Exhibition Of Work Locally

The 1964 Annual Art Exhibition of the Kingston High School Art Department opened May 16 and will continue through May 29 at the Artcraft Gallery, 694 Broadway, Kingston. The exhibition is distinctive in its variety, showing a creative emphasis in all phases of crafts, drawing and painting.

Included in the showing are models and research projects based on the history of art. These touch the roots of historic art expression and were created after much careful study relating to the Prehistoric, Egyptian, Greek, Medieval and Renaissance periods. Antiqued metal-tooled plaques make use of Assyrian animals in symbolic interpretation. The conventionalized beauty of the Egyptian frieze is represented in original paintings closely following the traditional motifs. Outstanding are the stained glass projects and the illuminated manuscripts as derived from study of the Medieval art.

Basic Art students, exploring the possibilities of paper, various media, and fundemental art concepts, have exhibited their ideas in wide scope. There are pencil perspectives of "moon landscapes," water color impressions, and masks—all of which show individually of rendering and approach.

The advertising classes are exhibiting a group of travel posters, magazine cover designs and other advertising media which "sell" products through the appeal of strong design and lettering in colorful and imaginative combination. These are in contrast to a collection of "fantasy" houses, paintings of the studio classes majoring in drawing and painting. These are houses of the supernatural world — haunted, but fascinating in color and setting. Realistic landscapes, seaside moods and faraway places come alive in the brushwork of the students. Even science becomes an art form when microscopic life is magnified into a new dimension and a new visual experience.

The art classes at Kingston High School are under the direction of Mrs. Althea S. Odell, art coordinator for the Kingston School System.

Success Reported By KHS '39 Class Of Reunion Weekend

The 25th anniversary reunion of the Kingston High School Class of 1939 attracted good turnouts at both the cocktail party and dinner-dance last weekend.

The big event of the reunion schedule occured Saturday night when the dinner-dance took place at the Capri 400 Restaurant in Port Ewen.

James E. Norton, chairman of arrangements for the entire reunion weekend, welcomed the guests and spoke briefly on the work of the committee and his appreciation for the outstanding work done by all concerned.

John A. McCullough acted as master of ceremonies and Dr. Clayton Brower, dean of instruction of Trenton State College, gave the invocation.

McCullough, offered two vocal selections and introduced officers of the Class of 1939 and also Mrs. Marion Murray, Richard Whiston and G. Warren Kias. A letter from Clarence L. Dumm, former principal was read as were telegrams from various membes of the '39 graduates.

Major Donald Weeks, who is connected with the Pentagon in Washington, D. C., and who now makes his home in Virginia, was awarded a prize for the class member traveling the greatest distance to the reunion weekend. Several contests also highlighted the evenings program.

Entertainment and dancing concluded the festivities.

In addition to Chairman Norton other officers of the reunion committee were William E. Powers Jr., Mrs. Marion Maines and Mrs. Geraldine Nathan, vice-presidents; Mrs. Gwendolyn Kershaw Barogin, secretary and Mrs. Freida Lipton, treasurer.

Committeemen included Jenner R. Kittle, dinner dance; Lawrence A. Quilty, cocktail party; Miss Bessie Nekos, research and identification; John A. McCullough, entertainment; Mrs. Norma Kittle, finance and reservations; Mrs. Maxine Wingate, decorations and favors; Mr. and Mrs. William Newkirk, memory book; Mrs. Virginia Baltz, bulletin board; Mrs. Agnes Gardner, hospitality and G. Robert Anderson, special guests.

Little Gardens Club Met Today; Flower Show Program Held

The Little Gardens Club of Kingston met today in the Education Building, Hurley Reformed Church, Hurley, old Route 209, at 12:30. Mrs. James Elder, president, met with the members in the Dutch room for a short business meeting, preceding the afternoon's flower show program.

Miss Jane Austen and her committee planned a flower show schedule titled, "A Tribute to Shakespeare." There were nine classes:

I. "Love's Labor Lost.
When daisies pied and violets blue,
And lady smocks all silver white,
And cuckoo birds of yellow hue
Do point the meadows with delight.
An arrangement of white, blue, and yellow.

II. "As You Like It."
Rosalind
Odes upon hawthornes and elegies on brambles.
A May basket featuring hawthornes or some flowering shrub.

III. "A Midsummer Night's Dream."
Oberon
I know a bank where the wild thyme grows;
Where oxlips and the nodding violet grows;
Quite over-canopied with luscious woodbine,
With sweet musk roses and eglantine.

IV. "As You Like It."
Amiens
Heigh-ho, sing heigh-ho, unto the green holly!
An all green arrangement featuring holly or some broad leaved evergreen.

V. "Hamlet."
Ophelia
There's fennel for you and columbine.
There's rue for you and here's some for me.
An arrangement of herbs and/or wild flowers.

VI. "The Winter's Tale".
Perdita
Daffodils, that come before the swallow dares,
And take the winds of March with beauty.
Pale primroses that die unmarried
Lilies of all kinds, the flower-de-luce being one.
An arrangement combing daffodils, primroses and lilies, or any one with two other varieties of spring flowers.

VII. "A Midsummer Night's Dream."
So doth the woodbine the sweet honeysuckle gently entwist.
A composition using roadside materials.

VIII. Men's Class.
"A Midsummer Night's Dream."
Titania
Feed him with apricocks and dewberries,
With purple grapes, green figs and mulberries.
An arrangement of greens and fruit in a kitchen utensil.

IX. Novice Class.
An arrangement appropriate for Ann Hathaway's Cottage.

The staging committee: Mrs. Anteo Marchetti, Mrs. Almerin O'Hara, and Miss Jane Austen. Scoring committee: Mrs. Frank Race, Mrs. F. C. R. Potter, and Miss Hazel Bloom.

Hostesses were Mrs. Severyn J. Hasbrouck and Mrs. L. Duquesne.

Art Association Hears James Kaman; Exhibit Planned

James Kaman, art teacher at the Rondout Valley Central School, was guest speaker at a meeting of the Ulster County Art Association held this month. An art teacher, Mr. Kaman explained commercial art and the techniques of glazing.

On June 6, Mrs. Irene Owens, Mrs. Margaret O'Conner and William Edelmuth will discuss the origin and history of the Association with Helen Davenport on her local radio program.

Members of the Art Association regularly exhibit paintings at the First Federal Savings and Loan Association on Fair Street and at Wallace's. The Association is planning its annual exhibition on the Academy Green for June 27 and 28 from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

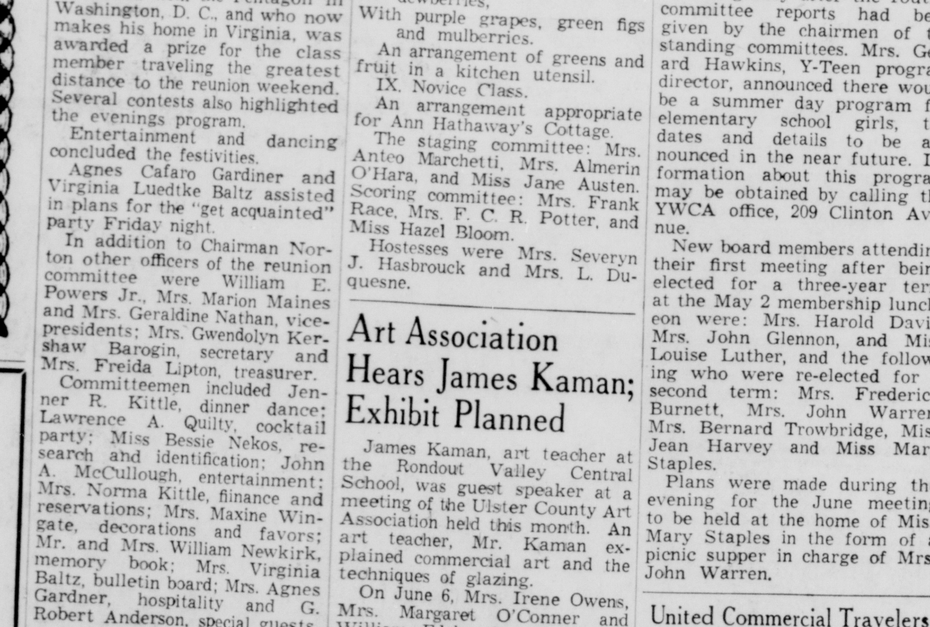

On June 2, all members are asked to have their donation books or to make returns to Miss Saly Gallagher, 574 Delaware Avenue.

Rummage Sales

Temple Emanuel

The Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel will sponsor a rummage sale in the social hall at 243 Albany Avenue on the following days: Tuesday, June 2 from 5:30 p. m. to 9 p. m.; Wednesday, June 3 from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.; and Thursday, June 4 from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Donated articles may be left at the Temple any time.

FESTIVAL AT J. WATSON BAILEY—Students at the J. Watson Bailey Junior High School will have their Festival of the Performing Arts on May 26 and 27 at 8 p. m. in the auditorium of the school. The chorus, band, orchestra, twirlers, folk and interpretive dance groups will perform. Tickets are now available and will be sold at the door. Rehearsing one of the acts are Jane Davis, Barbara Kachura, Pam Parker, Donna Steward, Valerie Adin, Marjory Spiegel, Madeline Kaplan, Christina Gjurovich, Linda Kaplan and Kay Rasmussen. (Freeman photo)

Mrs. Henry Eighmey Elected President Of YWCA Directors

At a recent meeting of the Board of Directors of the Young Women's Christian Association, Mrs. Henry P. Eighmey was elected president. Mrs. Eighmey has been active in the various clubs of the YWCA for many years, having served on various committees, and is completing her term of office as president of the Junior Marrieds Club.

Mrs. Eighmey has long been interested in community affairs, having served as a Den Mother in the Cub Scouts of Kingston for ten years. She is on the official Board of the Methodist Church of Shady, and also teaches Sunday school.

Mrs. Henry Millonig, chairman of the nominating committee, announced the slate of officers, and the Board members cast a unanimous ballot for Mrs. Eighmey and her fellow officers who are: first vice president, Mrs. Bernard Trowbridge; second vice president, Miss Kay Heavey; recording secretary, Mrs. William Keith; corresponding secretary, Miss Evelyn Thomas; and treasurer, Miss Agnes Scott Smith.

Mrs. William Wood, outgoing president, handed the gavel to Mrs. Eighmey after the routine committee reports had been given by the chairmen of the standing committees. Mrs. Gerard Hawkins, Y-Teen program director, announced there would be a summer day program for elementary school girls, the dates and details to be announced in the near future. Information about this program may be obtained by calling the YWCA office, 209 Clinton Avenue.

New board members attending their first meeting after being elected for a three-year term at the May 2 membership luncheon were: Mrs. Harold Davis, Mrs. John Glennon, and Miss Louise Luther, and the following who were re-elected for a second term: Mrs. Frederick Burnett, Mrs. John Warren, Mrs. Bernard Trowbridge, Miss Jean Harvey and Miss Mary Staples.

Plans were made during the evening for the June meeting to be held at the home of Miss Mary Staples in the form of a picnic supper in charge of Mrs. John Warren.

United Commercial Travelers

The regular monthly meeting of Kingston Auxiliary 130, United Commercial Travelers, will be held May 26 in the Elks Club, Fair Street, at 8 p. m.

Mrs. David Gruberg, senior counselor, urges all members to attend. Plans will be completed to attend the 64th Grand Council Convention of the New York United Commercial Travelers of America and the Grand Auxiliary of New York to be held in Utica June 3-6.

At the close of the meeting, the auxiliary members will join Kingston Council 356 for a social hour.

AWARDED ELKS SCHOLARSHIP — Miss Kathryn Evans Kurzyna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kurzyna of Elizaville, a senior in the Germantown Central School, has been awarded a $500 New York State Elks Association scholarship. She was among the 21 winners in the state. It is anticipated Miss Kurzyna will receive the award in person in Syracuse tomorrow when several Elks from Red Hook - Rhinebeck Elks Lodge No. 2022 will be in convention. Miss Kurzyna has served two years as president of the National Honor Society, is editor of the Germantown school year book and is a member of the school newspaper staff "The Clipper." She is a member of the school chorus, served for two years as a cheer leader and received the DAR Good Citizenship Award as well as a New York State Regents Scholarship. Miss Kurzyna plans to attend the University of Connecticut in Storrs, Conn. She will major in pharmacy.

School Band To Perform on Memorial Day

An added feature of the annual Memorial Day Parade sponsored by Town of Esopus Post 1298, American Legion, will be the initial public appearance of the Port Ewen School band. The band is an extra-curricular activity at the local school and consists of approximately 50 members including a majorette corps.

Organizer and director of the band is G. Thomas Keehn, instructor of instrumental music at Port Ewen, Chambers and Lake Katrine Schools. Keehn has been with the Kingston Schools Consolidated since the beginning of the school year.

He is a native of Lititz, Pa., and was graduated from Lebanon Valley College with a bachelor of science degree majoring in music education. He is a member of the Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia fraternity and a charter member of Iota Kappa Chapter.

Mr. Keehn and his family reside in Halcyon Park, Lake Katrine.

Parade Chairman Kenneth Bonville praised the work of Keehn and said that local residents will be both surprised and pleased with this newest addition to the annual parade.

Bonville also announced the winners of the American Legion Americanism Essay contest held each year in conjunction with the Memorial Day observance. They are Leah Rappaport, daughter of Rabbi and Mrs. H. Z. Rappaport of Bayard Street, Port Ewen, and Bradley Feil, son of Mrs. Joan Feil of River Road, Port Ewen. Both are students in the sixth grade at Port Ewen School.

The winners will be presented with medals and certificates at the ceremonies at Riverview Cemetery.

Communication

LOUISVILLE (AP) — An Indiana University student, placing a poster in a laundry for the school's traveling showboat, was questioned by a woman. The student explained that the showboat was undergoing a revival — and asked whether she was going. "Oh, I don't go to a showboat," was the reply, "I go to a regular church."

Troy Methodists Study Extending Conference Lines

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Troy Conference of the Methodist Church turned today to the question of enlarging its boundaries—possibly to take in the neighboring Wyoming Conference.

Bishop Lloyd C. Wicke, of the New York area, presiding at the 132nd annual meeting, said he would discuss possible boundary changes in an address to the approximately 400 delegates attending.

The Troy conference includes more than 200 churches in northeastern New York and in Vermont. There has been speculation that it might be merged with the Wyoming conference, which embraces northern Pennsylvania and South-Central New York.

The Wyoming conference has been in session this week in Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

The Troy Conference received reports Thursday that, for the fourth straight year, its membership has declined, while expenses continued to rise.

Last year, membership dropped 145 to a total of 88,755 persons, the Rev. Howard M. Hills of Center Brunswick, conference statistician, reported. Church school attendance also declined, he said.

William A. Smith, of Troy, conference treasurer, observed that some churches had failed to meet their apportionments for financial support of world service and missions. He cited no figures.

Expenses climbed last year by $175,000 to $1,262,450, including $580,805 for church buildings. At the same time, indebtedness on church properties was reduced by $36,000.

Lloyd Newcombe, Peoples Choice for State Senator

If you are an enrolled Republican, this is your lucky year. For this year, for the first time in over two generations, the choice of who will be your Republican candidate for State Senator is up to you.

Lloyd A. Newcombe is the man who is giving you that choice. He is running in the June 2nd Republican primary for the nomination as State Senator, not as the hand-picked choice of a handful of political bosses, but as the candidate of the people.

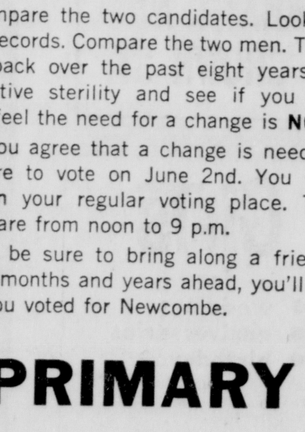

Why is Lloyd A. Newcombe doing this?

As a successful businessman in both Ulster and Greene Counties, he is not doing it for personal gain. At 42, in the prime of life, he is not doing it because he wishes to retire into public office.

He is doing it because he believes in the potential of our district. He is doing it because he believes in the importance of the high office he is seeking. He feels that the choice of a candidate for this important office should be made by the people and not by political bosses.

He is also doing it because, like so many, he feels the need for a change. It is time to get the 34th Senatorial District back on the road of progress. He feels the change is needed NOW. The time to act is NOW.

During this campaign Lloyd Newcombe has made three pledges. 1. He will communicate with the people of the district. 2. He will seek counsel from the people of the district. 3. He will be a full time Senator and will work for the people of the district.

Lloyd A. Newcombe

These are his pledges. He has made no commitment to anyone except the people of the district.

So, if you are an enrolled Republican and feel a change is needed in our representation in Albany, Tuesday, June 2nd can be a red letter day for you. It can be the day you return your Republican Party to the people.

Compare the two candidates. Look at their records. Compare the two men. Then look back over the past eight years of legislative sterility and see if you too don't feel the need for a change is NOW.

If you agree that a change is needed, be sure to vote on June 2nd. You will vote in your regular voting place. The hours are from noon to 9 p.m.

And be sure to bring along a friend. In the months and years ahead, you'll be glad you voted for Newcombe.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

From time to time I get a little note from a reader, like the one who writes in part, that he "has been a resident of Kingston, N. Y. for 68 years" and I see the envelope is post marked Kingston and also Saugerties. I said something to the effect sometime ago, that many folks like to own a little piece of land or home which is really theirs, to do with as they please. He does not agree with me, as he says, "they are only tenants, when they do not pay their (rent) or taxes," out they go. I agree with him. Especially in times like these when taxes are climbing, because of the millions being spent, that those living on a small fixed income, in a home, with or without a mortgage, just cannot hold on to their homes. The taxes will eventually eat up their small savings and they will be left without a home.

It seems the powers that be, could not care less, if these little people are put out of their homes. No one hears about them, as they make very little noise, and their only desire is to remain in their own home, surrounded by the trees and flowers and friends and neighbors they have known for years. I think these people are very important, have been self-supporting, and should somehow be allowed to maintain their dignity and their homes without being eaten up by climbing taxes. These little notes sadden me, and I, like they, know that there is much waste in the name of progress, or is it greed, which is ruining them.

Attorney Henry Kline sent me three local newspapers: May 14, Catskill Mountain Star, May 13, Saugerties Post and April 2, Kingstonian. I like Anton O. Myer's letter in the Saugerties Post on the dangers of spraying of insecticides, which is proven lethal to fish, animal and bird life. Another form of progress detrimental to people who are forced to put up with it.

The Catskill Mountain Star carries an interesting column by Pauline Hommell who has been a teacher for many years, and a recent author of such books as "Teacup Tales" and "Class Dismissed." Her column is titled "Our Area's Part, Mr. Lincoln's War" and the May 14 item tells about Abram and John Shader who enlisted at Saugerties in August 1862, in Co. G, 120th Regiment. The Shaders were mustered out in June, 1865, with other members of the 120th. In 1893, Abram was living in Hurley, and John went to New York City. She adds that no information is available as to their marriages, families, or when or where they died. Perhaps my readers can add to the above.

Miss Hommell also writes that Aug. 22 was the date when the 120th was mustered in, and in later years this was the date of the Regimental picnic, which used to be held at our famous Kingston Point Park on the Hudson, and when our park was abandoned, they held it at Forsyth Park. Both of Miss Hommell's books are entertaining and informative and I am sure can be had at our Kingston City Public Library and no doubt at local book stores.

I see that Memorial Day comes out on Saturday in 1964 which means a short weekend. I remember back in my No. 3 public school days, how we used to bring flowers to school, and then all march to the various cemeteries to place flowers wherever a flag was at a grave, which meant a soldier was buried there. I understand this is no longer done. In my day, Chamber street, on the way to school had private flower gardens, and we used to buy them for this purpose. We paid only 10 or 15 cents for a whole handful of large flowers. Everyone in that section seemed to have flower and vegetable gardens in those days.

Why We Say--

BISHOP BLAISE: This expression in its popular usage needs no explanation. But when it started it was "Drunk as Blaisers." It originated with the practice of wool combers celebrating the festival of their patron saint, Bishop Blaise, by getting drunk on his feast day at their annual festival at Leicester.

Kingston Library Adds New Books

From the recent excellent biographies which have been published this year, the Kingston City Library has chosen for its collection several which are of high quality and are well written. One of the most long awaited in this field is the one which Ernest Hemingway wrote concerning his early years as an expatriate writer in the Paris of the Nineteen twenties.

A Moveable Feast is a series of impressions of Paris of such famous writers as Scott Fitzgerald and Ezra Pound and of Hemingway's own views on writings. A book completed in his lifetime. This is not a posthumous collection by his literary heirs.

Robert Frost: The Aim Was Song by Jean Gould is another biography of an American man of letters now dead. For a year or more before his death, the author talked long and deeply with the poet about his work, his life and his philosophy. The result is an affectionate and perceptive biography of the beloved poet.

Nefertiti by Evelyn Wells tells of the beautiful and little understood wife of the Egyptian pharaoh, Akhenaton, who taught that there was one God. One of the many rulers of Ancient Egypt, he and his queen are among the most important and the most interesting.

The Deputy by Hochuth, a book of great interest, is running currently as a play on Broadway. It accuses Pope Pius of not speaking out and by silence being partly guilty of the murder of six million Jews by Nazi Germany. In the long play, part of which is presented on Broadway, the age old question of "Am I my brother's keeper?" is explored.

Other books of non-fiction added to the library collection include:

The Ancient Engineers by Sprague deCamp traces the history of the ancient profession responsible for building the pyramids, the gothic churches and the New York World's Fair.

The Treasure of the Great Reef by Arthur Clark is a true account of locating and diving for sunken treasure off Ceylon.

South Viet Nam; Nation Under Stress by Robert Scigliano follows this tortured half country from its creation in 1954 to the death of the Diem government in 1963. Because of the deep involvement of the United States in this corner of Asia, Mr. Scigliano's book should be required reading for the Concerned American.

The Big Sell by Pierre Berton is the consumer's revolt against the door to door salesman with hints on how to avoid and avert the pressure technique.

All of these books are available at the Kingston City Library which is open daily from 10:30 a. m. to 8:30 p. m. and from 1 to 5 p. m. on Saturdays.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Hugh Downs, the head man of NBC's "Today Show," somehow manages to crowd an incredible number of activities into his schedule.

He arises at 4:30 a.m., for his daily chores—host, interviewer, salesman, introducer, light conversationist — on the two-hour morning show, and moves on to his job of gamesmaster and pitchman on the network's "Concentration."

He also finds time for flying lessons, French lessons, guitar practice, skin-diving, gun collecting, studying celestial navigation, carrying on a side-business that packages radio and television programs and commercial films, reading, and working for his favorite charity, the Mental Health Society.

Downs, 43, recently returned from a vacation trip to Europe and in August will turn actor briefly to play in a summer stock production of "Love and Kisses."

Downs admits that he does crowd an enormous amount of activity into each day, but insists that he accomplishes it through "my theory of procrastination."

"If there isn't time today, there is always tomorrow or the day after—so just put it off," he explains.

Although Downs does make some plans far ahead—he expects to sail across the Pacific next summer—such foresight is necessary because of his broadcasting work.

"I don't seem to have any long-range goal in life, and I don't believe I ever have had," he says. "I sort of go along with things and see what happens.

"The short-range goal, of course, is to safeguard my family's living standard. And, of course, it would be nice if that could be accomplished with less air time for me. That would give me more time to follow things in which I'm interested."

Downs, his attractive dark-haired wife Ruth and daughter Deirdre, 15, live in a mid-Manhattan apartment, a long walk away from Downs' studio. Son Hugh, 18, will soon be entering Ohio's Bowling Green College. Deirdre is interested in becoming an actress and will study dramatics this summer at Interlaken, Mich.

GROUNDBREAKING AT BLUE MOUNTAIN—Groundbreaking ceremonies were held Thursday afternoon for a new 21-room elementary school estimated to cost $1,130,000 which will be built at Carelas Corners, Blue Mountain. The new school will be named the Dr. Grant D. Morse Elementary School. Dr. Morse is the former superintendent of schools. Saugerties Board of Education President Robert Herb wields shovel. To his left is Dr Dexter O.. Arnold, superintendent of schools. Others (l-r) include school officials, board members, Architect Albert E. Milliken and George Swart of the construction firm, Henry A. Swart and Son of Kingston. (Patryk photo)

Ceremonies Held To Signal Start Of Newest School

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the Grant D. Morse Elementary School at Blue Mountain were conducted at 2 p. m. Thursday. Presiding was Board President Robert Herb, architect Albert E. Milliken, Superintendent of Schools Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, and George Swart of the construction firm of Henry A. Swart and Son, Kingston.

Members of the Board of Education present were Jack O. Pakanen, Anthony Riozzi, Steve Stycos, Stuart Buchan, and Arthur Simmons. Members of the school staff present were Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds David Hildebrandt, Business Manager Gerald Snyder, Director of Elementary Education Miss May Evans, Principal Norman Bolinder of the Main Street School, and Principal Patrick Buonfiglio of the Glasco School.

The school has been named to honor Dr. Grant D. Morse, former superintendent of schools in Saugerties. Dr. Morse served 43 years as a public school administrator in New York State. The last 39 years, up until his retirement in January of 1963, were spent in the Saugerties system, 37 years as superintendent, and two years previous to that as high school principal. He came here from Salem, New York where he was supervising principal of Washington Academy.

Dr. Morse graduated from Roxbury High School in Delaware County; from Winston Academy in Easthampton, Mass. and from New York University, where he earned the AB Degree; and where during his graduate years, he was a member of Delta Upsilon Fraternity, a member of the varsity debate team, and editor-in-chief of the college magazine, "The Medley." Six years after graduation from NYU he earned the MA Degree and a superintendent's diploma from Columbia University in New York.

In 1941 he earned a PhD Degree from New York University where he specialized in public school administration, and wrote his doctoral thesis on the effectiveness of an educational offering to the needs of various levels of intelligence.

Dr. and Mrs. Morse are the parents of three children who went through the Saugerties schools system—Dr. Roger A. Morse, currently assistant professor of entomology, Cornell University; Mrs. Jean Kallop of Voorheesville, formerly an elementary teacher after graduation from Oneonta State Teachers College; and Stanley C. Morse, currently a student of business administration at Rider College, Trenton, N. J. Dr. and Mrs. Morse reside on Ulster Avenue in Saugerties.

The sum of $1,130,000 was allocated for construction of the Grant D. Morse Elementary School and is part of the $2,875,000 bond issue voted last June. The 21-room elementary school for grades K-6 is scheduled for completion prior to the beginning of school in September, 1965, and is expected to eliminate the need for split-sessions in the elementary grades during that year.

Contractor for general construction is Henry A. Swart and Son of Kingston; heating and ventilating contractor, Tougher Heating and Plumbing, Incorporated of Albany; plumbing contractor, C. B. Strain of Kingston; electrical contractors, E. R. A. Electrical Construction Corporation of Kingston; and paving contractor, William E. West Incorporated of Woodstock.

Legion Announces Memorial Day Speaker, Schedule

Lamouree-Hackett Post American Legion of Saugerties, brings back another "native son" as principal speaker for its annual Memorial Day ceremonies, on May 30th.

Activities will include a ceremony at the monument in the rear of the Legion Building, and a parade to the Main Street school grounds where Air Force Chaplain Colonel John P. Fellows will deliver the Memorial Day address.

Col. Fellows was born and reared in Saugerties. He received his Bachelor of Arts from Colgate University in 1933 and Bachelor of Divinity from Union Theological Seminary, New York, in 1936.

He served as pastor of Methodist churches in Cairo, and Lakeville, Conn., prior to duty with the Army Air Force at Dow Field, Maine in March 1942. After being selected as a first lieutenant in March 1943, he was transferred to post chaplain at the U. S. Military Academy at West Point.

COL. JOHN P. FELLOWS

1949; Chaplain School, Lackland AFB Tex. 1950-51 where he was promoted to lt. colonel; Scott Air Force Base, April 1951-52; Tech. Training Base, Gulfport Miss. 1952-54; Air War College, Air University, 1954-55 where he was promoted to colonel and then appointed staff chaplain Northeast Air command for period to 1957.

Col. Fellows served until 1958 as staff chaplain, Atlantic Division MATS, McGuire AFB, N. J. when he was transferred to Hq MATS, Scott AFB, Ill. In 1960 he was assigned to Hq PACAF Hawaii as command chaplain and in August 1963 became command chaplain of Hq AFSC, at the Pentagon, Washington, D. C., his present tour of duty.

Chaplain Fellows is married to the former Ethel Teschmacher and is the father of three children. His hobbies include building Hi Fi components, fishing, golf and woodwork. He is the son of Mrs. Lewis F. Fellows of Virginia Avenue, Saugerties.

As in past years, the American Legion invites all school, civic, veteran, fraternal, church, and other groups to join in the parade line to pay respects to our war dead on Memorial Day. Details of the parade formation, line of march will be announced next week.

Reformed Church Lists Activities

"When We Pray" will be the sermon subject of the Rev. Orville Jay Hine at the 11 a. m. Sunday service at Saugerties Reformed Church.

The sermon will deal with a discussion of the Christian Life. Music will be by the senior choir who will sing the anthem entitled "Blessed Are They."

At the 9:45 a. m. session of Sunday church school, a film depicting the work of the American Bible Society will be shown by George Turner at the opening worship.

Youth Fellowship will meet at 5 p. m. This is a postponed meeting. There will be recreation, worship and a hot dog roast. Each person attending the meeting is asked to bring their own box lunch.

Saugerties Area Council of Churches meets for its annual meeting at Flatbush Reformed Church Monday. Those wishing to attend may communicate with the pastor or Walter Karch, delegate to the Council of Churches.

In Field Exercise

WITH DESERT STRIKE FORCES IN THE SOUTHWEST U. S. — Airman Second Class Robert Curry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Curry of Route 1, Saugerties, is in the field with U. S. Air Force Military Air Transport Service (MATS) airlift units now engaged in Exercise Desert Strike being conducted by U. S. Strike Command. The realistic combat operation is the largest joint air-ground training maneuver in the southwestern states since World War II.

Airman Curry, an aircraft propeller repairman, and other members of flying and support units of the MATS world-wide airlift force, are part of the vast Air Force team providing full air support for the U. S. Army battlefield troops participating. The exercise will run through May 30 on 13,000,000 acres of desert land in California, Arizona and Nevada.

The airman, permanently assigned to Dover AFB, Del., is a graduate of Saugerties High School.

Mother of Year Addresses Nearly 100 at West Camp

Nearly 100 attending the mothers and daughters dinner of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, West Camp Wednesday night heard the address of Mrs. Alma Kitchell of Larchmont, this year's New York State Mother of the Year.

The annual dinner also featured a hat contest, the presentation of several awards, and a program with youth of the church participating.

Adult winners were: Funniest, Mrs. Rose Altevogt; most original, Mrs. Betty Knaust, and prettiest, Mrs. Billie Stewart.

Special awards in the following categories were announced: Youngest mother, Mrs. Gretchen Coons Craft; most children in attendance, Mrs. Nettie Nehr and Mrs. Betty Knaust, both three; grandmother with most grandchildren in attendance, Mrs. Rosette Winchell and Mrs. Katherine Knaust, both four.

Mrs. Ella Stewart received special recognition on the occasion of her 80th birthday, although she could not attend.

Mrs. Fred Messersmith, mother of the Rev. Alvin F. Messersmith, pastor of the church, was also recognized for the mother that traveled the farthest. She came from Buffalo.

Mrs. Kitchell in her address spoke about the many types of things for which mothers are honored. Mrs. Herman Knaust Sr., served as mistress of ceremonies.

The program included a vocal solo by Mrs. Betty Knaust, presentations by Josie Winchell, Diana Lewis and Sharon Moon. Mrs. Henry Knaust was program chairman.

Those who were elected at the April meeting were: President, the Rev. Joseph H. Rainear; first vice president, the Rev. Henry Reinewald; second vice president, the Rev. George D. Wood; secretary, Robert F. Myer and treasurer, Earle R. Haley.

The Rev. Alvin F. Messersmith, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, West Camp, a past president of the council, will be the installing officer.

The guest speaker will be the Rev. Roy Severance of Hyde Park. He is chairman of the Commission on Radio and Television of the New York State Council of Churches. The meeting is open to all.

Reservations for the dinner should be made by contacting Mrs. Dorothy Borcherdt or Mrs. Elsa Sorensen.

Council Knights Initiate Class In Fourth Degree

Six members of Saugerties Council 4536, Knights of Columbus, were initiated into the fourth degree at the regular meeting of the Council Wednesday night in the K of C Home in Saugerties.

They were Matthew Duer, Leon R. Leonard, Frank J. Spada, Alfred D. Hopf, Joseph C. Fondino and Peter J. Snyder.

Guests from the Kingston Council included James Kelly, supreme insurance representative, Ralph Clark and Joseph Stinson. George J. Becker, grand knight of Saugerties Council, conducted the meeting.

Veteran Group Sets Communion Breakfast

Altar-Rosary Society of St. John's Church, Veteran, will hold its annual Communion breakfast at the Veteran parish hall Sunday following the 10 a. m. Mass at the church.

All ladies of the parish are invited.

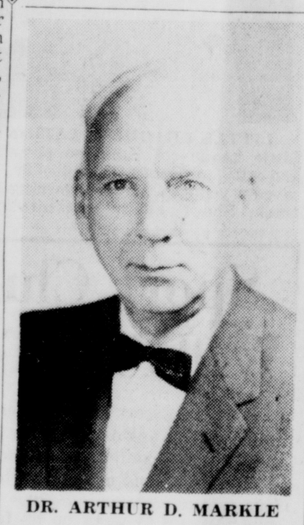

Mrs. Andrew Savage of Kingston, a teacher-trainer of Christian doctrine, will be the guest speaker.

Legionaires Dance

Lamouree Hackett Post 72, American Legion will hold its May dance Saturday 9 p. m. at the Legion Home.

Music will be by Bill Williams and his band. A buffet supper will be served by the Legion Auxiliary.

No need to add garlic to salad dressing; just rub the salad bowl with a cut clove of garlic before adding the ingredients.

DR. ARTHUR D. MARKLE

Named by UCCC To Full-Time Job

A Lyndurst, N. J. educator, Dr. Arthur D. Markle, has been appointed to the full-time faculty of Ulster County Community College, effective Sept. 1. Dr. Markles also resides in High Falls.

Dr. Markle will be in the business division and will teach accounting and business.

The New Jersey educator, who is currently on the parttime faculty at UCCC, has a bachelor's and master's degree from Rutgers University, and LL.B. from New Jersey Law School and the doctorate from New York University.

Dr. Markle has been on the parttime faculty at Fairleigh Dickinson University for more than 20 years, teaching accounting and business law. He also has had a career of successful experience in both classroom teaching and administration in the public schools of New Jersey.

Eltinge Award Presented to Fair St. Youth

The Ella O. Eltinge Memorial Award was presented by the Fair Street Reformed Church to Gary R. Ballou recently.

This award was established in 1962 to honor the memory of Mrs. Ella O. Eltinge who served as organist at the Fair Street Reformed Church for 48 years, retiring in 1958. Each year it is presented to one of the young people of the church for "outstanding contributions to the life of the church through the avenue of music or other activity, and for exemplary Christian characer."

Ballou is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Ballou, 202 West Chestnut Street, Kingston. He is a junior at Kingston High School, and a member of the Senior Reformed Church Youth Fellowship at the Fair Street Church, which he is serving as treasurer. He also serves the Reformed Church Youth Fellowship of the Classis of Ulster as treasurer. He was a preacher in the church on Youth Sunday in 1963. He was a member of the basketball team which won the championship in the Protestant Church Basketball League in 1963 and was runner-up this year and he was selected to be a member of the league's all-star team. An active participant in all phases of activity at the Fair Street Church, Ballou is a member of the Senior Seminar Church School Class.

The Eltinge Memorial Award was presented as a part of the morning worship service at the Fair Street Church by S. James Matthews, chairman of the Christian Education Commission which had chosen Gary Ballou as the winner.

Gould Selected

gram of educational TV in the New York City area.

The university president, however, also receives a $10,000 annual allowance for expenses and is provided with a state-owned official residence and automobile.

Gould, a native and current resident of New York City, was graduated from Bates College, Lewiston, Me., with Phi Beta Kappa honors in 1930 and received a master of arts degree from New York University in 1936. He tolds honorary doctor of laws degrees from Bates College and Wilberforce University, Wilberforce, Ohio.

He served as president of Antioch College, at Yellow Springs, Colo., from 1954 to 1959, when he became chancellor of the University of California at Santa Barbara. He shifted to his present post in 1962.

Hopes to Stay 15 Years

The president-designate said he was "pleased and exhilarated" by the appointment and hoped he would be able to hold the post for "about 15 years." Hamilton held it three years.

"I accept the job as a challenge and I certainly hope to give it all I have,'- Gould said.

As university president, he will preside over a $1-billion expansion program designed to increase its capacity from the present 75,000 full-time students to 160,000 by 1970.

The university was created in 1948 by merging a score of institutions scattered across the state. It now comprises 58 units, including 3 graduate centers, 2 medical centers, a graduate school, 18 four-year colleges, 6 two-year agricultural and technical institutes and 28 two-year community colleges.

In the absence of a president, J. Lawrence Murray, university secretary, has been acting as chief administrative officer.

Gould's appointment drew words of approval from the state's chief education official, Education Commissioner James E. Allen Jr.

Allen called Gould "a capable and imaginative educator with a rich experience" and expressed confidence that "he will give outstanding leadership to the State University."

Some good cooks like to let their pastry for pies "rest" about 10 minutes before rolling it out.

Worker Crushed in Cab

LAKE GEORGE, N.Y. (AP)—A steam shovel operator working on a highway project in this Upstate resort village was crushed in his cab Thursday when a dump truck backed into the steam shovel.

Frederick Maye, 38, of Ticonderoga, died of internal injuries at Glens Falls Hospital, a few hours after the accident.

New Chemical Phenomenon Ends Floor Waxing Forever

From the Research Laboratories of a pioneer chemical formulator for the Polaris Nuclear Submarines, Missile and Space Industries comes a new discovery so unusual it's almost unbelievable.

Newark, N. J. (Special)—The most wasteful, time-consuming chore in every household, is the ardous, weekly task of a woman bending over, scrubbing, waxing her floors. Homes with their large areas of asphalt, vinyl-asbestos, rubber, linoleum, vinyl and wood floors in kitchens, living and game rooms, virtually chain the housewife to her wax applicator and buffing machine, for hundreds of dreary hours of body-grinding drudgery.

Some years ago there was not much that could be done to eliminate this weekly drudgery of floor waxing and buffing. Things have changed however. There is now available in this area, a new chemical phenomenon, a clear, liquid plastic polyurethane coating, developed by PROTEX-A-COTE, INC., Newark 14, N. J. and the name of this back saver is PORSELON PT-100 and is manufactured by no other company in the world.

PT-100, can be safely and easily applied by use of a lamb's wool applicator, brush or spray to all types of floors: Asphalt tiles, vinyl, vinyl-asbestos, rubber, composition, linoleum, wood, terrazzo and concrete as well, and is manufactured by the makers of protective coatings for the Polaris Nuclear Submarines, Polaris, Talos and Minuteman missiles, highways, bridges, airports, missile bases, General Motors, Ford Motor Co., Du Pont, General Dynamic, General Electric, Westinghouse, Republic and Grumman Aviation, ITT Telephone, Union Carbide, Lehman Bros. Properties, Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, etc.

Now for the first time in history, you can take the drudgery out of floor waxing and polishing forever. PT-100 imparts a high-gloss mirrorlike, non-slip, long-lasting finish that never, never has to be waxed or polished. An occasional swish of a damp mop keeps your floors sparkling clean.

At first PT-100 was sold only to industrial and commercial users. In one test application, a clear polyurethane coating was applied to 30,000 square feet of wood flooring in a chemical plant. A year later, after having been continually subjected to steel-wheeled fork lift trucks and daily wear by 10,000 carts, chemical spillage and heavy foot traffic, the clear polyurethane finish was still intact with its original high gloss unmarred by the exposure. By comparison, high priced, nationally known, clear floor coatings, exposed to the same conditions at the same time, disappeared almost entirely in the first four months.

Your floors will be waterproof, pet and baby-proof extremely resistant to spilled juices, boiling water, acids, oils, greases, all types of soaps and detergents. Dries dustfree in less than 60 minutes, will not chip, peel, crack or blister. It's non-slip gloss is extremely high, without dulling or yellowing with ageing.

PT-100's famous secret formula many have tried to imitate but, of course, no one has been able to copy it exactly. PT-100 is fortified with *ZALBA, wonder chemical provides film toughness, abrasion-resistance. Test in independent laboratories have proven an increase in film life of more than 20 times.

PT-100 is available in clear, white, black and 12 decorators colors with at least a 5 year life expectancy, and there is virtually no limit to what you can coat with PT-100, interior or exterior, on any of hundreds of other surfaces, siding, boats, tanks, farm machinery, trucks, silos, metal railings, swimming pools, patios, damp basements, etc. and you'll have a hard-time wearing it out.

Scores of net 45 were posted by Mrs. Franklin Crusius, Mrs. Werner Kolln and Mrs. Jerome Mills.

Newburgh JVs Blank Kingston

A steal of home and an unearned run gave the Newburgh Jayvees a 2-0 victory over Kingston High's Jayvees in a game in which the combined hit total was five.

Carl Kirel, a fastballing right hander, limited the locals to two hits and fanned nine. Frank McGowan and John Spinneweber of Kigston yielded only three hits.

Jack Heeney of Newburgh stole home in the fourth inning for Newburgh's first run and an error accounted for the second tally in the fifth. Heeney hit a double for the only extra base blow of the contest.

Charlie Green and Chip Grover accounted for the two Kingston singles.

Colgate's Edgerly Is Triple Captain

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP)—Versatile Brian Edgerly will wear three captain's hats during the 1964-65 athletic season at Colgate University.

Locals Get Runs In 1st Inning; Rios Hurls Win

Kingston High was able to garner just two hits but the Maroon players picked them up at the right time as they defeated Newburgh Free Acadamy, 6-3, in a DUSO game yesterday at Dietz Stadium.

The win keeps the KHS pennant hopes alive. First place Port Jervis squeezed by Middletown, 5-4, to remain on top.

Standings:

Middletown	2	4
Newburgh	2	4
Poughkeepsie	1	4

Starter Mickey Scott was as wild as a March wind. He gave up four walks and a hit in the first inning. Pistol Pete Petrillo relieved and was nicked for another safety, before settling down. By then it was too late. The home side had its half dozen runs and Gene Rios proceeded to make them stand up.

Scott walked Lou Perry, Nick Berardi and Paul Gruner to start the game. Rod DeVeau reached base on a fielders choice to score Perry. Mike Canning was walked to force in another run.

Petrillo Relives

Joe Amendola sent Scott to his early shower by singling home a pair of runs. Petrillo came in and Neil Becchtold sacrificed. After second baseman Bill Egan became the second out, Rios cracked a single to finish the KHS scoring for the afternoon.

The deflated defending champions nicked Rios for a pair of markers in the fourth on two walks and a hit. They added another in the sixth on a base on balls, a passed ball and two infield outs.

Meanwhile, Petrillo kept throwing goose eggs. The junior lefty walked two and fanned eight the rest of the way but it was too late with too little.

Coach Al Gruner's surprising club, with a 9-3 mark, closes its DUSO league season Monday at Poughkeepsie. Port has contests left with Newburgh and Poughkeepsie and must win both to insure the crown, provided the locals capture their Monday tilt.

Sport Club Booters Will Play Troy Sunday

Kingston Sport Club booters return to Central New York league action against the Troy Athletic Club, Sunday at 3 p. m. at Oehler's Mountain Lodge field.

The locals hold a one-point lead over Albany Sport Club, with four weeks remaining on the 1963-64 schedule. The KSP is a solid favorite to wrap up its fourth straight pennant but there is plenty of rugged opposition ahead.

Troy comes to town with one of its best team in years and an exciting contest is expected.

Marlboro Wins, 14-2, Over Onteora Central

Nearing a second straight UCAL championship, the Dukes of Marlboro used an eight-run second inning as an impetus in defeating Onteora, 14-2, yesterday at the Boiceville diamond.

Southpaw Vince Caserto hurled five excellent frames for coach Jack Kroh's club and Neil Fino finished the job. Linden Frasier had an off day for the losers, being nicked for 12 runs. John Mower turned in a good relief job.

Caserto was touched for a pair of runs in the first to offset a Marlboro marker in the top of the inning. However, the Dukes came back with eight big ones in the top of the second to put the contest out of reach.

Ben Trapani reached Mower for a homer in the seventh. Caserto had a bases loaded double while Rod Aurigemma and John Mataraza also doubled.

Caserto fanned 11 in his five inning stint. He walked four and gave up two hits. Fino surrendered two safeties, walked one and fanned five.

Tex Riley, Wrestler, Dies After Contest

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—Tex Riley, a long-time veteran of professional wrestling, died in Memorial Hospital Thursday night shortly after losing a match.

Riley, about 50, and his partner, Joe Scarpa, had just lost a tag team match with the Von Brauner twins, Kurt and Karl, when Riley complained of chest pains.

Riley was listed variously as a native of Mule Shoe or Amarillo, Tex., but in recent years had lived in Nashville, Tenn. He began his wrestling career in 1937.

NFL Rejects All-Star Bid

NEW YORK (AP) — The pro football World Series is not just around the corner. In fact, we may have a man on the moon first.

The latest attempt to get the two leagues together was turned down flatly by the National Football League.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle wired an official of the National Broadcasting Co. that "the NFL has no interest in your publicized proposal".

NBC had offered to donate $500,000 to the Kennedy Memorial Library Fund for television rights to an all-star game between the NFL and the American Football League.

AFL Commissioner Joe Foss wired his acceptance from the league meeting in Kansas City.

"Any time pro football wants to attain the high level of major league baseball the leagues have got to meet headon," Foss said. "I think it's a terrific idea."

In turning down the proposal, Rozelle said the league had made plans several weeks ago with the Kennedy family for participation in the Memorial Library Fund. He pointed out that the fund would share in receipts of an exhibition game between Philadelphia and Detroit at Philadelphia Aug. 23.

Gaffney, Pauker Fire 70's As Maroon Routs MHS, 11-1

Dan Gaffney and Neil Pauker fired par 70's to pace Kingston High's golf varsity to a 11-1 rout of Middletown High in a DUSO League match Thursday at Twaalfskill.

Gaffney scorched the Twaalfskill layout with seven birdies en route to nines of 38 and 32. Pauker, 36-34-70, had four birdies on his card.

Kingston's overall stroke margin was 292 to 313. Bob Barthel contributed a 75 and Sam Spiegel had 77.

Duden's 65 Low In Memphis Golf

By VAN SAVELL

MEMPHIS (AP)—Bob Duden hasn't won a golf tournament in 14 years on the pro circuit, but you wouldn't believe it after his last 36 holes.

The veteran from Portland, Ore., who uses his bent-shaft putter like a croquet mallet, has everything but a hole-in-one to his credit. Duden had a 68 Wednesday, including a double eagle, an eagle and a triple bogey. That was only a preview.

Duden fired a five-under-par 65 Thursday and took the first-round lead in the $50,000 Memphis Open Golf Tournament. He had five birdies and 13 par holes.

Trailing the 43-year-old Duden by one stroke with 66s were pre-tournament favorite Arnold Palmer, Gene Littler, Gay Brewer and young Paul Bondeson. Bruce Devlin, Mason Rudolph and Doug Sanders were bunched at 67.

Defending champion Tony Lema, his ailing back much improved, had a 68. Jack Nicklaus, unable to recover from a double bogey first hole, shot a 520-over-par 72.

In all, 33 golfers broke par over the 6,466-yard, par 34-36—70 Colonial Country Club course. There were 15 others bunched at 70. The first cut will be made today with the low 80 going in Saturday's round. The low 60 will go in Sunday's final round with $7,500 going to the winner.

Bruno Sammartino-Mortier Head Next Wrestling Card

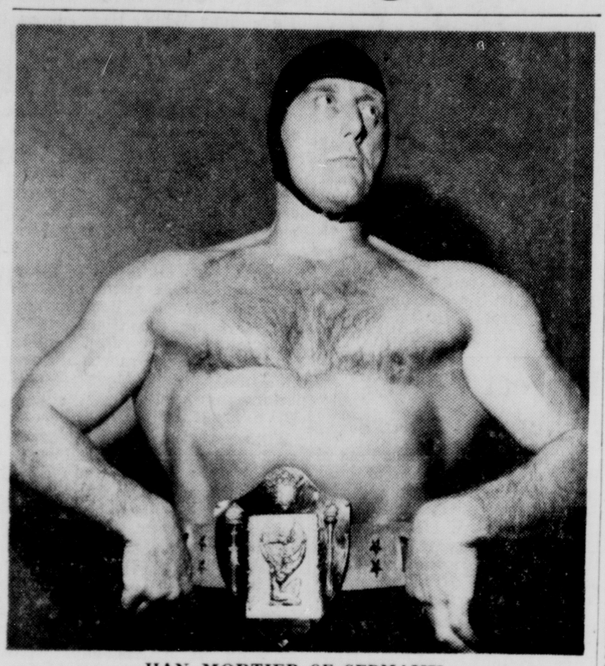

Wrestling's hottest piece of merchandise — Bruno Sammartino, the current world champion, returns to the municipal auditorium on Wednesday, June 3, for the main bout with the new German sensation, Han Mortier.

Sammartino and Dr. Jerry Graham drew one of the largest wrestling crowds in many years and the Sammartino fans are expected to return in droves.

Mortier is a newcomer to the top ranks of wrestling. He came to the United States after scoring sensational successes in Europe and around the world.

"The Sammartino-Mortier bout should be just as exciting as the last one between Sammartino and Graham," Promoter Ed Ceccolini of Ossining said.

HAN MORTIER OF GERMANY

Three Solo Bouts

Don McClarity of Omaha meets Max Mortier of Germany.

The popular Miguel Perez takes on Klondike Bill of Alaska and the opening bout pairs Pedro Morales of Puerto Rico against Boris Malenko of Russia.

Sammartino will again be the big lure. He has risen in stature to equal the fabulous Argentine Rocca as box office attraction. Two weeks ago he battled Gorilla Monsoon for more than an hour before 16,000 fans at Madison Square Garden.

Promoter Ed Ceccolini of Ossining predicted Kingston area fans will be pleased with the several new faces on the card.

Ruth Jessen Has Record Low 64

DALLAS (AP)—Ruth Jessen shot a seven-under-par 64, the lowest round ever for the Dallas Civitan Open Golf Tournament.

It was just one of a dozen subpar rounds, all made possible largely by movement of the tee markers in such a way that 302 yards were cut from the Glen Lakes Country Club course. It was trimmed to 5,936 yards.

The ladies PGA didn't like it but will recognize the 64 as equaling the all-time record set By Patty Berg at Richmond, Calif., in 1952. That gave Miss Jessen a three-stroke lead in the first round of the $13,500 tourney.

Mickey Wright, defending champion of the Civitan, shot a one-under-par 70 Thursday as she opened her bid for her fourth straight tournament championship.

In second place as the tournament moves into its second round are Judy Torluemke, a comparative newcomer to the tour, and Carol Mann, who won the Western Open this year. They had 67s.

Louise Suggs, three-time winner of the Civitan and one of the favorites this year, had a 71.

U.S. Royal has developed a tire construction that is so strong, we can make this unheard-of offer:
If the tire fails for any reason, except for a repairable puncture or deliberate abuse, as long as there is still 1/16" of original tread left,
U.S. Royal will give you a brand new tire free.
Do not confuse this offer with the usual "partial allowance" toward a new tire, based on remaining tread.
This offer covers:
The U.S. Royal first-line tire (Safety 800)
The tiger's paw (Red-circle Super Safety 800)
The U.S. Royal premium tire (Red-circle Royal Master)
Road hazards are included in the offer. No time limit. No mileage limit.

Dark Rates Mays As Mgr. Prospect

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "Willie Mays, as far as I'm concerned, is managerial material," said San Francisco Giants Manager Alvin Dark in naming the star center fielder as the club's field captain.

Dark wouldn't expand his comment on managerial potential yet the possibility exists that the 33-year-old Mays might eventually become the first Negro to manage in the major leagues.

It hasn't been filled since the present manager served as the Giants captain from 1950 until 1956 under Leo Durocher.

Mays commented, "I'm very proud to be captain." Asked about any managerial aspirations, he answered, "It's too early to think about managing. I hope I have four or five more years of playing before I think about managing."

Acutally, the appointment only makes official many of the things Mays has been doing unofficially for years, primarily moving the outfielders into defensive positions.

Boxing Commission To Join World Group

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The New York State Boxing Commission probably will be admitted as a full member of the World Boxing Council at the council's next convention, a council official said Thursday night.

The convention will be held next September in Vienna.

When the council was organized here, the New York Commission's entry as a full member was opposed on grounds that the World Boxing Association should represent New York as it did the rest of the United States.

Daniels Wins 5th For Nats

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bennie Daniels, who used to throw bee bees, has switched to baseballs and is off to the best start of his unspectacular major league career.

Daniels, 31-year-old right-hander of the Washington Senators, joined Dave Wickersham of Detroit and Minnesota's Camilo Pascual as the American League's winningest pitchers, picking up his fifth victory in the Senators' 8-2 triumph over the Tigers Thursday.

His victory total equals the number of games he won last season when he didn't gain a triumph until June 27.

Daniels needed relief help from Jim Duckworth in the ninth inning but still allowed the Tigers only four hits as he reduced his earned-run average to 2.94. He now has permitted one earned run in 15 2-3 innings.

Daniels never has reached the potential others thought he had when he joined the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1957. He pitched in four seasons with the Pirates but won only eight games while losing 16.

However, he was so fast it was said he threw bee bees.

Daniels won 12 games for the Senators in 1961, his career high, but won progressively fewer games the next two years. In 1962, for example, he won on opening day, then lost 10 in a row.

In other AL games, Baltimore outlasted Kansas City 7-6 despite Manny Jimenez' grand-slam home run and Boston nipped Los Angeles 8-7.

Gets Early Support

The Senators provided Daniels with early support, scoring three runs in the first inning against Jack Hamilton in his first American League game. Chuck Hinton's double and Jim King's single sent home two of the runs. Hinton singled across two more runs in Washington's three-run seventh.

Ed Brinkman homered in the eighth for the Senators while Gates Brown connected in the first for Detroit. The Tigers added an unearned run in the sixth.

The Orioles led 7-2 going into the Athletics' eighth. Wally Bunker, who had scattered four hits, gave up singles to Nelson Mathews and Ed Charles before walking Jim Gentile.

Stu Miller came on for the 16th time this season and got Rocky Colavito on a fly ball. Jimenez then smashed his homer, cutting Baltimore's lead to a run.

Colavito homered in the fourth, tying Harmon Killebrew for the AL lead with 11. Brooks Robinson drove in three runs and Boog Powell two for Baltimore.

The Red Sox eased by the Angels on a hit batsman and Carl Yastrzemski's triple to center field in the sixth off reliever Willie Smith.

The Angels tied the game 7-7 with five runs in the fifth. Arnold Earley walked in two of the runs. Frank Malzone singled home two Boston runs in the five-run second, and Ed Bressoud slammed a two-run homer in the fourth.

Expansion Is Major Headache For AFL Moguls

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Development of an expansion policy today is the No. 1 task on the American Football League agenda, made more crowded by a proposed all-star game rejected by the National Football League.

Dave Dixon of New Orleans, using warm weather and January television exposure as his selling points, will propose a three-game AFL title playoff. The second game—and third if needed—would be in New Orleans.

Dixon's proposal had been scheduled for Thursday, before the National Broadcasting Co. made its offer to donate $500,000 to the Kennedy Memorial Library Fund for rights to an AFL-NFL all-star game.

Joe Foss, AFL commissioner, called a special meeting before the regular session. The AFL owners unanimously approved the NBC offer.

No target date for expansion is expected to come out of the AFL meeting which ends tonight, but Foss said the owners will establish a policy and provide budget information and application blanks to prospective owners.

The AFL owners want time to consolidate their positions under the $36 million five-year NBC contract which starts in 1965 before considering new members. If and when the eight-club league decides to expand, it's likely New Orleans would be one of the first clubs considered.

Kelso in Debut For '64 Season

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mighty Kelso, Horse of the Year for the past four years, makes his 1964 debut Saturday in the $50,000 Los Angeles Handicap in the top thoroughbred race of the day.

Second only to Round Table in the all-time money-winning list with earnings of $1,581,702, Kelso will use his start in the seven-furlong Los Angeles at Hollywood Park as a tuneup for the $100,000 Californian two weeks later.

Slated to go to the post against the Golden Gelding from Mrs. Richard duPont's Bohemia Stable is a strong field including Cyrano, Admiral's Voyage, Mr. Consistency and Mustard Plaster.

Kelso, making his first start since he was beaten by Mongo in the Washington, D.C. International at Laurel last November, will tote 130 pounds including his usual rider, Ismae (Milo) Valenzuela. He indicated his fitness with a sizzling 58-second workout for five furlongs Thursday.

Cyrano, assigned 124 pounds, and Admiral's Voyage, 121, also indicated their sharpness with half-mile works of 45 3-5 and 45 4-5, respectively.

Herbert Peck's Bridge Leaders

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Peck of Woodland posted a fine 62½ per cent score to lead the North-South side of the Glenerie Bridge Club tournament. Leaders on the East-West side were Mrs. Vera Wilkins of Shokan and Dr. John Comstock of Kingston with 56½ per cent.

The runnersup were:

North-South: Mrs. Eleanor Triller, Poughkeepsie, and Harry Thayer, Kingston, 59 per cent; Leon Miller and L. Bergman, Kingston, 57½ per cent; Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Wheatcroft, Kingston, 53½ per cent.

East-West: Dr. and Mrs. John Olivet, Kingston, 56 per cent; Dr. and Mrs. Harry McNamara, Hurley, 54½ per cent; Roy Wulff and Joseph Mautner, Kingston, 54 per cent.

A fractional point game is scheduled tonight at 8 o'clock at the Bridge Studios, 271 Fair Street.

Jeremiah Hanover Is Winner in 1:58

Jeremiah Hanover stepped off a torrid 1:58 3-5 mile Thursday night to capture the $4,000 conditioned pace as Vernon Downs opened its harness racing season.

A crowd of 7,038 wagered $315,045, a record handle for Vernon Downs, as the season began at the central New York track.

Jeremiah Hanover paid $5.40 to win.

Vernon officials said the winner's time was the fastest for a pace in the nation this year.

Other harness activity:

Yonkers Raceway — Overtrick ($3.40) scored a neck victory over Cardigan Bay in the $50,000 International Pace. Country Don was third. The time for the 1½ mile pace

Buffalo Raceway — Kwik Kat won the $2,000 invitational pace by edging out Stoney Burke and Scottish Port in a photo finish. The time for the mile was 2:03 1-5. The winner, driven by Ed Arthur, paid $3.80.

Williams Takes Lead Over Mays

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Move over Willie. Here comes Billy.

Forget it Willie. There goes Billy.

That's how fast the National League batting lead changed hands Thursday as Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs boosted his average to .402 and took over the top spot held by San Francisco's Willie Mays since April 22.

Hitless in 10 at-bats, Mays broke out of his slump by tagging his 15th and 16th homers and powering the Giants to a 9-4 victory over Philadelphia that lifted San Francisco back into first place. Mays' 2-for-4 performance left him with a .397 average.

Williams, meanwhile, stroked two singles and a double in four at-bats during the Cubs' 10-3 loss to St. Louis, finally overcoming a Mays' lead that stood at 177 points less than a month ago.

Williams began Operation Overhaul on April 29 when he was hitting .311 and Mays was batting .488. Since then, Williams has been on a 19-game tear, swinging at a .458 clip, while Mays has hit a more-than-respectable .346 but still lost 91 points off his average.

In the other two games scheduled, pitchers stole the spotlight. Dick Farrell tied San Francisco's Juan Marichal for the most victories in the majors by winning his sixth in Houston's 3-1 triumph over Pittsburgh and Sandy Koufax struck out 11 in the Los Angeles Dodgers' 6-1 triumph over the New York Mets.

The Phillies and Giants were tied 4-4 in the fifth when Mays and Orlando Cepeda took over. Mays, who homered with one on in the first inning, snapped the tie with a solo shot and Cepeda put it out of reach by connecting after a walk to Willie McCovey. Mays and Cepeda each drove in three runs.

Richie Allen homered for the Phillies, who were stopped on one hit over the last six innings by reliever Bob Bolin.

Williams, battling to become the first Cub to win the batting title since Phil Cavaretta in 1945, led a 12-hit attack against Ray Sadecki, but the Cardinals had the power.

Tim McCarver and Bill White each tagged two-run homers and Doug Clemens smacked a bases-loaded triple. With that support, Sadecki went all the way, squaring his record at 3-3 with his third straight victory.

Farrell, bringing his record to 6-1, needed Hal Woodeshick's relief help in the ninth after Bill Virdon and Jerry Lynch opened with singles. Woodeshick got Roberto Clemente to hit into a doubleplay and struck out Gene Freese to end the threat.

The Colts got all the runs they needed in the fourth against Vern Law, now 1-4, scoring twice on singles by Nellie Fox, Walt Bond and Mike White plus an error by Lynch on the last hit.

Koufax brought his record to 4-3 and struck out 10 or more in one game for the 53rd time in his career. The record for 10-strikeout performances is 54, held jointly by Rube Waddell and Bob Feller. Koufax was touched for seven hits by the Mets.

Tommy Davis went 3-for-3 for the Dodgers while Jim Gilliam and Frank Howard each collected two hits. Koufax contributed to his own cause, singling in the fifth inning and starting a four-run rally.

Front Office Post For Old Luke Easter

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Veteran Luke Easter of the Rochester Red Wings has been deactiviated to assume fulltime duties as a coach and parttime chores in the Rochester front office, it was announced Thursday night.

General Manager George Sisler Jr., in making the announcement, said that Easter will maintain his coaching duties with the Wings and will assume promotional tasks with the Wings' manage,ent a job Luke has enjoyed in the past.

Admitting to 52 years of age, Easter had two hits in eight times at bat with the Wings this season after a long career in the minor leagues and term of service with the Cleveland Indians in the majors.

Parents Walk Shore, Find Body of Son, 22

OSWEGO, N.Y. (AP) — After five weeks of futile searching, Mrs. Rockwell Powers told neighbors Thursday she expected she would find the body of her drowned son that very day.

Later, as Mr. and Mrs. Powers walked along the shore of Lake Ontario west of here, they came upon the body of 22-year-old James H. Powers.

He was one of four young people who perished in a boating accident April 13.

The bodies of the other three were found previously but that of young Powers had remained missing. His parents, who live in Sterling, Cayuga County, refused to give up the search, however.

They found the body at a point about five miles from the place where the 20 foot motorboat was swamped during a storm. The identification was aided by a leg brace he wore since a childhood attack of polio and by a sweater.

Sheriff's deputies said Mrs. Powers told neighbors in advance that she had a feeling she would find the body. The deputies said the body probably had been washed ashore Monday when high winds whipped the lake.

The other victims were William Wheeler, 18, his wife, Peggy, 17, of Red Creek, and Thomas Baker, 18, of Hannibal.

Dog Scheduled to Die

EAST ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—A three-time loser has lost the final round and is scheduled to die today, despite efforts by friends to save him.

Rex, a 13-month-old German Shepherd, owned by Mrs. Wilbur C. Bubel of East Rochester, has been in trouble with the law since March, when he began biting children. He was reprimanded by Peace Justice Nicholas Morabito after the first three bitings.

The only thing that saved him after the fourth biting were the impassioned pleas of Mrs. Bubel, who said Rex would be kept confined according to the village leash law.

Won't Rebuild Road

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Burma's military government has canceled plans to rebuild the road to Mandalay with $31.5 million in U.S. aid.

The foreign office said since the agreement with the United States was signed in 1962, the 400-mile highway between Rangoon and central Burma's chief city had lost its priority status.

Johnson Speaks To Grads About Chance to Serve

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—President Johnson told 4,900 graduating students today that during their lives they "have the opportunity to move not only toward the rich society and the powerful society, but upward to the great society."

It will require, he said, the rebuilding of cities and countryside.

Johnson, in a philosophical speech prepared for commencement exercises at the University of Michigan, declared that the challenge of the next half century is whether the nation has the wisdom to use its wealth "to enrich and elevate our national life—and to advance the quality of American civilization."

"The great society," he said, "rests on abundance and liberty for all. It demands an end to poverty and racial injustice but that is just the beginning."

Johnson pictured the great society as an affluent, cultured oasis, "where man can renew contact with nature" and where people "are more concerned with the quality of their goals than the quantity of their goods."

This would be a place, he said, of completely rebuilt cities, unspoiled countryside and bustling classrooms.

"In the next 40 years," he said, "we must rebuild the entire urban United States."

Johnson quoted the philosopher Aristotle that "men come together in cities in order to live, but they remain together in order to live the good life."

The President added: "It is harder and harder to live the good life in American cities."

Hotel Worker Is Facing Other Charges

A New Jersey man who is serving time in Ulster County Jail after conviction earlier this week on three charges, is awaiting arrest by authorities from New York and New Jersey on bad check charges.

State Police at the Ellenville substation said that Julius Nyars, 53, of Irvington, N. J., was sentenced Tuesday by Peace Justice Herbert Poppel, Town of Wawarsing, to 100 days in jail when he admitted charges of petit larceny, passing a fraudulent check and public intoxication. The petit larceny charge was reduced from an original charge of forgery by consent of the district attorney. Poppel sentenced Nyars to terms of 60 days on the bad check charge, 30 days on the petit larceny charge and 10 days for public intoxication.

Troopers said that Binghamton city police have a warrant for Nyars' arrest on a fraudulent charge and that Trenton, N. J. police filed a detainer on a similar charge. They said Nyers had been employed by the Pine Grove Hotel in Kerhonkson.

'64 'Ark' on Way

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—A 96-foot vessel built in 1891 as a fireboat is heading for Alaska's Aleutian Islands with a deckload of baled hay, a hold full of livestock and a pioneering family that thinks Montana's getting too crowded.

Aboard the freighter Robert Eugene are 500 sheep, five horses, half a dozen pigs, one rooster, a dog named Smokey, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Choate and their three children.

"We're all looking forward to this," Choate said Thursday. "We will have our ranch and a chance to build it as big as we want it. We're all used to hard work."

EMPLOYMENT

NOTICE TO JOB APPLICANTS
The Kingston Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept Help-Wanted advertisements from employers covered by the Federal Wage-Hour Law if they offer less than legal minimum wages. Most employes engaged in interstate or foreign commerce or in the production of goods for such commerce must be paid not less than $1.25 an hour and at least one and one-half times their regular rate of pay for hours worked after a maximum workweek of 40 hours, unless specifically exempt. Also, most employes in certain large retail, service, construction and other enterprises engaged in or producing goods for commerce, who have been entitled to a minimum wage of at least $1.00 an hour since September 3, 1961, must be paid overtime pay of not less than one and one-half times their regular rates for all hours worked after a maximum workweek of 44 hours, unless specifically exempt. If you are offered less by covered employers, or if you have questions concerning the Fair Labor Standards Act or other activities of the U. S. Department of Labor, call or write the Department's local office at 881 Gerard Ave., Bronx, N. Y. 10452 WYandotte 2-1235.

Hot Air Starts Eastward Move

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Unseasonably hot weather that sent temperatures to record high marks for the date in many Midwest areas Thursday moved eastward today, indicating an end of a cool spell in some eastern sections of the nation.

The midsummer heat covered most of the Plains and Midwest with temperatures in the 80s and 90s. In North Dakota the mercury hit the 100-degree mark in Grand Forks and 98 in Fargo, record high marks for May 21.

Minnesota also reported top marks for the date, including 95 International Falls, on the Canadian border.

Readings were in the 100-degree level in the Southwest desert region Thursday for the fourth straight day.

Some cooler air appeared headed into the northern Plains as the hot air spread eastward and was expected to extend over the Great Lakes region, the Ohio Vally and the Middle and North Atlantic States.

Warm Spell Area Outlook

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Extended forecasts, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau, from 7 p.m. today to 7 p.m. Wednesday:

Eastern New York — Warm. Temperatures averaging well above normal and rising to near mid-summer levels for the next few days. No significant rainfall indicated. A chance of a few isolated thundershowers in the next five days.

Western New York — Midsummer temperatures during the next five days, averaging 8 to 10 degrees above seasonal normals. Very warm over the weekend, moderating to near normal Monday and rising rapidly Tuesday and Wednesday. Precipitation will average about one-fourth of an inch in the form of showers and thundershowers Sunday and Wednesday.

Temperature normals — Daytime highs, 65-74. Nighttime lows, 46-51.

EMPLOYE RECOGNITION—At the fourth annual Employe Recognition Day held at Benedictine Hospital, the following received service awards: Seated (l-r) Lillian Schantz, 5 years; Gladys William, 10 years; Joan Straley, 5 years; Germaine Callahan, 29 years; Anastasia Henderson, 31 years; Ella Studt, 5 years; Eleanor Krom, 10 years; Eileen Reis, 5 years. Standing, Florence Nebeling, 10 years; Bertha Flicker, 5 years; Marie Dookins, 10 years; Lillian Woolley, 5 years; Ralph Mitchell, 10 years Mario Marola, 5 years; Leo Bigler, 5 years; John Wilson 27 years; Hazel Powell, 5 years; Florence McCoubrey, 5 years; Maureen Weick, 5 years; Mary Zoda 28 years. The presentations were made by Sister Mary Charles and Edwin B. Bolz, co-administrators, and Richard Wagner, personnel director. The awards represented over 200 years of service in the various departments of the hospital. Other speakers were Lt. Gen. B. T. Fay, USMC, (Retired) consultant to the Hospital Association of New York State, Mayor John J. Schwenk and Dr. John J. Cooke Jr., president of the medical staff. (Tom Reynolds photo)

Kong Le Gets Help

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Gen. Kong Le, hard-pressed commander of the Laotian neutralist army, reportedly has been reinforced by 800 troops who fought through Communist lines to rejoin him southwest of the Plaine des Jarres.

Military sources said the 800 had been cut off southeast of Kong Le's abandoned command post at Muong Phanh last weekend when the Pathet Lao launched an offensive that swept the neutralists from the strategic plateau 110 miles northeast of Vientiane.

Lenny Acquitted . . . But

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A judge listened to a recording of Lenny Bruce's night club act then acquitted him on an obscenity charge.

"If people want to pay to sit and listen to him, they deserve to hear what they hear," said the judge at the trial Thursday.

"Mr. Bruce has a dirty mind and degrades the American language and morality," the judge said.

4-H Club News

4-H Area Dress Reviews

The Ulster County 4-H Club Area Dress Reviews began in Hurley on Wednesday, May 13 at the Hurley Reformed Church. Miss Jo Ann Maxwell, General Chairman, selected Mrs. Frank Kurtsfeldt, Hurley; Mrs. Dorothy Darling, Port Ewen; Mrs. Bernard Kramer, Kingston; Mrs. Ernest Myer Jr., West Hurley and Mrs. Frank Bell of Port Ewen as Judges at this Review which was themed, "Fashions for You."

Miss Lynne Charlton, a member of the Hurley Busy Bees, took charge of the commentaries. Mrs. Floyd Nickerson and Mrs. James Roosa directed the modeling practice and line-up. Staging and Decorations were done by Mrs. Andrew Currie, Mrs. Earl Wright and Mrs. H. Seitz. Room arrangements for pressing and dressing were the duties of Mrs. Edward Muller and Mrs. Harvey Krause.

93 girls modeled 102 garments and were awarded 70 blue ribbons and 32 red.

On Thursday, May 14, the Stone Ridge Area held their Dress Review at the Marbletown School. Mrs. William Larsen, General Chairman, selected for the Judging: Mrs. Kenneth Bell, Mrs. Robert Davenport, Mrs. Patrick Donnelly, Mrs. Oskar Larsen, Mrs. Oscar Johnson, Mrs. James Dunbar, Mrs. Vernon Goetchius and Mrs. Elizabeth Barnhart. These judges awarded 63 blue ribbons and 30 red to 87 little girls who modeled 93 garments.

Serving as Commentators were: Misses Lillian Bogart, Lorraine Paetow, Kathy Stokes and Patty Duke.

Mrs. Charles Link, a local leader of the Stone Ridge Junior Busy Beavers took charge of the modeling practice and line-up. She was assisted by Mrs. William Warren and Mrs. Charles McGuffey. Staging and Decorations: Mrs. William Warren, Mrs. Alex Embree and Mrs. Richard Stokes. Publicity: Mrs. Elmer Schoonmaker; Room Arrangements: Mrs. William Warren and Mrs. William Larsen. Coffee Hour, Mrs. George Larsen and Mrs. George VonBargen.

On Friday, May 15, at the Wallkill School, the third Area Dress Review was held. Mrs. Francis Garrison, New Hurley was general chairman and Mrs. George Wildrick, co-chairman. Judges: Mrs. William Comfort, Mrs. Leland Hufcut, Mrs. Elmer Fries and Mrs. Herbert Carnes, all of Orange County.

Four of the older girls, Susan Masten, Beverly Schoonmaker, Debra Sherwood, and Barbara Backofen did the commentaries. Mrs. Gerald DuBois and Mrs. Bart Colluci handled the line-up and modeling practice. The Supper-hour Chairman was Mrs. John Bruhlman assisted by Mrs. James Cleveland, and Mrs. S. Schoonmaker.

Here 70 girls modeled 72 garments and were awarded 55 blue, 16 red, and 1 white ribbon.

Mrs. McLean F. Reynolds, Assistant County 4-H Club Agent made the welcoming remarks and distributed the awards and certificates at each of the Area Dress Reviews. Miss Margaret Gippert, 4-H Club Office Secretary was in charge of registration and many of the other activities necessary to the smooth operation of the 4-H Club Program. Miss Gippert is assisted by Mrs. Dorothy Green.

The final summary of the 4-H Dress Review for 1964 including the County Review for girls over 14 years of age held at the Rondout Valley Central School, May 9, are as follows: 4-H Club members participating, 285; garments 315, blue ribbons 215, red, 97; white, only 3.

According to Mrs. McLean F. Reynolds, the Assistant County 4-H Club Agent this has been a wonderful year for clothing construction.

The Top Ten Tea Selection will be held at Williams Lake on Wednesday, May 27th attended by the Selected Top Ten, their parents, and leaders; the 4-H Executive Committee and Homemaking Committee and the 4-H Club Office Staff.

Woman Holds Lead

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Genevieve Blatt held a 55-vote lead today in the nip-and-tuck contest for Pennsylvania's Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate as a complete recheck of the voting machines used in Philadelphia was underway.

The county board of elections ordered the opening of vote machines Thursday after checks in some wards showed some differences in the announced vote totals and the number of votes cast on the machines in the April 28 primary.

Before the recheck started Miss Blatt, state secretary of internal affairs, and State Supreme Court Justice Michael A. Musmanno, the Democratic organization - backed candidate, were in a tie.

Routine for Pilot

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—"It was all pretty much routine," says X15 pilot Milton O. Thompson after a forced landing.

Thompson walked away uninjured Thursday after engine failure forced him to land his X15 rocket plane on a dry lake bed 30 miles east of this desert test center.

May Picket Ships

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A vice president of the Marine Beneficial Engineers Association (MBEA) says all eight ships of the Hanna Mining Co. will be picketed in all Great Lakes ports until settlement is reached on a new contract.

Operations were shut down at the American ship building yard here when nearly 500 of its employes refused to cross an MBEA picket line Thursday.

Melvin Pelfrey, association vice president, said the picketing was against the Ernest T. Weir, a Hanna vessel undergoing repairs at the shipyard. He said his union and Hanna have been negotiating on the contract since July, 1962.

U.N. Delegates Study U.S. Border Guard Proposal

THE SUBJECT IS LAOS—U. S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson talks to Roger Seydoux, center, of France, president of the U.N. Security Council, and U.N. Secretary-General U Thant before debate on the Southeast Asia crisis. In his address to the Council Stevenson pledged that the U. S. will continue to defend Southeast Asia against Communist attacks as long as the people are determined to preserve their independence. (AP Wirephoto)

Laos Air Move 1st In Plans

Close U. S. Watch Is Needed on Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The start of U.S. jet reconnaissance flights over Red - threatened Laos may be only the first of several actions enlarging American military operations in Southeast Asia, officials said today.

Faced with Communist advances posing increasingly serious threats to Laos and neighboring South Viet Nam, U.S. policymakers have been considering a wide variety of moves, including:

Strikes against North Viet Nam, dispatch of more air and sea power into the area, landing of forces in Thailand if the Thai government agrees such help is necessary, and direct military intervention in Laos itself.

Further steps will be ordered, officials said, if the situation continues to deteriorate.

Another Carrier

In another development, not necessarily connected with the Laotian crisis, a Navy carrier squadron has left the Indian Ocean and rejoined the main body of the U.S. 7th Fleet in the Pacific, it was learned today. It brings to three the force of big attack carriers in Far Eastern waters.

Officials said they were not certain how quickly the confrontation in Southeast Asia would reach a showdown stage if diplomacy fails to find a way out of the present crisis.

Could Come Fast

Events could develop quickly, however, depending on what the Communists decide to do.

President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk were described as still hopeful that diplomatic pressures on the Communist powers and the prospect of greater U.S. military involvement in the area would cause the Communists to stop their offensive campaign against the forces of the neutralist Laotian government.

The reconnaissance flights were announced by the State Department Thursday after Peking Radio broadcast a report that Communist Pathet Lao troops had fired on two U.S. jet planes flying over the Plaine des Jarres.

Answer to Requests

The State Department said the United States had undertaken the reconnaissance flight in response to a request from the Lao government.

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — U.N. delegates today studied the possibility of the Security Council agreeing on U.S. proposals for the United Nations to sponsor military patrols along the troubled border between Cambodia and South Viet Nam.

Cambodia's representative at the U.N., Ambassador Voeunsai Sonn, told a reporter the suggestions for a U.N. watch on the frontier were "the really important part" of the policy speech that U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson made to the 11-nation council Thursday. He asked his government for comment.

Hunts Resolution Basis

Moroccan Ambassador Ahmed Taibi Benhima was in touch with other council delegates trying to find the basis for a resolution on the dispute.

The council meets again Monday.

Cambodia has charged that South Vietnamese troops, accompanied by U.S. officers, have been crossing into Cambodia and killing villagers. Sonn denied to the council Thursday that Communists fighting against the South Vietnamese government were using Cambodia as a sanctuary.

Stevenson insisted they were and said "this is the real reason for troubles on the Cambodian border." He admitted that an American adviser was with the South Vietnamese on one of the three border crossings Cambodia cited to the council. Pham Khac Rau of South Viet Nam said his country's troops had made an "occasional inadvertent crossing in pursuit of their enemies."

Alternative Suggestions

Stevenson made three alternative suggestions:

1. That the council ask Cambodia and South Viet Nam to establish a joint military force to patrol the frontier and report to U.N. Secretary - General U Thant;

2. That the force be given U.N. observers or a U.N. Command.

3. That it be "an all - U.N. force."

U.S. to Pay Part

He said the United States would contribute part of the cost of a U.N. force.

Sonn pressed for a new Geneva conference to guarantee Cambodia's neutrality and territorial integrity, but Stevenson (Continued on Page 12, Col. 4)

Can Retake White House, Rocky Avers

Goldwater Returning

Campaign aides of the absent Arizona senator accused Rockefeller forces of spending huge sums of money in "the most deliberate hatchet job ever attempted in American politics."

Goldwater himself tossed the charge of "cheap political demagoguery" at Rockefeller and announced in Washington he'll intensify his drive for votes in the June 2 primary.

Goldwater will return to the state Saturday, two days ahead of schedule. He plans to remain almost without a break until the primary.

Rockefeller has reached thousands of people in a four-day statewide tour. He has played down formal speeches and played up getting out among the voters.

Thursday he greeted hundreds of workers in a Fresno telephone company office, danced with several women at the Senior Citizens Center and spoke in Spanish to Latin-American students at the University of the Pacific in Stockton, and rode in a motorcade through the San Francisco East Bay area.

The New York governor stood for nearly three hours to shake 6,000 to 7,000 hands at a reception in Oakland, similar to one in Anaheim the night before. Rounding out a 14-hour day, he dropped in on a Negro restaurant to speak briefly with Oakland Negro leaders.

Growing Enthusiasm

Rockefeller declared he feels a growing enthusiasm for his race for California's 86 Republican delegates.

In a speech prepared for a San Francisco breakfast today he said "the Republican party can win the presidential election this year."

"Don't let anyone—even the pollsters—tell you otherwise," he said.

"The present Democratic administration can be beaten and should be beaten in order to restore leadership in Washington based on principle rather than political expediency."

Johnson Trains Aim At Grand-Slam Win

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyndon Baines Johnson, today six months in the presidency, is reported to be training his sights on a grand-slam victory at the polls in November — 50 states and the District of Columbia.

Johnson, who stepped out of the background Nov. 22 to grasp the torch of government from the fallen John F. Kennedy, often talks—Texas style—about "standing tall."

To Stand on Record

Friends say he hopes to stand taller on the political horizon in another six months than any other president in U.S. history.

And like the army of other politicians, small and mighty, Johnson intends to stand on his record.

He has, in this half-year from autumn to spring, labored like a muledriver to try to whip the New Frontier legislative program through Congress — but emblazoned with the fresh LBJ brand.

A dedicated poll watcher, Johnson is very much aware that a recent Gallup poll credits him with greater popularity than President Franklin D. Roosevelt enjoyed in May 1936.

That was the year FDR carried every state except Maine and Vermont, rolling up a landslide record that still stands.

Johnson calls Roosevelt his "second daddy," but being a man who likes to stand tall he intends to do his "dead level best"—a pet Johnson phrase—to beat that record.

Has High Spirit

If this sounds audacious, the President is not one to sell himself short. Woven into the record of his first six months in office is a never-say-die spirit.

As leader of Senate Democrats in the 1950s, Johnson's strong point was an ability to compromise the views of opposing factions and fashion coalitions capable of enacting major legislation. In fact, his emphasis on compromise was so marked that, at times, disgruntled Democrats labeled him "lying down Lyndon."

As President, Johnson has been a different kind of leader. Time and again, he has refused to take no for an answer.

When Congress has defeated or pigeonholed important administration bills, he has insisted on another vote. This has been true of measures to raise the pay of federal executives, to finance the International Devlopment Association, to extend the food stamp plan, to provide price supports for wheat growers. And when the House voted last December for a foreign aid rider aimed at thwarting wheat sales to the Soviet Union, Johnson won a reversal.

Shults Buys Store Where Flanagan Sells Clothing

Another large business property on Wall Street has been sold.

The premises at 331 Wall Street, owned by the Raphael Cohen Estate., and occupied by Flanagan's clothing store has been acquired by J. Richard Shults.

For many years the building was occupied by the S. Cohen Clothing store, later acquired by the late E. Frank Flanagan, and continued under the name of Flanagan's by his son Albert C. Flanagan.

Built After Bad Fire

The three story brick structure, which was erected many years ago following a disastrous fire that swept through Wall and North Front Street, is presently leased to Flanagan's.

Albert C. Flanagan, proprietor of the store, today said his lease on the building expires on January first and he has made no definite plans for the future. Flanagan said he had been investigating facilities at the Kingston Shopping Plaza.

Price Reported $55,000

Shults had "no comment" to make on the sale or future use of the building.

It is reported the purchase price was "about $55,000".

A. J. Cook of Cook & Cook was attorney for the seller.

Pilgrim Co. Signs for Plant Site

A contract to purchase the former Fuller Shirt Company factory plant on Pine Grove Avenue was signed Thursday afternoon by Max Z. Kligman, president of the Pilgrim Furniture Company of Kingston, representing the D. & R. Realty Corporation.

The transaction includes the first factory building on Pine Grove Avenue, a newer modern addition adjoining and the newer concrete and steel addition. All three buildings are inter-connected and form one big plant. The premises are located at 45-57 Pine Grove Avenue with entrance to the rear from Susan Streete.

While no figure was released, it is understood the sale price is in the neighborhood of $145,000.

Kligman was reported to be in New York city over the weekend and was not available for comment on future use of the building. Brokers were Raymond E. Craft and Moe Solomon, Kingston real estate brokers. The seller was represented by Attorney Richard B. Overgaugh and the purchaser by Judge Aaron E. Klein.

Employed Large Force

The Fuller shirt factory was at one time one of the largest manufacturing plants in Kingston, employing a large force. In later years the Skyline Manufacturing Cmpany, also a fuller interest, operated a factory on the premises manufacturing infants wear. Presently the Fuller interests operate factories in the south.

Presently the premises are occupied by IBM, whose lease expires in October; the Kingston Shirt Company, a division of Ramar Shirt Company, which also operates the F. Jacobson & Sons, shirt factory on Cornell Street, and the Faymo Sportswear, Inc., factory. Ramar occupies the second and third floors of the plant while the IBM and Faymo Sportswear Company occupy the lower floor.

The three floors of the factory comprise approximately 71,000 squart feet.

Gould Is Selected As SUNY President

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Samuel B. Gould, 53, will move from a New York educational-television post to the long-vacant State University president's chair on Sept. 1.

His appointment to the $40,000-a-year position Thursday ended a 21-month search by the university's board of trustees for a successor to Dr. Thomas Hale Hamilton.

90 Were Considered

When Gould takes up the reins of the 16-year-old university, slightly more than two years will have elapsed since Hamilton announced his intention of departing to become president of the University of Hawaii. He left Dec. 31, 1962.

Meanwhile, the university board considered more than 90 potential successors before settling on Gould, who had headed two colleges before moving into the educational-TV field.

Gould told a reporter yesterday that "I didn't apply" for the job.

"They came to me and asked if I was interested," he said. "We talked several months ago, but it was only in the last several weeks that I thought seriously about it."

One factor that helped convince him, he said, was the recent state legislation "that strengthens the position of the president and strengthens the university in its ability to achieve its goals."

Pays $40,000

At Gov. Rockefeller's request, the 1964 Legislature granted greater fiscal freedom to the university and more latitude to the president in choosing his key personnel. Tight budgetary and personnel controls had been considered a deterrent to potential presidents.

As another lure, the salary for the post was increased from $28,875 to $40,000 a year.

One of 8 Children Loses Life in Fire at Hyde Park

State Police and Hyde Park firemen continued their investigation today into a fire which claimed the life of a two-year girl this morning in that village.

Theresa Malloy, one of eight children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Malloy, of 1 Sherwood Place, Hyde Park, was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Francis Hospital in Poughkeepsie shortly after fire broke out in the family's two - story home off Route 9 about 1 a. m.

Two other of the Malloy's children were hospitalized and 16 fire fighters were injured in battling the blaze.

Charlotte Malloy, 9, was treated in St. Francis Hospital for smoke inhalation, while her Brian, 10, also was treated for first degree burns of the left hand.

Firemen Treated

Firemen Donald Allhusen and Howard Martin, both of Hyde Park, were treated at the same hospital for smoke inhalation and released. The other fire fighters injured suffered smoke inhalation and cuts and bruises but were not taken to the hospital.

The property loss was set at $30,000.

Senior Citizen Housing Bids Due In Near Future

Final plans and drawings for construction of the Wiltwyck Gardens housing project for senior citizens on Albany Avenue, have been submitted to the New York State Division of Housing, George E. Yerry Jr., chairman of the Kingston Housing Authority announced today.

Yerry said it is hoped that the authority will be able to obtain bids for the project within a short time.

Meanwhile, he said, bids will be received May 26 for reproduction of specifications and drawings, which will be available to contractors who wish to bid on the project.

Yerry noted that May has been proclaimed Senior Citizens Month, and he hoped that by this time next year, Wiltwyck Gardens would be near completion to provide "many of Kingston's senior citizens with adequate housing that they can afford."

The plan, designed by Architect Harry Halverson, calls for construction of 30 three-and-one-half room, and 30 two-and-one-half room specially designed apartments for senior citizens.

Other members of the authority are Max Mones, John DeGasperis, Robert Slover, and Benjamin A. Storms. Alexander Yosman serves as executive director of the authority, and former Mayor Frederick H. Stang, as counsel.

NIGHT OF A HERO AT CITY HALL—Robert Sickler, 14, of 16 Hunter Street, who received two citations and an award Thursday night at City Hall for saving the life of Anthony Williams, 6, of 19 Meadow Street May 12, is to be nominated for a citation by the Carnegie Hero Commission Fund, Pittsburgh, it was learned today. Robert rescued the Williams boy after he had fallen into the Rondout Creek from a dock beyond Ferry Street. Nomination for the Carnegie citation was proposed by Frederic Snyder, of 34 Lucas Avenue, writer and lecturer, who is cooperating with Mayor John J. Schwenk and Police Chief Robert F. Murphy in processing the nomination. Snyder said the commission has been notified of the city's interest in obtaining the citation. That given last night by Mayor Schwenk at a police board meeting said: "Greetings — In recognition of distinguished service, and in appreciation of the assistance freely and unselfishly given in a time of dire emergency, for saving of a human life at the peril of his own, the police department of the City of Kingston, County of Ulster, State of New York, on behalf of all those directly concerned, the mayor, and the people of the City of Kingston do hereby present this Citizens Citation Award." Among those present at the presentation were (l-r) police Commissioners, the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, W. Anderson Carl and Joseph F. Policano; Mayor Schwenk, Robert and Police Chief Robert F. Murphy. Robert also received a citation and savings bond from the Kingston Patrolmen's Association. (other photo on page 5) (Freeman photo)

Homicide Verdict In Porter's Death At Brown's Hotel

State Police at Ferndale said today there were no leads in the murder of 54-year-old porter who was found dead in his room Thursday at Brown's Hotel in Sullivan County where he had been employed.

The victim was John Jepson, of Oshkosh, Wisc.

Dr. Sidney Schiff, acting coroner's physician, gave a verdict of homicide. He said that Jepson died from multiple fractures of the skull and associated concussions caused by a blunt instrument inflicted by an unknown person.

Lt. Supervisor Edgar Croswell of the State Police Troop C Sidney headquarters, who is heading the investigation, told (Continued on Page 12, Col. 4)

Bush's Record Defended, Wilson Scores Newcombe

The record of State Senator E. Ogden Bush, who is seeking the GOP nomination for reelection to the 34th Senatorial District post, was strongly defended Thursday night by Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson.

Assemblyman Wilson, who is Ulster County GOP chairman addressed a gathering of more than 200 committeemen and Republican Club members at Emil's Town of Gardiner.

In the strongest terms used thus far in the primary campaign, Wilson scored the senator's opponent, Lloyd A. Newcombe, Catskill businessman, for the type of campaign he has conducted.

"It is difficult to concieve that one would stoop to such untruths in a primary contest as Senator Bush's opponent has seen fit to do," Wilson said. It is for this reason that I want to set the record straight this evening.

Citing the remarks of the senator's opponent as to his poor attendance record in the Legislature, Wilson displayed a letter received from the Secretary of the Senate stating that the journal record of that body showed a 100 per cent attendance mark for the senator.

Referring to statements, also by the opposition, that the senator had packed the payroll with relatives, the Assemblyman stated, "Senator Bush doesn't even have a 16th cousin working for the state on his payroll. As for the statement that he is a 'do nothing' Senator, let me say right now, and this information is documented and appears in the record of the Senate, Senator Bush introduced 85 bills during the session just completed.

In education, New Paltz College will receive $942,835 more for operating expenses this year, compared to last. And $15,000,000 is now available for major construction. Highway improvements in Ulster County will include resurfacing Route 209 from Hurley to Kingston and reconstruction of Lucas Avenue Turnpike from Route 209 to Route 213 at High Falls.

Also, reconstruction of Route 32 from Modena to Orange County line; reconstruction of Route 28 from Shandaken to Phoenicia (Continued on Page 10, Col. 2)

Aldermen Ask Board Review of Plaza Sign Bid

A reappraisal by the Zoning Board of Appeals of an application by the Kingston Plaza Corp. to erect a sign in the vicinity of Washington Avenue and Taylor Street was suggested by the common Council's laws and rules committee Thursday night.

The corporation applied for permission to erect a sign 50 feet high and 32 feet wide. Zoning regulations limit the size to 50 square feet, and the zoning board in a recent decision denied the request, but proposed consideration of a change in the zoning law on a compromise basis.

The council committee met this week with Attorney N. Jansen Fowler and Robert H. Herzog, of the corporation, and proposed that the zoning board decision be given "further review and consideration" by the zoning board.

Attorney George A. Beck, chairman of the zoning board, said the report from the council committee was received this morning and probably will be considered over the weekend.

Th council's laws and rules committee is composed of aldermen John Machione (R) 12th Ward, chairman, Alderman-at-Large Joseph F. Carroll Jr., Raymond Armater (R) 11th Ward, James F. Howard (D) 10th Ward, and Peter J. Mancuso (D) Eighth Ward.

Dear Abby . . .

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: How do you tell city relatives that you aren't living on a farm just to keep their kids for the whole summer? These relatives don't ASK if they can send their children, they TELL you they are coming. I think two weeks is plenty, but we get them the day after school lets out, and they stay until the day before school starts again. These kids are older than our own, and they tease ours continually. I am supposed to do all the cooking, baking, washing, ironing and help with the chores in the field, and be real happy to have the extra work from the nieces and nephews. Advice through your column would be appreciated. Maybe they'll read it and take the hint.

DREADING SUMMER

DEAR DREADING: If you haven't the courage to TELL them that you will be glad to have their children for TWO WEEKS ONLY, then you'll have to put up with them all summer. The meek may indeed inherit the earth, but they don't have to accept abuse as a downpayment.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and quite popular with both boys and girls. About 50 kids a day tell me that they tried to get me on the phone but my line was busy for so long they gave up. It's my mother! Abby, I hate to complain, but she is the gabbiest person in the whole world . . .and it is wrecking my popularity. She gets on the phone and talks for an hour to one person, and as soon as she hangs up she calls another person and ties up the phone for another hour. How does a 15-year-old girl tell her mother she talks too darned much?

GIRL WITH A GABBY MOTHER

DEAR GIRL: She doesn't — not if she's smart.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: I am so lonesome I could die. I would like a nice man I could support, keep house for, buy presents for and to love. All he would have to do is love me back. I have never had anyone love me and no one to love. I have been married for 22 years to a I-don't-know-what-you-would-call-him, but he isn't a man. I am still married, but if a real man came along I would get a divorce fast. I am 53 but don't look it. I work every day and love my work. I want to meet a good clean man who would like to meet a good clean woman with a house (paid for), a car (also paid for) and a job.

LONESOME

DEAR LONESOME: When you married your husband you swore in the presence of God and man to keep him in sickness or in health, for better or for worse, 'til death parted you. I don't know what ails your mate, but he is yours. You will have no trouble finding another mate to support, buy presents for, keep house for and to "love" if all you ask in return is to be "loved back." But don't expect to replace your "I-don't-know-what-you-would-call-him" with a real man because real men don't let women support them in exchange for "love."

• • • •

CONFIDENTIAL TO DOTTIE AND FRAN: "Showers" are traditionally parties given FOR the bride by her friends. The bride and groom decide who shall be invited to their wedding. Everyone who is invited to a shower is not automatically invited to the wedding. Nor should they expect to be.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This is Hollywood Boulevard—and the boulevard will be swinging tonight, this being Friday.

The convergence of teen-agers each week has become a local ritual that is a bother for residents and a headache for the police.

Fun or Trouble

Nobody knows how it started. Two or three years ago, crowds of kids began appearing on the boulevard on Friday nights. Their numbers grew until the boulevard would become a bumper-to-bumper mass of hot rods and family cars packed with youngsters out for fun—or trouble.

"Friday night is a problem," says Police Capt. Otho C. Woods. "It has become a mobile lonely hearts club, with carloads of boys driving up and down the boulevard trying to make contact with carloads of girls.

"We have to police the boulevard pretty closely. When you get that many kids together in one area, there is bound to be some trouble. The patrolmen watch for thrown eggs, hooliganism and faulty equipment on cars. And we have to keep traffic moving, which is pretty difficult at times."

What attracts the kids to Hollywood is a puzzle. Most of them seem to come from outlying areas—the San Fernando Valley, West Los Angeles, the East Side—in search of excitement. Hollywood is a central location and the magic of the name lends allure.

But, as one veteran police officer remarked, "there isn't a damned thing for them to do when they get here."

Oddly Seasonal

Ten is the curfew hour in Los Angeles and the crowd begins to lessen. By midnight the teenagers have returned home or to other haunts, and the oldtimers who people the hotels and rooming houses can reclaim the boulevard.

The intensity of the invasion is oddly seasonal.

"The last two months of the year are the most critical," reported Woods. "The kids descend in greater numbers then, and we have to put four to six two-man mobile units in the field. The rest of the time we can get by with half that number."

He had no explanation why November and December bring a greater influx. It might be the rah-rah spirit of the football season, or the attraction of Christmas. It might be anything.

Why Khrushchev Is Slipping in Africa

By LEON DENNEN
Newspaper Enterprise Analyst

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — (NEA) — Not even Nikita Khrushchev's staged tour of Egypt can obscure the fact that Russian influence in Africa, as in Asia, is waning.

Moscow might succeed for a time in bribing Egypt's President Nasser or Algeria's Ben Bella with lavish economic help. Soviet aid to the Aswan Dam alone stands at $400 million. But according to reports in the United Nations, ordinary Africans and Asians, influenced by Red China's propaganda, increasingly consider the Russians as little better than "white imperialists."

It is in the sphere of personal relations that the Chinese seem to have scored most heavily over the Russians.

"Soviet technicians in Asia and Africa tend to remain oblivious of the ordinary people around them," a neutralist Asian diplomat said. "The gloomy Russians have not yet forgotten Stalin's regime when it was dangerous for Soviet citizens to be friendly with foreigners."

But the "friendly Chinese" — diplomats and technicians — quickly identify themselves with the Asian and African man-in-the-street, the diplomat said.

It is indeed one of history's ironies that a major propaganda weapon long used by Moscow to browbeat the West has now been turned by the Red Chinese against the Red Russians themselves.

Mao Tse-tung's agents peddle at every opportunity the argument that the Russians are not to be trusted because they belong to the same color group as the Americans, British and other "white imperialist nations." They exploit to the full the recent riots of African students in Russia, Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia.

Peking is also distributing maps of Asia and Africa which mark with red torch symbols all areas where "just wars of liberation" are currently being fought against white colonialists. All of Russia's "independent" Asian republics are so dotted.

In vain did Moscow complain recently against Peking's efforts to exclude Russia from the Asian-African conference scheduled to be held next year in Bandung, Indonesia.

"The Soviet Union accounts for 40 per cent of Asia's territory," Moscow's "Izvestia" said in a blistering editorial. "The Asian part of the Soviet Union is almost twice as big as the territory of all of China."

The Chinese who, like the Russians, consider themselves Marxist - Leninist dialecticians, were not impressed. Past masters in the art of Red doubletalk, they turned "Izvestia's" arguments against the Kremlin rulers themselves.

No doubt the Russians rule much of Asia, said China's Foreign Minister Marshal Chen Yi. "But they rule it as a white colonial power and not as a genuine Asian nation."

As Peking sees it, large parts of Soviet territory in Asia were seized by the czars from China in the 19th century. The treaties concluded then were "unequal" and therefore unjust. Red Russia is merely continuing the policies of Czarist Russia.

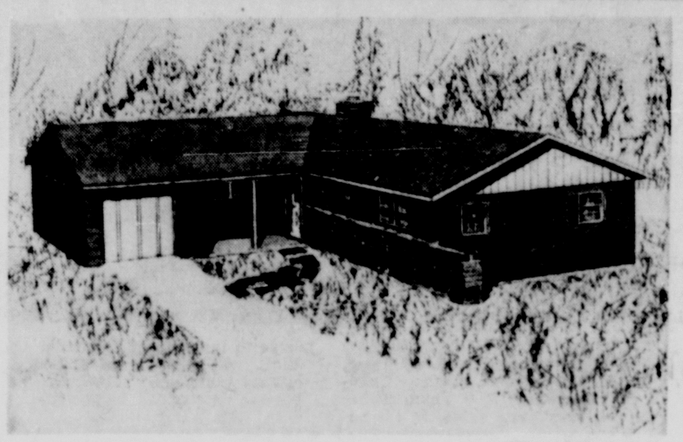

All this may be a bitter pill to swallow for the Kremlin's self-proclaimed champion of the "oppressed" colonial people. But as Lenin, Khrushchev's ideological master, once said, "facts are stubborn things."

And all the facts, according to United Nations reports, indicate clearly that it is Red China and not Red Russia that is winning the battle for the minds and souls of Africans and Asians.

Real Quiet

MIAMI (AP) — A southwestern suburban resident told the county zoning board he moved to the area for peace and quiet, but wasn't happy with all the quiet he would get. The board had given permission for a 150-acre cemetery to be built near the man's home.

matter of fact

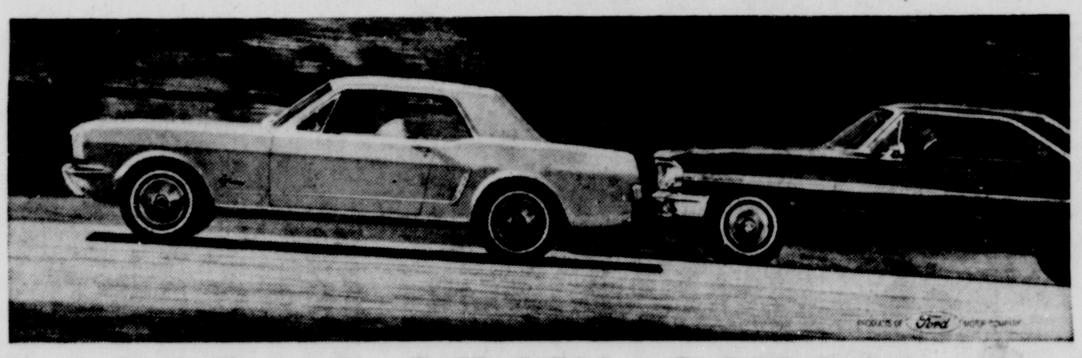

The Conestoga Wagon, or prairie schooner, was responsible for causing American traffic to move on the right hand side of the road. Early colonists had perpetuated the English custom of keeping to the left, and carriages and wagons were driven from the right side. However, the Conestoga wagon had to be guided from the left side, and drivers, to get a clear view of the road ahead, began to keep their vehicles to the right.

Mustang leads the stampede the big Ford started. This has been the hottest sales year in Ford Division history. We have a winner in the Super Torque Ford, a car so well built, so predictably tough, that competition-modified Fords took eleven of the last twelve NASCAR 500-mile races. Ford sales are up 17% this year. We have a luxury car that's taken off like a skyrocket: Thunderbird, with sales up 68%. Falcon is selling almost as many cars as Valiant and Chevy II combined. Fairlane continues to be a favorite in its own field. Now comes Mustang . . . turning the trend to Ford into a downright stampede. Mustang, by any measure of sales or excitement, is the most successful new car ever introduced in America—ever. When you see a stampede, it makes sense to find out what started it. That's something only your Ford Dealer can tell you about.

Laos Becoming Red Would Endanger Asia, World Peace

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Communist victory in Laos would be a virus in the intestines of all Southeast Asia. Soon the whole area would have a Red fever. This country is now considering action to stop it. It's easy to see why.

Landlocked Laos, about the size of Britain, is right in the stomach of Southeast Asia. It has 1.8 million people, mostly illiterate, and with a life expectancy of 40 years.

Most of them, living in hamlets scattered by mountains and jungles, have never heard of democracy or communism. There are no railroads, no highways in the modern sense. Few roads are suitable for cars or trucks.

Travel is by jungle path or plane. Communication is mostly by mouth or foot. Laos has fewer than 1,000 telephones. But it's the way it's landlocked that could be fatal to its neighbors.

It has frontiers with Red China, Red North Viet Nam, South Viet Nam which this country is helping fight communism, Burma, Cambodia, and Thailand. The only major neighbor it doesn't touch is Malaya.

Made to Order for Guerrillas

Because of the mountains and jungles no traditional war of big armies could be fought there. It's made to order for small-scale and specialized guerrilla operations which the Communists have been perfecting for years.

Even if the Communists were crushed and driven out, they probably couldn't be kept out. Small bands could go back in by jungle path from North Viet Nam. Yet, from the description just given, Laos by itself is no attraction.

But once Laos became Red, pressure on already besieged South Viet Nam would increase and the pressure on Burma, Thailand and Cambodia would begin. All of them would mean land, people, and rice bowls for Red China and North Viet Nam.

The pressure of a Red Laos on its neighbors would get its greatest initial boost from this: U.S. prestige and confidence in its help against communism would suffer disastrously in Southeast Asia and, perhaps, in the general world.

Two Reasons

Why is the United States mixed up in Southeast Asia at all? There are two reasons, one idealistic, although the Communists would probably hoot at this, and the other very practical.

The idealistic reason—to help people in small, weak or backward countries to work out their own destiny before communism can try to gobble them.

The practical reason—nobody gave it better than the late secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, when he said in 1954 about defending Indo-China:

"Any significant expansion of the Communist world would indeed be a danger to the United States because international communism thinks in terms of ultimately usings its power position against the United States.

Would Endanger Peace

"Therefore Communist armed aggression in Southeast Asia would, in fact, endanger our peace and security and call for counteraction on our part."

President Eisenhower put it another way, with a now well-worn analogy: If one Southeast Asian country fell to communism, other free nations would then fall like stacked dominoes.

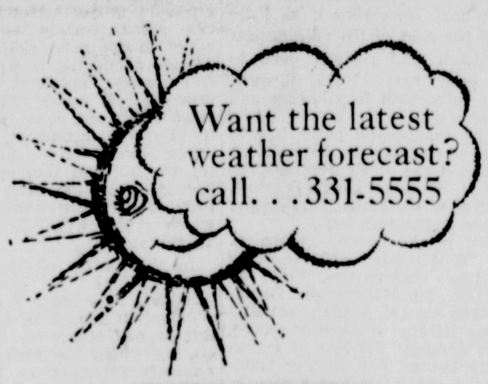

But something else would be endangered: The confidence of the American allies in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization. These—Britain, France, the Philippines, Thailand, Pakistan, Australia, New Zealand—signed a pact in 1954:

It was an agreement to help defend one another and their area.

Since 1954, when the French who used to use Laos as a hunting preserve pulled out, the United States has given the Laotians about $500 million in aid, most of it for defense. But in these years the Communists have grown stronger.

Guthion
the standard fruit insecticide for all-season insect control

This season, give your fruit low-cost insect protection from bloom to harvest. Use Guthion, the standard insecticide of fruit growers for many years. Guthion is the broad spectrum insecticide that gives season-long control of major insects of economic importance on fruit.

Guthion's long residual effect lengthens the interval between cover sprays and frequently reduces the number of sprays per season required. Guthion leaves lower residues and helps to give fruit better finish and color.

Start your fruit off right this season. Use Guthion, the standard with fruit growers.

As with any pesticide, follow label directions carefully.

In areas where post-bloom mite infestations are severe, use Systox . . . another product of Chemagro. 7396

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass., May 22. There have been a number of periods in our country's history when public distrust of business was strong and bitter. There was such an explosion of popular feeling against business interests during William Jennings Bryan's day in the 1890's. The next surge of indignation — probably the most violent of all — came during and immediately after the depression of the 1930's, fanned into flame by Franklin Roosevelt's accusing implications.

Reversal of Anti-Business Tide

I now feel that the tide is turning. It is no longer fashionable for educated men and women to lambaste business and discredit its social value. Rapidly losing ground is the old belief that business does not care about people as individuals, that business contributes little or nothing to human welfare in our present social order. The public is becoming increasingly aware of the fact that business has founded all kinds of research institutions and has heavily endowed them; that it has operated more and more for the purpose of developing better products, — and better living conditions.

It was interesting to note how our late President Kennedy grew steadily more pro-business as he became better acquainted with the attitudes of most of today's businessmen. Naturally, he realized that business like any other human institution, was far from perfect. But it was clear that he also began to see that business was no longer heavily infected by opportunists who would exploit the many for the special benefit of the few. There were numerous indications that President Kennedy recognized that business management was further advanced than the political management that tried to regulate it.

Johnson Continuing Trend

While President Johnson strives to build his image as a man of the people, he too obviously realizes the essential need for government to work amicably with business. It is evident that he feels business in general is a responsible force having high regard for the welfare of the individual. The next administration, which the voters will decide upon in November, will have to stay with this approach, and I believe that both the Republicans and the Democrats know this.

The marriage of business to physical sciences brought our nation to its present high pinnacle of technological achievement. From now on, emphasis must be upon a similar union between business and the social sciences. The depression crisis of the thirties brought about a reluctant engagement between these two forces, but it was accomplished by crucial pressures rather than by mutual desire. There was still distrust, and even hostility, between the common man and the big industrial powers.

Unions Have Helped the Situation

Some of the largest and most responsible labor unions have helped bring about a closer tie between the worker and the employer, — and also between government (representing the people) and industry. Since I do not believe that our nation should be high-handedly dominated by either management or labor, I am always encouraged when I see men in high government places who want equality and justice for both sides. It is my honest opinion that whoever wins the election next November will work wholeheartedly to apply this principle.

As for business itself, it must not only keep up its vigorous interest in technological improvements, but also stress the dignity of the individual and the meaningfulness of life. Probably the most destructive influence of our industrial civilization has been its focus on materialism and the pitiful lack of religious fervor. To change this situation, the social scientists, government authorities, advertising writers, and businessmen must all work together. The party that is carried into power by the voters next November will have a real challenge to develop the type of philosophy and the course of action that will carry us to ever-better human relations, — both within our country and among the other nations of the world.

Missing in Hudson

FORT MILLER, N.Y. (AP)—George Middlebrook, 44, of Victory Mills was missing in the Hudson River today and presumed drowned after toppling into the water from a paper-mill dam.

Middlebrook fell into the churning river water Thursday while attempting to break up a log jam at the Fort Miller Pulp and Paper Co. in this Washington County village.

State Police said the plant foreman, George Emery, tied a line around his waist and leaped into the water in an effort to save Middlebrook, but the victim was swept away by the current.

MOUNTING NATIONAL DEBT

By law, the federal government may not go into debt beyond $275 billion.

It's been a long time since the national debt was anywhere near that modest figure. But that's what the law says, so every year — or several times a year — the U. S. Treasury must come to Congress asking for a temporary lifting of the ceiling.

Congress always raises the roof, in more ways than one.

This year the Treasury expects the debt to amount to $311 billion by June 30th, which is the last day of fiscal year 1964. This is $2 billion above the last temporary (nine-month) ceiling reluctantly granted by the lawmakers.

Now the Treasury wants a new ceiling (hopefully to cover the entire year) of at least $320 billion — the extra $9 billion to cover necessary borrowing requirements for the first half of fiscal 1965.

The Treasury Department in general and Secretary Douglas Dillon in particular can be expected to come in for some sharp questioning by the House Ways and Means Committee and Senate Finance Committee when hearings are held shortly.

It was ever thus. But it is passing strange, for the government, in all its many bureaus, agencies, departments and what not, can spend no money not authorized by Congress. The Treasury is, in this regard, merely the agent of the legislative branch.

But the American electorate is again to be treated to the spectacle of Congress voting billions, then criticizing the Treasury for exceeding the debt limit.

Possibly it is evidence that our congressmen, despite all their burdens, have not lost their simple faith in the Good Fairy and believe that somewhere along the line between the voting and the spending something magical will happen to make everything come out all right in the end.

Or could it also be a feat of political prestidigitation — the congressmen hoping that their constituents will watch the frantically waving right hand of economy and not notice what the quiet left hand of spending is doing?

SAUCE FOR THE GANDER, TOO

According to White House physician Janet Travell, the reason women live longer than men on the average is because "a woman never retires. She keeps on doing the things she's been accustomed to doing all her life."

This should be welcome information for those men whose wives sometimes drop hints, subtle or otherwise, that they could use a little help with the housework.

Now hubby can relax in his easy chair with a clear conscience and cite the authority of Dr. Travell to explain to the little woman that he's only thinking of her health.

On the other hand, it will occur to some men that if women can add years to their lives by working around the house, it might be a good idea if they tried it, too — not to excess, of course.

DRUG REACTION DATA

The prolific fruits of drug research pose a difficult problem for the drug industry, the Food and Drug Administration and the medical profession. New Products come so fast that the testing program to measure their effectiveness and safety is hard put to keep abreast. The desire to make full use of a new drug is often in conflict with the danger of unexpected damaging side effects.

Not all possible adverse reactions can be foreseen; not all tests can be made in the laboratory. The final answer can only be gained by testing a new drug clinically — that is, by use on patients. This underscores the importance of the central registry of drug reactions established by the American Medical Association's Council on Drugs. Through it, physicians everywhere will have access to data on patient reactions to all therapeutic chemicals.

Such data has not been entirely lacking, but much of it has been scattered in medical journals. As a result, the average doctor has found it difficult or impossible to know about all the potential reactions. Now the AMA Council on Drugs has invited the nation's physicians to send information on new drugs to the central registry, and its wealth of data will be readily available. This will permit fuller and more confident use of some of medicine's most effective tools for healing.

THE POLLS HAD A BACKLASH IN OREGON

So Henry Cabot Lodge was going to win in Oregon. He didn't. So Nelson Rockefeller was washed up. He wasn't. Once again we have witnessed the fallibility of the pollsters. Or have we?

The trouble with the polls, one surmises, is not that they are wrong at any given moment. The real danger in trusting them is that they inevitably become a dynamic factor in themselves, and no one can be really sure in what direction the dynamism is going to work. The poll-based predictions that Lodge would win in Oregon resulted in two things that we know about for certain. They caused Rockefeller to grit his teeth and dig in—and the Oregon voters, admiring his dogged and Harry Truman-like courage, responded to his show of energy. On the other hand, the polls caused the Barry Goldwater forces to divert strength and time from Oregon to what seemed to them the more important problem of nailing down the California primary vote. A further complication was that the polls made the uncommitted Oregonian think twice about where the absentee candidate Lodge stood on various issues. It could have been that the uncertainty on this point led to some last-minute shifts to Rockefeller or Nixon.

Whether Goldwater made a mistake in passing up an intensive Oregon campaign is a question, but the Goldwaterites are confident that he made the correct decision. While Rockefeller was busy bidding for a small number of Oregon votes, Goldwater was using a Madison Square Garden forum in New York to make a case for himself as a regular Republican who stands on the Declaration of Principles signed by the GOP Senators in 1962. Barry, the darling of the New York conservatives, went out of his way at the Garden to praise the liberal New York Senator Kenneth Keating for supporting the 1962 Declaration of Principles. Though the crowd booed the mention of Keating, Goldwater stuck to his guns. He was talking over the heads of his immediate audience to Californians who occupy the center of the Republican Party, knowing that if they are stampeded into believing that Goldwater is himself an extremist the Rockefeller campaign in California will pick up some perhaps crucial votes.

From now on until June 2 the battle of rival publicities in California will follow the lines already laid out. Rockefeller will keep on with his effort to hang the John Birchers around Goldwater's neck. And Goldwater will be fighting to get his own position papers, none of which follow Birchite lines, read in responsible California quarters.

The first great victory in making his real positions heard was won by Goldwater when no less a person than Dwight Eisenhower told Walter Cronkite of CBS that he personally believed that "Goldwater is not as extreme as some people made him." Eisenhower went on to say that he thought the Goldwater position on TVA made sense. It was not a proposition to sell the big dams and water power generators; it was merely a proposition to let private enterprise take over in such things as the steam generators that have been grafted on to the TVA. If Eisenhower had wished to continue in this vein, he might have noted that his brother Milton's position paper on Cuba is almost word for word identical with Goldwater's own ideas of how to put an unbearable pressure on Castro without committing American soldiers to an invasion.

A second big ace card in Barry Goldwater's campaign to convince the Californians that he is in the mainstream of Republican thinking is the presence in his corner of former Senator Bill Knowland, who succeeded to Bob Taft's mantle as leader of the Republicans in the U. S. Senate. Knowland, now the editor of the Oakland Tribune, his family's paper, is in every way a solid citizen. If Goldwater wins in California and, later, in the nation as a whole, the Knowland Republicans will certainly be rewarded both in terms of influence and jobs. This should be reassuring to Republicans who have been assailed with the nonsense that the extreme Right will own Barry Goldwater if he becomes President.

Single Ounce of Liquor Able to Affect Judgment

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—How much whisky must I consume to have alcohol show in a blood test? How much would justify a drunk driving charge?

A—Since the alcohol you drink is eliminated fairly rapidly, the amount in the blood depends in part on the amount of time that has elapsed since your last drink. If the only whisky you consumed was ¾ of an ounce and you had taken it within an hour or less of the blood test, your blood alcohol level would be 1/100th of 1 per cent. There would be no appreciable effect on your behavior or your driving ability.

With one ounce, the level would be 2/100th of 1 per cent, and the alcohol would begin to affect your judgment.

With two or three ounces, the level would be 1/20th of 1 per cent, and you might be inclined to address some injudicious cracks to the police officer. Officially, however, you would still be considered sober but very close to the borderline of drunkenness. With five or six ounces the level would be 1/10th of 1 per cent, and you would be too sloshed to drive a car until you had sobered up.

Q—I have taken Bonadoxin for dizziness for about three months with good results. I would like to know what side effects might occur. Is this drug habit-forming? Will it lose its effectiveness if I continue to take it?

A—Bonadoxin is a combination of meclizine, an antihistamine that is especially useful in controlling dizziness and motion sickness, and pyridoxine, a part of the vitamin B complex that sometimes helps to control nausea.

Side effects such as drowsiness, dry mouth, and blurred vision occur only when large doses are taken. The drug is not habit-forming and it should not lose its effectiveness on prolonged use.

Q—I have been taking Vistaril for an overactive thyroid. What side effects might there be?

A—Vistaril is a brand of hydroxyzine pamoate. It is one of the antihistamines and it is used to reduce nervous tension. In the usually prescribed dosage it can be safely used for prolonged periods. In some persons it causes drowsiness and dryness of the mouth.

Q—I have heard that taking one teaspoonful of vinegar after the noon and evening meal will cause you to lose weight. Is this true and is it harmful?

A—In order to reduce you must take in fewer calories than you use up. Since vinegar furnishes no calories it will put no weight on you. If it reduces your appetite it might help you to lose weight and in the amount suggested it would not be harmful.

"I Could Use Some Advice, Champ!"

Washington News

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — New U. S. studies indicate Red China and the Soviet Union are making increasing use of their government-controlled religious organizations to subvert underdeveloped countries.

This is at a time when both Russia and Red China are conducting strong antireligious drives at home.

Red China has been making strong attempts to enlist and organize Buddhist priests and Buddhist organizations in India, Ceylon, Laos, Burma and South Viet Nam.

In the drive for Laos, the local Buddhist priests were a prime objective of the Red organizers. Once some leading Laotian Buddhists and a number of local priests were won, the Communists gained a certain amount of local "respectability" and organization work among the religious-minded peasants went easier.

The North Viet Nam Red regime is now attempting to marshal Buddhist priests for service in the South Viet Nam guerilla operations.

THE REDS MAKE IT CLEAR they thing a Buddhist priest network would make an excellent spy organization.

Priests can travel freely and usually without suspcion. They hold, too, that Buddhist priests could better win the confidence of the local Vietnamese people who might otherwise be suspicious of communism.

What success the Reds are having in their attempts to subvert Buddhist priests for the South Viet Nam war is not known.

Though it continues to persecute Buddhists, the Chinese Communist government keeps up several showplace Buddhist temples in Red China to which foreign Buddhist leaders are invited. Mao Tse-tung has put his own men in key posts in the Chinese Buddhist hierarchy. Buddhists under Red Chinese control regularly attend international meetings of Asiatic and World Buddhist groups.

A NEW, AS YET UNPUBLISHED U. S. government research paper reports:

"As an instrument of the Russian state, free of suspicion of foreign or particularist ties, the (Russian) Orthodox Church enjoys of the position of a kind of unofficial department of the Soviet Foreign Ministry, entrusted with foreign assignments better conducted in a cassock than a doublebreasted suit.

"Co-operation with the government's foreign and diplomatic activities is the price which the Orthodox Church must pay for the small and shrinking freedom of activity it enjoys within the U.S.S.R."

(Despite the Orthodox Church's usefulness to the Khrushchev regime, however, the Church and its members are now undergoing the same harsh attacks as other religious believers).

THE STUDY CONTINUES:

"There are a number of Orthodox monasteries and other small religious communities in the Middle East traditionally affiliated with the Russian Orthodox Church of the Tsars to which delegations of Russian churchmen, bearing Soviet passports, hardly ever issued to other faiths, make periodic visits.

"The solicitude of the atheistic Soviet state for the spiritual health of a few thousand Christians in the region puzzles the governments of these countries.

"Some observers interpret the exchanges of religious visits with the Ethiopian Coptic Church as a Russian desire to build it up as an African competitor to a more dangerous African rival of the Soviet Union—Islam."

"The Russian Orthodox Church has also (been trying) . . . to regain control of branches of the church in North and South America which became independent when the church in Moscow fell under the control of the Soviet authorities."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—It is 11:54 p. m. and the President of the United States has just come out of the Hotel Shelburne across the street. The crowds are held back by ropes. State troopers line both sides of Michigan Avenue from the boardwalk to Pacific Avenue. Secret Service men, bareheaded, stand in the middle of the street looking up at hotel windows. Others are in silhouette on the rooftops.

It is impossible to protect our President. I am in room 102A at the Hotel Dennis. The room is on the third floor and, as President Johnson waves his arms over his head, he is exactly 225 feet away. I can see him without leaning out of the window. He stops to bend into the crowd, shaking hands with both hands.

The lights of the marqueee over his head are bright. He is tan, and he has the alert healthy expression of a man who enjoys meeting people. On the curb, his appointment secretary, Kenneth O'Donnell, stands with arms folded, waiting. Mr. O'Donnell has been through these scenes with President Kennedy. So have the men of the White House Secret Service detail. They grow gray young, watching strange faces in crowds, trying to protect Chiefs of State who complain that the Secret Service stands between them and the "people."

We drove into Atlantic City a little after 5 p. m. We passed old Bader Field, a place where little planes take off with restaurant advertisements streaming out behind them. President Johnson was due any minute. Crowds lined the edge of the airport, and policemen were everywhere. The Chief of Police of this city had them on rooftops with guns, even standing on top of monuments.

Army helicopters scoured the blue sky, keeping it clear of strange aircraft. Any farmer, squatting in the marshes between Pleasantville and the airport, could have hit the President's aircraft. It was big, and it came in low. A shot which could snap a rotor blade would have been enough. The President is here to help Governor Richard Hughes raise funds for the Democratic party. The convention will be held here this summer, and the only excitement in town is who will be Mr. Johnson's Vice President.

The man who worries the most is State Attorney General Arthur Sills. He was a polio victim as a child, and he wears braces and uses a cane. He is known as a lawyer's lawyer. As the man in charge of State Troopers, he anticipates the worst and guards against it. The task is impossible. He sits in a car with his attractive miniature, Mina Sills, and studies the sky with the frown of a man who expects rain.

He knows that he cannot keep the President under a bullet-proof glass bell. He also knows that all Presidents, with the exception of Dwight D. Eisenhower, fight their protectors. They wave their own White House detail away from the official car. The President always makes himself a conspicuous target by standing in his car and waving both arms above his head.

Ironically, the President gets more protection in his home than abroad. In the White House, I have found that I cannot move from one room to another, or down a corridor, without being stopped by a tall man with good manners. This is where he needs protection the least. James Rowley, Chief of the Secret Service, was a young grinning fellow with wavy hair when he protected President Harry Truman.

Now he is gray and his face is lined. He parks in the White House driveway and studies the faces of visitors even though it is not part of his duty. Rowley refuses to admit that the assignment is impossible. If he was here now, standing beside me inside these three bay windows, he would be shocked.

Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley, President-elect Roosevelt, Truman and Kennedy—each faced an assassin and we lost four of this six. Now we have a man who is beginning to show confidence in his conduct of American affairs, a man whose personal idol was Franklin D. Roosevelt, a man who enjoys meeting strangers looking them in the eye and shaking hands.

It is not going to be easy. He comes a little closer to where I stand in a darkened room diagonally over his head. All the men below could not protect him from me. The President walks around to the back of his big black car and now he is even closer. Someone opens the rear, right-hand door.

I grieve for him because he senses no danger. He is in no hurry. Sometimes, on television, I study the face of Mrs. Johnson and I see tension in the nervous little smile as she threads her way through a crowd with her husband. She knows. She knows better than he that none of it is worth the risk.

The car starts down the street. The crowd cheers. A Secret Service man stands in a second car, looking up at windows. Four others race beside the President's car. Two press cars follow. In a moment, Michigan Avenue is empty. The crowd disperses.

There was no danger at all. It was all in my nervous mind . . .

Civil Rights Bill May Cost Congress Seats in Election

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Many of the present members of Congress who won their seats by very close margins are getting out their pencils and trying to figure what would happen in the election next November if as little as 5 per cent of the vote deserted them and crossed over to the other party. It's a dilemma that faces both Republicans and Democrats.

The Democratic party has 76 seats more than the Republicans in the House of Representatives, and if 36 seats should be lost, control of the House would shift to the Republican party.

But in the coming campaign, the "civil rights" issue is likely to invade both parties. While the election could leave the Democrats in control, it might actually mean in the session beginning next January the loss of a majority behind any further "civil rights" legislation and a resurgence of an opposition coalition of both parties.

Many people may think the "civil rights" controversy will be over when the pending bill in the Senate is enacted this year, but the fact is large appropriations will be necessary—possibly many hundreds of millions of dollars—to enforce the most far-reaching statutes that will have been passed since Prohibition days. The cost of enforcing Prohibition laws was heavy not only because of the need for more government agents to detect those who were violating the law but also because of the expenses of court procedures and legal processes involved.

The Republican party faces losses of seats, just as do the Democrats, on the "civil rights" issue in the coming campaign, because this question cuts both ways. A Republican, for example, who has voted in the House for the "civil rights" measure is likely to be opposed in the primaries by someone in his own party attempting to garner the anti-"civil rights" vote. Even if the incumbent is nominated, however, on his own party ticket, the aspirant in the opposite party for the same seat will also endeavor to get the benefit of all the discontent.

The technique that is expected to develop is a familiar one. Thus, in the case of "civil rights," especially in Northern and Western areas, certain candidates either in the primaries of both parties or in the final election will express approval for the principle of equal rights and equal rights and equal opportunity. But the incumbent member of the House who actually voted for the bill will face opposition because of all the flaws and defects in the legislation itself, to which attention wil be directed on the stump.

In the matter of "public accommodations," for example, a candidate may contend that discrimination should be abolished. But he will object to the methods by which the Federal government attempts to interfere with the operation of hotels, motels, restaurants, barber shops and other facilities that are covered by the pending bill. Also, many people who favor school desegregation do not like the idea of being required to open their business establishments to persons whom they may not like.

Perhaps the biggest single issue will arise on the question of hiring employees, or what is known as discrimination in employment practices. In areas where there is a predominance of white voters, fears have already been expressed that whites may lose their jobs because of the pressure placed upon employers to hire Negroes in order to get or retain a government contract. It is widely reported that mere discussion of this very phase of "civil rights" legislation has already turned public sentiment in many parts of the country against the pending measure.

The House of Representatives has, of course, already voted on the "civil rights" legislation, so the roll-call of members is a matter of record, but an aspirant who tries to take away the seat of an incumbent will find plenty of defects in the legislation itself and will argue that the bill should have been amended in the House.

The inference will be that the candidate making such criticism would have voted for revisions of the bill if he had been a member of the House. The emphasis will be on a change of seats, and the voters who are discontented with respect to various phases of "civil rights" will be expected to line up either against the Republican or Democrat who actually did vote for the "civil rights" legislation.

Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia said the other day that the Maryland vote revealed a "groundswell among the people of this country," and he predicted that when the people become aware that the government is trying to force social equality, it will be an issue in every Congressional race. He added:

"As I told the leader of this nation (President Johnson) in the only conversation I have had with him on this bill, he may pass this bill, but he will have more new faces in Congress in the next four to six years than any President has ever had."

There are at least 40 districts in which Democrats won seats in the House in the 1962 election by a vote of 55 per cent or less. These marginal districts are nearly all in the Northern or border states.

But inasmuch as many Republicans also have voted for the "civil rights" legislation, a number of Republican seats will similarly be challenged by a "cross-over" among the voters.

Diplomas Given To 247 Wallkill Prison Inmates

Two hundred forty-seven inmates of Wallkill Prison were given 318 diplomas and certificates for education achievement at the 6th annual graduation exercises conducted Wednesday.

Of this number 18 men were granted the New York State high school regents diploma and 66 men received high school equivalency diplomas.

During the past year, more than 620 inmates received instruction in the prison's educational program. Some 430 of these were enrolled in vocational education in the areas of automobile repair, carpentry, radio and television repair, electronics, barbering, tailoring, machine shop practice, masonry, blacksmithing, welding, baking, cooking and laundry practice.

Warden Gratified

Dr. Walter M. Wallack, warden of this medium security prison, expressed his satisfaction at the large number of men involved in the educational activities of the institution and congratulated the recipients of diplomas for using their time productively — making it serve them. In commenting upon the splendid music and art program available to the inmates, Dr. Wallack noted the high cultural peak reached in these areas under the direction of Edward Bizzell and Samuel Segall, teachers of these subjects respectively.

Samuel Moreno, education director at the institution, opened the program and spoke briefly to the graduates.

The Rev. George Hann, Protestant chaplain, delivered the invocation and the Rev. John Meade, Catholic chaplain gave the benediction. Other Wallkill officials participating were Lloyd E. Whipple, deputy warden, Walter J. Mason, assistant deputy warden, Neil J. O'Connor, vocational supervisor and Charles J. Scanlan, supervisor of academic education. Teachers, Instructors and other members of the educational staff were present.

Moreno introduced the main speaker, Robert J. Robinson, supervising principal of Wallkill Central School, who congratulated the students on the various diplomas and certificates that they received and reminded the recipients that no man's education is ever completed.

Distributes Diplomas

Warden Wallack introduced David A. Freer, a member of the Wallkill Central School Board and Correction Officer at the prison, and distributed diplomas and certificates; which, in addition to the regents and equivalency diplomas, included the following: International Correspondence Schools, 58 diplomas; Knights of Columbus, 2 diplomas; Salvation Army Bible Course, 6 diplomas.

Of the 430 men enrolled in the vocational section of the prison training program since May 1 of last year, 122 received the State Education Department Diplomas for satisfactory completion of prescribed courses of study under certified instructors.

PATROLMEN HONOR YOUNG HERO— Robert Sickler Jr., 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Sickler of 16 Hunter Street received a Citizens Citation Award and a $25 Savings Bond from Kingston Patrolmen's Association at the Thursday night meeting of Kingston Board of Police Commissioners. Young Sickler was honored for his heroic rescue of a downtown boy who had fallen into Rondout Creek May 12. At the presentation ceremonies here are (l-r) Mr. and Mrs. Sickler, Anthony Williams, 6, of 49 Meadow Street, the boy that was rescued; young Sickler (holding citation) and John Crespino, president of the Patrolmen's Association, who is also a secretary of the Police Conference of New York State. He'd March Again Against Segregation

By HUELL WARREN JR.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—Edler G. Hawkins nervously fingered the two silver crosses, fused and hung from a long chain around his neck.

"Yes, I'll march on the line again," he said, "if the occasion demands it. One belonging to a minority has a kind of special understanding of what happens."

First Negro Chairman

His eyes glistened and he measured his words. Of the 3.3 million members of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., he is one of the 5 per cent who are Negroes; and the church's General Assembly had just elected him its moderator. For the first time, a Negro would be "chairman of the board" for a year and speak in unison with Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, the assembly's Stated Clerk and chief executive officer.

The Rev. Mr. Hawkins is 55, and in 26 years under his ministry St. Augustine Presbyterian Church in New York's Bronx has grown from nine members to more than a thousand.

More Than Sermon

His election will be more eloquent than any sermon," said J. Vernon Lloyd, an attorney from Danville, Calif., who put Hawkins in nomination and later was appointed vice moderator.

"In this measure at least," said Dr. Blake, "we have become color blind. It marks the direction in which the church intends to go."

Long Way to Go

"We have a long way to go," the new moderator said, "and my first concern is to bring all the resources of our church to bear for the passage of the civil rights bill stalemated in the Senate."

The fused Celtic crosses he fingered are a talisman of another major concern. The Presbyterian Church of Scotland gave the crosses several years ago to the moderators of the three main Presbyterian branches in the United States.

Two were fused after the merger which resulted in the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. in 1958. The other is held by the moderator of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S., the dominant body in the South.

The Rev. Mr. Hawkins, elected moderator Thursday, received 465 of the 833 votes in a contest with the Rev. A. Ray Cartlidge of Erie, Pa.

Kodak Dividend

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The Eastman Kodak Co. will pay a dividend of 55 cents a share of common stock July 1 to stockholders of record June 1. The company declared the dividend Thursday.

Deaths

SYOSSET, N.Y. (AP) — Sir Thomas Ashley Sparks, 87, former chief Cunard line representative in the United States and onetime director of the line, died Thursday.

NEW YORK (AP)—Margaret Downey, 42, wife of the former singing star Morton Downey, died Thursday. Mrs. Downey underwent an operation for cancer some time ago. Downey was a popular radio singer in the 1930s but in recent years he turned to business as a career.

Will Check Idea Of State Pageant Day at N. Y. Fair

There is a possibility that a Miss New York State Pageant Day will be scheduled at the New York World's Fair.

Albert Kurdt, manager of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce and head of the State Pageant this year, will confer with the special events staff of the New York State Commission of the World's Fair Saturday. The various possibilities will be discussed and the Pageant board of directors will consider the question at a meeting next Thursday, May 28.

Kurdt will visit the World's Fair tomorrow, accompanied by Joseph Foley of New Paltz, to participate in the Ulster County-Kingston Honor Day program. Thomas Wickham, another member of the committee also will be there. Sixteen groups from all parts of Ulster County will perform during the day between 10 a. m. and 8:30 p. m. in the New York State Pavilion.

The opinion was expressed that the Miss New York State Pageant, held here July 9, 10 and 11, would receive a great deal of publicity if arrangements can be made to have most of the contestants appear at the World's Fair prior to the Pageant here.

Patron tickets, at a nominal price, are now available for the Miss New York State Pageant. The purchase of patron tickets may be considered as a contribution toward the support of this major statewide promotional event or may be redeemed for the best seats at the performances. Herman G. Rafalowsky, chairman of the pageant ticket committee, said that the purchase of a large number of patron tickets would assure Kingston being awarded the state franchise by the Miss America Pageant year after year.

Judy Refuses Calls at Hotel

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Judy Garland locked herself in her hotel today after her Australian concert tour ended in a chorus of public indignation.

Her 21 pieces of luggage packed, the singer was scheduled to leave for Hong Kong although she canceled two early flights.

Miss Garland refused to accept any calls in her penthouse suite and a guard stood outside.

"Why would Judy want to see anyone in Sydney after this dreadful thing in this morning's paper?" asked Karl Brent, her manager.

"Judy would like to punch a few Sydney people on the nose."

Jeered during a concert she cut short in Melbourne on Wednesday night, Miss Garland continued to draw critical comments for her performance at the Melbourne airport Thursday.

Sydney newspapers gave frontpage display to stories of how she shouted "No, no!" as she was pushed aboard the plane by actor Mark Herron her traveling companion, and three airport officials.

"She had been talking to fans and kissing babies," Brent said. "Her skirt started to slip a little. Judy turned round to fix it up. That was all there was to it. That is why it might have appeared she was hustled aboard the plane."

"From now on so far as Miss Garland is concerned, that's it" said Condoli. "No more for me."

Teacher to Get Pay

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The State Board of Education has upheld the appeal of a school teacher fired on charges involving class procedure and for calling pupils "wall-to-wall idiots."

The board held Thursday that Howard Weld, a science teacher at Stockbridge until his dismissal March 23, must be paid for his present contract which runs for the rest of the year.

Werbalowsky President

President of the Key Club at Kingston High School is Allen Werbalowsky, and chairman of the drive that raised $1,225 for Kingston City Library is Donald Wolf. Their titles were inadvertently reversed under a photo Thursday which showed them presenting a check for the amount to library officials.

Organizer Will Visit CORE Unit

Robert Gore, national field representative of the Congress of Racial Equality, will be in Kingston Saturday to attend a meeting called for 4 p. m. at the newly organized Ulster County CORE headquarters, 18 Mill Street, Kingston.

Gore's purpose in coming to Ulster County will be to inspect the local organization and to assess its present capabilities and its potential as a co-ordinated non-violent action group working to bring about an immediate end to discrimination against the Negro in housing and employment. The meeting is open to the public.

Aug. 28-Sept. 10—Invitational, 5 painters, two sculptors, selection by the board.

Sept. 11-Sept. 25—Edward Millman Memorial show.

Plan Symposia

The Extension Committee has planned a series of Gallery Evenings and Symposia for this season. Dates and subjects to be announced.

Any resident of the community of Woodstock may submit work to shows, except for All-Membership shows. There is no hanging fee.

New applicants for Active Membership in the association must submit to an Admission Jury in order to become eligible. Information regarding the admission jury may be obtained from the gallery attendant.

Norma Millman will be the gallery manager. The graphic workshop at the rear of the building will be directed by Lillian Lent. Full information may be obtained from the gallery manager.

Gallery Hours

Gallery openings are from 3 to 6 p. m. on Fridays. The gallery hours are: Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, 1 p. m. to 5:30 p. m.; Wednesday - Thursday, closed; Friday and Saturday, 1 p. m. to 6 p. m. and 7 p. m. to 9 p. m.

WAA members wishing to send paintings to the Albany "Artists of the Upper Hudson" exhibition can do so by bringing one or two paintings to the WAA gallery.

A special meeting of the Woodstock Artists Association has been called for Saturday, June 13, at 8 p. m. at the WAA gallery to vote on a proposed change in the by-laws, reducing a quorum from the present "one half of the active membership" to 10 per cent of the active membership.

Retirement Plan Is Explained to Local Rotarians

Woodstock Rotarians were treated to a presentation and discussion of the "Keogh Act," a tax-exempt retirement program led by Robert J. Baron of the investment firm of the same name, and Peter J. C. Adam, representing Calvin Bullock, investment brokers of New York city.

The central feature of the act, as explained by Adam, is that it allows a self-employed individual who has earned income from his trade or business to establish a formal retirement plan which, if it fulfills the requirements for qualification under the Internal Revenue Code, will enable him to enjoy many of the tax advantages previously available only to employees of businesses which had adopted qualified pension or profit sharing plans. At the close of the discussion, material was made available to the membership.

During the regular business meeting, Jim Post donated $50.00 in memory of the late Wendell Jones, to be used as a schlarship gift to a student of the Town of Woodstock who has shown the Spirit of Rotary, "Service Above Self." Each year in the future a similar gift will be awarded by the Woodstock club.

A $100 check was donated to the club by Mrs. Louis Wald in memory of her husband, Louis Wald, who was a member of the club and passed away four years ago. During the past four years, Mrs. Wald has made similar donations. The heartfelt appreciation of Woodstock Rotary was expressed by the president, Loryne Connick.

Reformed Church News and Notes

A church family night beginning with a pot-luck supper will be held Saturday, May 23 at 6:30 at the Woodstock Reformed Church, the Rev. Donald Edgar Hicks, minister. The supper will be followed at 7:30 with one of the "Sermons From Science Films" now playing at the New York World's Fair.

The Sunday theme at the 11 a .m. morning worship is "The Unbroken Chain" with music by the choir, with Mrs. Richard Braen directing and Mrs. Carll Harrington at the organ and carillon. A nursery is provided for the care of small children during the worship hour.

Sunday church school is scheduled at 9:30 a. m., with preschool children at the church house in back of the church on Old Forge Lane. All others report to the church proper. Adult Bible class meets with Mrs. Artinian at 9:30 a. m. Communicants' Class members report back to their regular church school teachers.

Junior Christian Endeavor meets at 4:30 p. m. No Senior C.E. because of Confirmation. Service of Confirmation with Communion is open to all in attendance with the class at 8 p. m., with the class to report at 7:20 p. m. with gowns.

The weekly calendar:

Monday — Boy Scout troop meeting, 7 p. m.; Tuesday—11 a. m., Guild Prayer Group at the Lamonte Simpkins' home; Wednesday—Brownies meet at 1:30 p. m.; annual May luncheon at the White Horse Inn at 12:30 p. m. The speaker will be Delmar Thiesse of the Elmendorph Chapel in East Harlem.

Thursday—church choir rehearsal, 8 p. m.

Citizens Committee Sets Monday Meeting

A meeting of the Onteora Citizens Committee will be held on Monday, May 25, at 8 p. m. at the Woodstock school to discuss and act on further steps concerning a satisfactory school budget for 1964-65.

The defeat of the budget has raised the possibility of an austerity budget unless an affirmative majority can be assured at the June 16 special vote.

Superintendent of Schools George R. Sullivan will be present to answer questions on the budget and explain the affects of an austerity budget. The main purpose of the meeting will be to discuss means of informing the public and assuring a strong vote in Woodstock township. All interested parents and others are urged to attend to safeguard the education of the children.

Jaycees Slate Anther Circus

The Woodstock Junior Chamber of Commerce announces that it will again this year sponsor the circus for Woodstock. This year's show will be given on Sunday, July 5, and will feature the Von Brothers 3 Ring Circus and Wild Animal Menagerie.

This yearf's circus features many new animals including a hippopotamus and a three ring performance with a full band. Only a matinee performance is scheduled unless demand calls for an evening show.

Tickets will be available from any member of the Woodstock Jaycees during the month of June. Tickets will be sold at various locations in the town during the week preceding the show.

Formulate Plans For AFS Groups

Final plans are being formulated for the AFS bus trip group which will arrive in the Onteora district area on July 7. Several families have contacted Mrs. Harry W. Carle, chairman, of Mt. Tremper asking to host students. More homes will be needed as there are a total of 44 students and two chaperones.

Persons interested in hosting one or two of the foreign students in their homes from July 7 to July 10 are asked to call Mrs. Carle.

As a dividend, at the end of the school year AFS/N.Y., organizes bus trips to broaden the foreign students picture of the United States. Volunteer groups in communities across the nation are hosts for several days of this three-week period. From past reports, this has been a rewarding experience for the Americans they meet and live with and an opportunity for Onteora families to enjoy knowing more AFSer's.

The Catskills have great intrinsic beauty and many advantages to offer these visitors. To name a few; fishing, hiking, trips to the Ashokan Reservoir, Belleayre Mt., Woodstock, the Senate House in Kingston, North Lake, etc.

The requirements are few. Not more than two students to a home. They may share a room but each must have a bed of his own. Entertainment to be in an informal home atmosphere and the host family must be responsible for all transportation.

Students are to be met by host families at the Onteora Central School building in Boiceville, on Tuesday, July 7 at 3 p. m. and be returned to the school building, for departure at 9 a. m. Friday July 10.

The only activity, scheduled for the group is a Student Council Panel Discussion, to be held at the Central School Thursday evening July 9 at 7:30.

NEW YORK (AP) — Peekers into the future have new reason today to see everything coming up rosey. Some of the most reliable business indicators of things to come are taking on healthier glows after a period of hesitation.

Busy Schedule Ahead

Factory orders for durable goods took a big jump in April to a record high of $20.6 billion, a 7 per cent climb in one month. Although shipments also set a record, the orders poured in at such a rate that the backlog of unfilled orders advanced to $49 billion. That all but guarantees busy schedules for many factories for weeks and even months to come.

A happy factor in the flow of orders as spring got going is that it marks a rebound from two months of retreat from the previous peak in January. The February and March trend had given the prognosticators pause. Many feared that the upsurge in the economy in the final weeks of 1963 might be leveling off, or worse.

New orders strengthen earlier reports that industrial production as a whole was climbing and employment increasing more than seasonally. The record order backlog should keep output on the upgrade for May and probably June.

Consumer Prospects Bright

At the consumer level the prospects are bright, too. Personal income has risen to a new high of $483.1 billion, at an annual rate. Business translates this into more spendable dollars to be tapped for finished goods or for services.

Cash dividend payments rose to $1.13 billion in April, 9 per cent more money than stockholders got in the like 1963 month.

Merchants have come to watch dividend payments as an index to what to expect, or hope for, since many happy recipients of increased payments spend them quickly at the stores. Retailers of luxury goods often are the greatest beneficiaries of this windfall.

Others are the recreation and travel industries, and purveyors of personal services.

Housing Starts Ebb

Housing starts are drooping a bit. Permits for future construction also slumped a little in April.

But housing experts warn that the industry is a tricky one, with month to month changes the rule and trends hard to spot. Some federal authorities have been expecting a slowdown in home construction, and especially apartment building, after the big spurt last year. Vacancies in many communities have been mounting, cooling the ardor of builders.

The consumer is still spending for other things, however. And the competition for his dollar is keen.

SHOKAN NEWS

SHOKAN—Mr. and Mrs. Burdett Clark, Broadway, and Mr. Mrs. Nelson Smith, Lucas Avenue were among the many Kingston residents calling in the hub of the reservoir country Sunday.

Also in town Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cosmen and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Cosmen, East Orange, N. J. The elder Cosmen, a friend of John Aalto, Ashokan water supply chief engineer, is connected with the New York City finance department. Roger Cosmen, formerly a department manager at Lord & Taylor, is now loan officer at one of the large metropolitan banks. The two families are frequent visitors to the Mt. Tremper area each summer.

Schuyler Van Loan, Athens, has turned over to the Green County Historical Society museum a bound book of recepts and stubs of the old Howland warehouse, Athens. The books pertain to thousands of bales of hay and straw shipped down the river to supply Union Army cavalry and artillery regiments during the Civil War years 1863-65. Shipments of fodder by Hudson River sloops were light from late December to March 1 but during other months drew heavily upon farms in the neighboring county.

The Charles Relyea Jr. sale of dairy cattle last week Tuesday drew farmers from as far away as Carmel across the river. The Relyeas live on the one time George Barclay place high up against Tonche Mountain. The old Barclay farm is now a part of the vast Pitcairn holdings north of Temple's Pond.

Theodore Peck, Kingston who was stationed at Fort Stevens during his term of miltary service, was a Shokan caller Tuesday. He is a descendant of Darius Hover who kept a general store down the Esopus Creek from the old village of Brodhead.

Having a birthday May 25 is Dr. Ralph Elfant, elder son of Joseph and Rose Cohen Elfant, who now makes his home in the Los Angeles area.

Fifteen Years Ago in Reservoir Country, May, 1949: Officers of the Olive public health nursing committee include two residents of the twin villages, Mrs. Floyd Merrihew, president and Mrs. John Adels, secretary and treasurer. Mrs. Dorville Boice is vice president of the committee as reorganized at a meeting on May 10. Speakers at the meeting included Vera Griffin, public health nurse for Olive . . . Edward "Doc" Lee is reported to have sold his place in the west end of the village to city people. Lee, who plans to return to South Dakota, has built a large chickenhouse and made other improvements to the one time Frank Myers place since occupying the property two years ago . . . Commissioner R. R. Bennett and Principal J. Moule of the new Onteora School District recently accompanied members of the state board of education on a 753-mile trip to inspect different school buildings with a view to obtain ideas for the proposed big education center at Boiceville. Future trips along this line will take the officials to points down the Hudson and on Long Island.

Residents of the Ashokan, Glenford and West Hurley Methodist Charge welcome the Rev. Milton H. Ryan who comes here from Downsville, Delaware County. The churches have not had a resident pastor since last summer when the Rev. Wayne Williams resigned to go to New Jersey. The Rev. Dow McBain, Phoenicia, has been the faithful supply minister during these intervening months. It is interesting to note, in connection with recent Conference changes, that the Rev. Stanley Jones, former Ashokan boy and communicant of the Methodist Church here, who went to the Treadwell Church six years ago, is now the regular pastor at Highland. The young clergyman's father, Spencer Jones, an Ashokan Reservoir department foreman, is one of Ulster County's leading Methodist workers.

Planes Startle Jersey

MCGUIRE AIR FORCE BASE, N.J. (AP)—A low level supersonic boom startled residents of three New Jersey counties early today and touched off reports of a huge explosion in the central shore area of the state.

The sonic boom was produced by a plane participating in an Air Force training exercise, an Air Force spokesman said.

The exercise, called Top Rung 4, is a joint operation by the Strategic Air Command and the Air Defense Command, in which subsonic and supersonic booms, both at high and low altitudes, would occur, he said.

In scope, the exercise covered the northeastern United States and as far south as South Carolina and as far west as Chicago.

India Seeks F-104s

WASHINGTON (AP)—India is asking the United States to sell it three squadrons of F104 Sabre jet supersonic fighters as part of the Indian defense build-up against Communist China, diplomatic sources said today.

The jets would cost an estimated $150 million.

While no decision has yet been reached, sources indicated the Indian request was running into State Department resistance on the grounds such a sale would upset U.S. relations with Pakistan.

COLLEGE CLUB GETS CHARTER—The Circle K Club of Ulster County Community College formally received its charter of organization at a recent dinner at Williams Lake Hotel. Emil T. Bejsovec, second from left, New York District chairman of the committee on Circle K Clubs, presents charter to William H. Yates, president of the club at the college. Also in the photo on the left is Lloyd R. LeFever, president of Kingston Kiwanis and Ronald Goldleaf, vice-president of the Circle K Club. The Circle K Club is not a social fraternity but a service organization for college men operating on the campus and is similar to Kiwanis and other service clubs. It is a leadership and character-building group which serves the campus and the community.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham says the U.S. Supreme Court erred in even considering the issue of prayer and Bible reading in public schools.

"The Supreme Court was wrong in even tackling the problem," he said, "because now it will have to rule on chaplains in the armed forces, 'In God We Trust' on our coins, chaplains in Congress and even chaplains in the Supreme Court itself."

Will Name Scranton

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Pennsylvania Republican leaders concerned themselves with selection of national committee members and plans for the party's national convention as they arrived here today for two days of meetings.

The delegates were set to select Gov. Scranton as chairman of the Pennsylvania Republican delegation. The state's 113-member state committee meets Saturday and is expected to reelect Craig Truax to a two-year term as state chairman.

Truax said Thursday the leaders would select Thomas B. McCabe, board chairman of the Scott Paper Co., and one of the governor's political advisors, to the post of national committeeman.

Greene Drivers Hurt In Coxsackie Crash

Two Greene County motorists were injured when their cars collided Thursday afternoon on a county road in the Town of Coxsackie near Midway in that county.

State Police at the Leeds substation said Joseph A. Caputo, 24, of West Coxsackie, suffered chest injuries, while Jessie E. Boyd, 78, of Surprise, suffered facial cuts. They said Caputo was driving eastbound on the county road near Route 81 and Mrs. Boyd was headed west when their cars collided on a curve. The injured were treated by Dr. Sol Yarvin.

Husband, Wife Die Within Hours at Home

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—A husband and wife from Oxford, N.Y., died within eight hours of each other in a convalescent home Thursday. Both were 86 years old.

They were Mr. and Mrs. James E. McEneny. She died first. He was a retired self-employed farmer.

Survivors include a son, Francis, of Batavia, N.Y., and two daughters.

Funeral services will be held in Oxford.

Capitol News In Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

SCHOOL PRAYERS: A Roman Catholic law professor says the record of the Supreme Court in the area of freedom of religion and church-state relations has been very good.

It would be neither desirable nor wise to amend the Constitution to undo the court's school Bible reading and prayer decisions, adds Prof. Chester J. Antieau, who teaches constitutional law at Georgetown University.

Antieau testified Thursday before the House Judiciary Committee, which wound up its fifth week of hearings on a variety of proposed amendments which were prompted by the court's ban on public school religious exercises. The hearings are now in recess until Wednesday.

PASSPORTS: A bill to extend the validity of the passport to five years and raise its price by a dollar was introduced in the House Thursday.

American citizens now can get passports initially valid for three years, plus a single two-year extension upon application for a renewal. The fee is $9.

CATHOLIC MASS: Decrees authorizing extensive use of English in the Roman Catholic Mass and other of the church's rituals in the United States were made public Thursday.

The changes will go into effect later in the year after publication and distribution of new liturgical books. his may not be until the start of the church year, Advent Sunday, Nov. 29.

Title Seven, Civil Rights Bill

Equal Opportunity One of Two Which Break Ground for Law

EDITOR'S NOTE—In the 11 weeks of the Senate civil rights debate, scores of amendments have been proposed to clarify, strengthen or weaken various parts of the bill. One provision attracting a major share of the suggested changes is the equal opportunity provision. The following article, the second of a three-part series on the bill's provisions, explains the equal opportunity title and the voter rights provision as they stand now and some of the proposals for changing them.

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the 11 weeks of Senate debate and cloakroom bargaining on the civil rights bill, much of the attention has focused on the equal employment section.

Counting on Changes

It has attracted a large share of the scores of amendments proposed to change the bill.

The equal opportunity section, known as Title Seven, is one of two provisions which break ground for federal law. The other is the public accommodations provision aimed at discrimination in hotels and motels restaurants and amusement places.

Republican and Democratic Senate leaders and administration officials have accepted a number of amendments to the job title as part of a whole package of changes. They hope the proposed changes will win the bill the two-thirds majority needed to break the Southern filibuster.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, chief author of the compromise package of amendments, is fond of pointing out there was no equal employment provision in the original civil rights bill submitted to Congress last year by the late President John F. Kennedy.

But Dirksen has said he can support its retention if his suggestions for changing it are accepted.

Would Ban Bias

As the bill cleared the House, it would ban discrimination in any phase of employment or membership on the part of employers, unions or employment agencies on grounds of race, color, religion, national origin or sex.

It would apply to companies and unions with 100 or more employes or members in the first year, 75 or more in the second, 50 or more in the third, and 25 thereafter.

A five - member Equal Employment Opportunity Commission would be created to receive complaints.

The commission is directed to try to settle any complaint by conciliation and persuasion. But if those methods fail, it may bring an injunction suit to end the discrimination.

Dirksen's agreed - upon package of amendments would modify this so that the commission could call on the attorney general to bring a suit only if a pattern of discrimination existed.

In individual cases, the aggrieved person would have to file suit, although the attorney general would be allowed to intervene.

Under the House bill, the federal commission could allow a state or local agency to handle a complaint if it found that the agency was functioning effectively.

More Power to States

Dirksen's amendments would strengthen power of the states by giving them exclusive jurisdiction of any case for a specific period. Thirty-one states now have fair employment practices laws of some type.

Southern senators simply want Title Seven eliminated.

They argue that it would give the federal government far too much power to interfere in hiring, firing and promotions.

The voting rights section of the House bill, Title One, would extend the federal powers in this field contained in the 1957 Civil Rights Act.

It would require that identical standards be applied to all voters in elections for federal officials, provide that immaterial errors on registration forms must be disregarded, and require that literacy tests must be in writing unless the individual agrees to an oral test.

In voter discrimination suits brought by the attorney general under the 1957 law, the presumption is created by the 1964 bill that a sixth-grade education is sufficient to meet the literacy test.

The attorney general is allowed to request that a three-judge court be set up to hear such suits.

Southern senators bitterly attack the latter provision, contending it would allow the attorney general to shop around for a favorable court.

Wildlife Management

ALTON, Ill. (AP) — Ralph, a Peruvian anteater, is providing Jack Lupien, a Principia College biology major, with plenty of wildlife problems. Lupien, who plans to take up conservation and wildlife management after graduation, has to mix its special feed and keep it caged in his bedroom. A sister sent him the baby anteater as a combination Christmas and birthday present. When the two-month-old creature is two years old it will be six feet long and will be able to nuzzle the foundation from beneath a building to get at ants. But Ralph so far has not eaten any ants. "He's never had to," Lupien said. He gets a mixture of sweet potatoes, milk, raw eggs and ground beef.

Dock Ceremony To Honor Sea Dead on Sunday

Final plans and principal speakers for dock ceremonies honoring sea dead were announced today by Mrs. Thomas Hughes, president of the Ladies Auxiliary of Joyce-Schirick Post 1386, Veterans of Foreign Wars, sponsors of the ceremonies.

The annual event will be held Sunday, at the Freeman Dock at the foot of Canal Street at 3 p. m. Guest Speaker will be Lt. David Larish, U. S. Naval Reserve.

The invocation will be given by the Rev. Clarance E. Brown, chaplain of the American Legion. A solo will be sung by Richard Scherer of Kingston following which will be a brief address by Mayor John J. Schwenk. In closing the benediction will be given by the Rev. Edward Kelly, chaplain of the VFW Post 1386.

The public may attend these services honoring veterans of all wars who died at sea while protecting the liberty and freedom of America.

There's Little Doubt He Enjoys Job

Word Portrait of L. B. Johnson With Aim to Be President of All

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just six months to the day since he ascended to the presidency, Lyndon B. Johnson is a contented, confident man who has seared an unmistakeable LBJ brand on the White House.

The duties and responsibilities are heavy and they press down on the man more heavily than he had once thought. There's a little more salting of gray in his dark hair, especially in back.

But there is nothing of doubt and much of assurance these days in the manner of the President.

Definitely he likes his job and wants to keep it. He feels comfortable and secure in it, although he is too good a politician to believe he is completely safe.

It wasn't that way at the start, when he took over the helm of government from the slain John F. Kennedy last Nov. 22.

Crowded Change

Much of the change apparently was compressed into six days in April.

Then it was that a five-year rail dispute that had threatened to explode into a calamitous nationwide strike suddenly was settled, on April 22.

Two days later, the President was off on his first visit to poverty pockets in Appalachia. Thousands and thousands of people saw him, and he saw them. The surging crowds left him glowing. He tossed security precautions aside and rode in an open car for the first time since Kennedy was assassinated in one.

He said: "I wish I could look into every face and shake every hand." He did his best.

By April 27, he was addressing the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in Washington, in Constitution Hall. It was one of the most memorable performances in an auditorium which has seen many.

With jokes and jabs and hard-hitting appeals, Johnson quickly had his businessman audience with him, applauding and laughing for an hour.

Fortifies Idea

These six days fortified in Johnson the idea that he can be what he told the Chamber of Commerce he intends to be: "President of ALL the people."

Over and over, to people representing every facet of national life, Johnson keeps saying, "I am the only President you have."

And what they have is a complex, contradictory, personable, hard-working, driving chief executive who can't be neatly tagged by any one label.

He has fantastic stamina, an agile mind, bulldog determination, sentimentality, sensitivity. There is a compulsion and urgency about him that might have taken him far in the business world.

He can be brusque or kindly, thoughtless or thoughtful, domineering or gentle—he is great with kids.

He goes great guns with grown-up gals. In Johnson's six months in office, probably more women have been kissed on the cheek and more damsels danced around the East Room than in any administration in history.

Admired FDR

The White House hasn't seen such informality and folksy good times since the days of Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was what Johnson called his second Daddy.

Incidentally, in the pattern of FDR after a polio attack, Johnson gave up golf and went in for therapeutic swimming after a heart attack in 1955. He's back at golf again now.

Incidentally, too, the word a few weeks ago was that an electrocariograph test of heart functions gave Johnson a "normal" reading, with no signs of an enlargement.

As did Presidents Kennedy, Eisenhower and Truman before him, Johnson has a temper that flashes explosively now and then.

Publicly, he reacts with jocular remarks when he has been reported speeding, sipping beer at the wheel, or pulling the ears of his beagle pups. But he does not forget.

He Is Sensitive

He is sensitive to stories or events that reflect unfavorably on him. And he is sensitive about being called sensitive.

While he lacks the darting, flicking wit of a Kennedy, Johnson does have a ready sense of humor that is often on the droll, homespun side.

Sometimes there are references to powder rooms or boudoirs. But more often to make special points, there are stories about preachers so often that there are occasional headlines about "Parson" Johnson.

In six months, Johnson's skittishness about news conferences has disappeared, to the extent he has held three in one week, conducted a roving conference on a seven-lap tour of the back yard, and turned another into a punch and cookies outing for wives and children of reporters.

No president has made as many speeches in such a short time. Several a day aren't unusual. And two or three times a day the President can be counted on to invoke the Golden Rule, to do unto others as you would have others do unto you.

Likes People Around

Johnson likes people around him. He seldom has a meal alone. He may invite himself out to lunch now and then, but mostly he does the inviting—tourists invited into a rear gate for a walk around the grounds, guests invited into the private living quarters, and into the swimming pool.

Some Congress members and their wives have seen the upstairs at the White House for the first time in their many years in Washington.

With all the folksy touches, the President, whose father farmed on shares, now unabashedly enjoys fine, expensive cattle, clothes and cars.

Lately, though, there have been signs that the White House may be wondering whether there has been too much of presidential appearances and exposure. News conferences have slacked off and the President's official daily schedule is less jammed.

But for a man who had about 11 months to create and sell his own presidential image in advance of the next election, Johnson seems to be doing pretty well.

Ontario Invites Eight Governors For Water Talks

TORONTO (AP) — Ontario's Premier John Robarts is inviting the governors of eight states, including New York's Nelson A. Rockefeller, to confer here next month on Great Lakes water levels.

Robarts said Thursday he had issued invitations to Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec and the governors of New York, Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Michigan and Minnesota.

He scheduled the meeting for June 29-30.

In a letter to the governors, Robarts said Ontario was taking the initiative in setting up an international conference because its borders stretch the full length of the northern shores of the lakes.

Ontario is greatly concerned, he wrote, with "the internal problems of our own province arising from lowering water tables and drought."

Robarts said the eight states and two provinces should pool ideas to determine what action might be taken to correct the situation "both now and for the future."

Poverty Drive Gets Backing of Church

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Despite the objections of some members, the New York Conference of the United Church of Christ was on record today as supporting President Johnson's anti-poverty campaign.

A few delegates protested at Thursday's closing session of the three-day meeting that a resolution endorsing the program favored "one political party." Most of the 500 delegates voted for it.

The resolution mentioned the Democratic President but did not refer to any political party.

It urged member churches to study the causes of poverty in their communities and work for better schools, housing, health programs and increased job opportunities.

Member churches also were exhorted to "declare their memberships open to people of all races, classes and ethnic backgrounds."

The conference embraces 393 churches with a total of nearly 118,000 members.

$250,000 Sought For Damages in Arizona Arrest

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Theresa Robichaud is seeking $250,000 in damages from the Maricopa County attorney and his deputy as a result of her arrest in the slaying of a Sherrill, N.Y., couple.

Attorneys for the 17-year-old Fresno, Calif., girl filed the damage suit in Federal Court Thursday against Charles Ronan and Felix Gordon.

The suit accuses them of depriving her of her civil rights and refusing to dismiss murder charges against her even though they knew "no probable cause existed."

Miss Robichaud had been held in the slaying of Mr. and Mrs. John Bertella, whose bodies were found in the desert near Apache Junction, Ariz., earlier this year.

A Superior Court judge dismissed murder charges against her earlier this month. Herbert Shockey, 30, described as Miss Robichaud's boy friend, was held for trial in the case.

The damage suit alleged that the prosecutors sought "by trick and deceit to cause the plaintiff to say or do things which would incriminate her."

Mother's Efforts Fail

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—The small boy's mother, a nurse, applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation in the car that raced them to the hospital. He was alive when they arrived but died later.

Mrs. Nelson W. Badger had found her son, Richard, 20 months old hanging by the hood of his jacket from an outside cellar door at their home in Galeville Thursday.

State Police said the boy had been jumping off cinder blocks and the hood apparently caught on an edge of the door, strangling him. He died in St. Joseph's Hospital Thursday night.

Same Reporter Recaptures Tragedy of Squalus Sinking

By JAMES CALOGERO

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP)—A small floral wreath will bob in the Atlantic 15 miles off Portsmouth on Saturday where a sea drama of life and death held a nation's attention exactly 25 years ago.

The submarine Squalus sank in 240 feet of water off the Isle of Shoals on May 23, 1939, with 57 Navy men and two civilians aboard.

It was to be many hours before a waiting nation would learn that 33 men were alive in two separate compartments of the 310-foot submarine.

33 Men Rescued

And for two tense-filled days all attention focused on the spot in the Atlantic until 33 men who survived the disaster were brought to the surface in one of the great rescue feats of the sea.

Even the submarine itself eventually was brought to the surface in an historic salvage operation in what 25 years ago was the deepest water in which Navy divers ever operated.

Twenty-four years later — on April 10, 1963—the nuclear submarine Thresher passed the same spot en route to her own untimely death with 129 men, 220 miles at sea in more than 8,000 feet of water—also during a test dive.

Thresher never was recovered —and because of the extreme depth may never be.

Th Squalus was raised, refitted and went off to World War II as the Sailfish. She acquitted herself well, torpedoing 45,029 tons of Japanese shipping in its Pacific patrols.

The wreath marking the 25th anniversary of the Squalus' sinking will be tossed to the sea by a man who survived the sinking and later returned to her when she was rechristened Sailfish.

He is Gerald McLees of Portsmouth, now a civilian employe at the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard and former electrician's mate on the Squalus. The anniversary tribute was arranged by the Squalus Memorial Chapter of the Submarine Veterans of World War II.

Relives Disaster

McLees relived the disaster for The Associated Press on the silver anniversary:

"We had left Portsmouth on Monday and anchored 15 miles out. On the next morning, May 23, I was in the three-foot crawl space of the forward battery room, taking cell readings.

"Allen Bryson was in the hatchway just above me with his headset on so we could keep in touch with all other compartments—the normal practice on a submarine.

"We started the dive and had gone down about 50 feet in about 40 seconds when Bryson shouted to me 'The engine room's flooding!' It was 8:40 in the morning.

"I jumped up out of the battery section and headed for the forward torpedo room right behind Bryson. The submarine was going down stern first so we had to fight our way uphill.

Settles on the Bottom

"There was no big bang when we hit the bottom. The Squalus just slid backwards and we settled easily on the bottom."

McLees continued:

"We could hear the high-pressure air system trying to blow out the water ballast and enable us to surface. It was a losing battle.

"There were about a half-dozen people in the forward torpedo room when I got there. Others followed me. The rest of us who lived through it were in the control room.

"We in the forward section didn't know that 26 of our shipmates were dead in the after section. We didn't hear about it until we reached the surface a couple of days later."

In another part of the ship, the disaster was to hand Lloyd B. Maness a cruel duty. He was nearest the hatch which separated the flooding sections from the dry area. If he didn't shut that heavy metal door everybody on board might perish.

Maness waited until the last possible moment, permitting the passage of a few men soaked by the incoming sea water. Then, as water poured through the hatchway—and with not another second to spare—he shut the door on the fate of those men aft.

Acts Rigidly

After the rescue of the survivors was completed, Maness said:

"At such a time there is no time for sentiment. We are trained to act rigidly, so I gave no consideration to the fate of my shipmates.

"It was not until the first impulsive action was over that I began to feel the awfulness of the men's situation in the after section.

"Paricularly, I thought of Sherman Shirley, my chum. I was to be best man at his wedding the next Sunday."

Maness was one of four men from the Squalus to serve on her again when she was the Sailfish. Later, he transferred to another warship and was killed in World War II action.

Lt. Oliver F. Naquin, the Squalus commander, looking back to the tragic day in an interview at his Arlington, Va., home, said:

No Outcry

"There was no outcry. Nobody shoulted 'Oh, my God!' or anything like that. Only one man mentioned the people aft, and I shut that off real fast.

"If one or two men had panicked, the whole thing might have gone up in smoke."

Squalus rescue operations were put under way from the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard within minutes after she failed to report by radio.

Navy divers operated from the Falcon to prepare the Squalus hatches to accept the diving bell so no water would get into the sub as the men left in small groups to be raised to the surface.

The first diver reached the Squalus at 9:15 a.m., May 24. The diving bell was lowered only four hours later.

The bell made four trips to the submarine to rescue all the survivors, but the final trip was fraught with danger and excitement.

Trapped Four Hours

The lines had frayed and become tangled and the last eight of the survivors and the diving bell's two operators were trapped for four hours between the Squalus on the bottom and the Falcon on the surface.

Next came the epic salvage.

For two months Navy divers, working only short periods on the bottom because of the high pressure, tunneled away under the boat to make a passage for salvage chains.

Finally all was ready and air was blown into the pontoons which were to pull the sub from the bottom.

The first lift came on the morning of July 13. All appeared to be going well. Suddenly, a great burst of foam erupted, and one of the pontoons shot out of the water, falling back with a splash just as another pontoon surfaced.

The sea bubbled and boiled. Churning foam spread in an ever widening circle.

In the midst of this confusion came a new eruption—the bow of the submarine shot out of the water then slowly settled to the bottom.

All the salvage work had been undone in a few, brief moments.

The salvagers had to do it all over again. It took all summer. Finally on Sept. 15, the submarine was towed to a drydock in the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard.

The bodies were removed from the after compartments.

A Naval Court of Inquiry found that a faulty sea valve caused the sinking.

Synagogues Set Day of Prayer For Soviet Jews

The Sabbath of May 22-23 has been proclaimed as the National Day of Prayer for Soviet Jewry by the American Jewish Conference on Soviet Jewry. Orthodox, Conservative, and Reform Synagogues throughout the land will arrange special services on that day in recognition of the plight of the Jewish Community in Russia.

Rabbi Jacob Rubenstein of Congregation Ahavath Israel of Kingston announces that special prayers will be held on Friday, May 22, at 8 p. m. and Saturday, May 23, at 9 a. m. in the Synagogue at 72 Wurts Street. All congregants are urged to be present, and the public may attend as well.

In addition to proclaiming the National Day of Prayer, the American Jewish Conference on Soviet Jewry framed an 18-point appeal addressed to the Soviet government. These 18 points are a catalogue of discriminatory practices visited upon the Soviet-Jewish community in violation of the Soviet constitution. This 18-point appeal states, "We protest the denial to the Soviet Jews of the basic institutions and facilities granted to other religious and nationality groups within the Soviet Union."

The appeal also calls for redress of many wrongs and sufferings, for the enlimination of discrimination and for the full restoration of Jewish rights in the USSR.

It spells out the many curtailments and injustices imposed by the government and party and asks for restoration of rights of worship.

Talleur was headed west on Washington Avenue, and the other car, moving east, was turning into Pearl Street. Officers George Barringer and Albert Johnson investigated.

Hatfield Fined $200

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Robert E. Hatfield, a young salesman who spat in Adlai E. Stevenson's face and called him a traitor, was found guilty Thursday of aggravated assault on a policeman. Jurors assessed a $200 fine as punishment.

Hatfield, 22, a resident of Irving, a Dallas suburb, told a reporter after the verdict: "I am innocent of the charges."

Hatfield was charged with assault on a Dallas policeman who escorted the U.N. ambassador after Stevenson's United Nations Day speech Oct. 24 at the City Auditorium.

50 Arrests Are Made in April, 19 People Hurt

Police Chief Robert F. Murphy's report to the police board Thursday night listed 50 arrests in April on criminal charges, and 12 persons injured in 21 city traffic mishaps.

The March totals were 61 arrests and 19 injured in 17 traffic accidents.

Reported also for April were 44 summonses issued for moving traffic violations and 18 for vehicle and traffic offenses. The March totals were 43 and 17.

Of the 50 arrests on various charges, 27 were for public intoxication, 10 for third degree assault, three for disorderly conduct, and two each for second degree assault and failure to appear in court. One each was for third degree burglary, fraudulent check, common gambler, vagrancy, violation of a family court order and preventing an officer from doing his duty.

Of those arrests, five were committed to jail, six paid fines, and 13 received suspended sentences. Two were discharged, four charges were withdrawn, one case went to a grand jury, two to family court, and 13 cases are pending.

Of the mishaps, 18 involved two or more vehicles, one person was injured in a fall from a car, one accident involved a pedestrian, and one involved a collision with a fixed object.

Gift Ship for Alaska

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The earthquake that shook Alaska also shook up lumber mill operator Jack Brandis.

He started a campaign to donate lumber and plywood to needy Alaskans ravaged by the quake. He started the drive off with 50,000 feet of half-inch exterior plywood. It touched off a groundswell of giving by forest industries throughout Oregon and Washington.

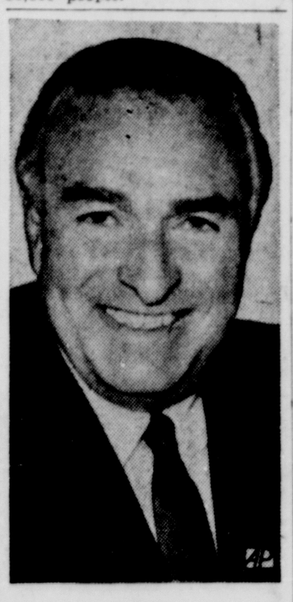

Convoys of loaded trucks rolled into Portland almost daily from mills to be put aboard the "gift ship" heading for Alaska. The material was consigned to Alaska's Gov. William Egan.

Good Intentions

MIAMI (AP) — Twenty well-meaning firefighters caused more damage than the hotel fire they attempted to battle, the Miami Fire Department said. Hotel guests grabbed a fire hose, but ran out of hose 40 feet from the fire, so they decided to give the area a good soaking, "for good measure." The Fire Department said its men arrived, threw a mattress out the window. Damage from fire: slight. From water: substantial.

Baptists Reject Integration for Dixie Churches

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) —Southern Baptists have rejected an endorsement of church integration and left the issue up to member churches.

"It is our conviction that the final solution to these problems must come on the local level," said a policy statement adopted Thursday by messengers (delegates) to the Southern Baptist Convention, largest Protestant body in the United States.

In contrast, the American (Northern) Baptist Convention was expected to approve a resolution today calling for participation in demonstrations for civil rights and support of the civil rights bill pending in the Senate.

The conventions, holding separate meetings, both planned to take up proposals opposing any change in the U.S. Constitution because of the school prayer controversy.

Both groups, together with five other Baptist denominations, join in a program celebrating their 150th anniversary today.

A block of Deep South ministers led the fight against Southern convention endorsem...t churches that open their doors to Negroes, as recommended by the convention's Christian Life Commission.

The commission also proposed a pledge "to support the laws designed to guarantee the legal rights of Negroes." It would have called on Southern Baptists to "give themselves to the decisive defeat of racism."

Attacking this as possible endorsement of the civil rights bill, the Rev. James Middleton of Shreveport, La., won adoption of a substitute policy statement.

His statement said Southern Baptists "fully recognize the dignity of every human being," and added: "We would urge every Southern Baptist and every church to earnestly pray and work that peaceful Christian solutions may be found in all the racial relationships facing the world today."

The convention cannot bind its actions on member churches; it can only recommend.

Charged As Fugitive

Charles E. Travis, 21, of Coxsackie, is being held in the Greene County Jail for examination Monday on a charge of being a fugitive from justice in Pennsylvania. State Police at Leeds substation said Travis waived extradition at his appearance Thursday before Peace Justice George Carl, Town of Catskill. He was arrested by Investigator Patrick Romagnano of the BCI, Leeds, and Police Chief George Dion of Coxsackie.

Educator Denies Conduct Charge In Altercation

Dr. Gerson Robison, 55, of 10 South Oakwood Terrace, New Paltz, one of two men arrested on separate charges after an altercation last April at the former Place bookstore in New Paltz, denied a disorderly conduct charge at his arraignment Thursday night before Peace Justice S. Parks Glenn, New Paltz.

Hearing Next Thursday

Dr. Robison, a mathematics professor at New Paltz State University College, was continued paroled into the custody of his attorney, Norman Kellar, for a hearing on next Thursday, May 28. Kellar asked for a bill of particulars on the subdivision of the section of law with his client is charged. Assistant District Attorney Albert I. Lonstein, representing the people, said he would provide Kellar with the bill of particulars before that date.

Justice Glenn set the case down for trial on June 4. The law does not provide for a jury in the charge, which is an offense. Attorney Kellar entered the plea for Dr. Robison.

James Konrad Warner, 25, of Tillson charged with third-degree assault in the case, also was granted an adjournment to next Thursday when he said his lawyer, John D. Graves of New York City, was engaged in court proceedings in that city.

He was continued free in $500 bail for arraignment on the charge on that date. Glenn also scheduled next Thursday for picking of a jury to try the case and set down June 4 for the trial date. Under law, the charge provides for a jury trial. Glenn said the cases of Warner and Robison were to be tried separately but on the same night.

Warner was originally arrested by State Police on a felony charge of second-degree assault after an altercation in The Place bookstore he operated in New Paltz, in which he allegedly struck Dr. Robison on the head with a baseball bat. The college professor was arrested later on a disorderly conduct charge on the complaint of Warner.

However, the case went to the grand jury, which in turn directed District Attorney David W. Corwin to file an information referring the matter back to the New Paltz magistrate's court for further prosecution and reducing the felony charge against Warner to a misdemeanor count of third-degree assault. The order also directed that the disorderly conduct offense charge remain against Robison. Lonstein represents the prosecution in both cases.

Argument Ensued

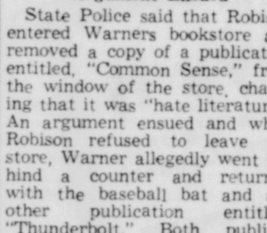

State Police said that Robison entered Warners bookstore and removed a copy of a publication entitled, "Common Sense," from the window of the store, charging that it was "hate literature." An argument ensued and when Robison refused to leave the store, Warner allegedly went behind a counter and returned with the baseball bat and another publication entitled, "Thunderbolt." Both publications are regarded as "extreme Right Wing." Dr. Robison characterized them as anti-semitic.

Troopers said that a group of students from the college gathered at the store and when the professor tore down the second publication, the students witnessed Warner strike the professor on the head. Robison was taken to New Paltz Medical Center where eight sutures were taken to close the head wound.

Warner posted bail after staying overnight in the County Jail after the incident.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—Profit taking among several mineral stocks was a feature of an irregular stock market early this afternoon. Market averages were up slightly.

Occidental Petroleum, which was a big gainer Thursday as the most active stock, was delayed in opening. It fell ⅛ to 33 on initial blocks of 30,000 and 1,800 shares, then extended its loss to more than a point.

Most of the other issues involved in the current vogue for companies with actual or possible natural resource also encountered profit taking.

A slightly higher trend prevailed among steels, oils, chemicals, rails, utilities and farm implements. Motors, rubbers, aerospace issues, nonferrous metals, airlines and building materials were mixed. Cigarette stocks declined.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .5 at 307.3 with industrials up .6, rails up .2 and utilities up .3.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .98 at 820.78.

Texas Gulf Sulphur fell more than a point.

Bendix was steady while Boeing lost a fraction.

Eastman Kodak, up more than 2, showed continued strength.

IBM and Xerox were up about 2 each, Pan American World Airways more than a point. Zenith lost over a point.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were irregularly higher, with rails mixed. U.S. government bonds were steady to slightly higher.

One of 8 Children

that Brian Malloy discovered the fire about 1 a. m. and woke his mother, Mrs. Charlotte Malloy, who started to gather up the children while Brian turned in the alarm. The father was on a fishing trip in Canada when the fire broke out.

Troopers and fire fighters said that Mrs. Malloy passed the children one by one through the windows of the home and in some instances passed them from the top floor to firemen below. When she left the building, officials said, Mrs. Maloy discovered that Theresa was missing. Firemen reentered the home and found the girl. They brought her out and she was rushed to the hospital by ambulance.

Starts in New Part

Firemen said that the blaze broke out in the east side of the building where a five-room addition had recently been completed.

Dr. Sherman Hirst treated the injured. Medical Examiner William Tompkins, Dutchess County, gave a tentative verdict of accidental death by asphyxiation in the case of Theresa Malloy. Fire Chief William Schryver of Hyde Park was in charge of fire fighters, while Capt. William Hunt was in charge of the Hyde Park Fire Department Ambulance Corps. The Hyde Park and Roosevelt ambulance corps took the injured to the hospital. Roosevelt Fire Department assisted at the scene.

The fire fighters returned to service at 8:23 a. m. Troopers William Schamberg and Hart and Investigator A. J. Waters, Rhinebeck substation, investigated for the State Police. Cause of the fire is still under investigation.

Homicide Verdict

The Freeman that a blood-stained stone—believed to be the murder weapon—was found in the victim's room. He said that it was presumed that robbery may have been the motive since no money was found in Jepson's room.

Lt. Croswell said that George Pascual, who roomed with the victim, has been missing since the incident. He said that Jepson's body was discovered Thursday by a hotel security guard when Jepson failed to report for work. Croswell told The Freeman that Jepson had been employed at the hotel since April as a porter. The troopers are investigating the homicide with District Attorney Robert Williams and his staff. Dr. Schiff, of Liberty, represented Dr. Lee R. Tompkins, also of Liberty, as coroner's physician.

said: "There is no need for another such conference. A Geneva conference on Cambodia could not be expected to produce an agreement any more affective than the agreement we already have."

The Vietnamese representative renewed his government's proposal for direct border talks between Cambodia and South Viet Nam. But Sonn brushed off that proposal.

The U.S. ambassador charged that North Vietnamese Communists, helped by the Chinese Communists, were trying to overthrow the governments of South Viet Nam and Laos.

Injured in Mishap

Albert Chmura, 50, of 158 Ten Broeck Avenue, reported a head injury after a two-car mishap at about 7:45 a. m., today at TenBroeck Avenue and Cornell Street. Police said he drove the one car and the other was operated by Albing Carolio, of Box 101, Saugerties.

Program Listed For Concert at Central School

NEW PALTZ—The music department of New Paltz Central School is in the final stages of rehearsal in preparation for the annual spring concert to be given in the high school auditorium May 28 at 8:15 p. m.

The program will open with the intermediate band under the direction of Stuart Krams, playing a march Safety Patrol, followed by Little Prelude, by Finalyson; Grant Us Thy Peace; The Emperor Waltz, by Johnann Strauss; and Satellite Patrol, by Dedrick.

The high school girls' ensemble, under the direction of Mrs. George Bond, will sing a group of numbers they recently performed for NYSSMA rating at Glens Falls Competition Festival. The high school mixed chorus will conclude the first part of the concert with the following selections: Three Short Psalms, a contemporary choral composition with organ accompaniment by Gorden Young; Consider Yourself, from the musical Oliver by Bart; The Last Words of David, by Randall Thompson; and A Hymn for United Nation, based on the theme of Beethoven's finale of the Ninth Symphony, arranged by Wood.

Linda Dyer, graduating member of the mixed chorus, will be organ accompanist in the Young and Beethoven compositions, using a Hammond organ owned by William Dunn, Tillson. Barbara Barmgartner will be piano accompanist with the choral groups, also.

The second half of the concert will be devoted to music by the concert band, under the direction of Paul Steiner. They will play: Americade, a selection of patriotic songs, by DeLamater; Tamerlane by Erickson; Skyline, an Overature, by Morrissey; and Parade of the Charioteers by Rozsa, from the MGM production of Ben-Hur.

Solos by some of the outstanding students of the music department will also be heard.

Special arrangements are being made to seat all parents and friends who wish to attend the concert. No repetition of the crowded conditions at the Winter Concert are anticipated as all performing groups will not be seated in the auditorium. Young children should be accompanied by adults. There is no admission charge.

C-H Dividend

The Board of Directors of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, at the monthly meeting held at the company's South Road office, Poughkeepsie, today declared a dividend of $1.08-¾ per share on its 4.35 per cent cumulative preferred stock; $1:12-½ per share on the company's 4½ per cent cumulative preferred stock; $1.18-¾ per per share on its 4.75 per cent cumulative preferred stock and $1.24 per share on its 4.96 per cent cumulative preferred stock. Each of these dividends will be payable July 1 to holders of record June 10.

Johnson Trains

son believes all things are possible if the presidential will is steadfast.

Certainly this was true of his approach to the five-year-old dispute that threatened a national rail strike. While some advisers warned that Johnson would risk injury to his prestige by committing the force of the presidency to a hopeless cause, he went ahead and staged last-ditch negotiations in the White House. He got the settlement.

The rail agreement was widely regarded as something of a miracle. So, too, was enactment of the biggest tax cut in history.

When Johnson took office, it seemed quite possible the Senate would take many, many months to act on tax legislation. Johnson broke the logjam by undercutting opposition with a much-publicized economy in government program.

Many Americans laughed when the President dramatized his pinch-penny proclivities by dousing lights in the White House. However, he set an example that is hitting home—evidenced by the recent move to substitute hydrogen for helium in weather balloons. The $14,000 saved by the Weather Bureau in this fashion won't pay off the national debt, but it's a start, and it has helped win Johnson applause from critics of big government spending.

Does Selling Job

Johnson repeatedly proclaims his desire to be "president of all the people." And, in six months, he has worked feverishly at selling himself—and with some apparent success.

A few months ago, street crowds that turned out for Johnson were modest in size and restrained in their applause. But recently when Johnson visited 13 states in 13 days, his receptions everywhere bordered on the triumphal.

Johnson rarely makes a speech without talking about civil rights and poverty. And in recent weeks, he has added medical care for the aged to his catalog of items he plugs with drumbeat persistence.

Persistence Key Word

Persistence is the key word in Johnson's approach to pressing his programs. He summed it up like this when he was discussing the poverty program before a New York audience:

"We are going to strike the hammer of truth against the anvil of public opinion — again—and again—and again—until the ears of this nation are open and the conscience of America is awake."

Unquestionably, domestic concerns have dominated Johnson's public utterances during the past six months. But problems abroad have multiplied, in Panama, Cuba, South Viet Nam, Laos.

Criticism of his record has centered on his conduct of foreign affairs. The allegation heard most often is that the President's interest in this area —and his knowledge of it — is limited and contributes to stagnant, unimaginative policy.

Johnson bridles at this, arguing that he has a strong background in foreign affairs and devotes a great proportion of his time to them.

At home and abroad, the great compromiser of the 1950s has emerged in six action-packed months as a man of unyielding force. The next six months will determine how well the voters like the new Lyndon Johnson.

Octegenarian Fights Hard To Keep Off Welfare

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "I am 80 years old, no social security, no insurance and am trying hard to keep off 'Old Age Assistance.' I own Tennessee Gas Transmission, American Telephone, and New England Electric. What do you think of these? I am most concerned about American Machine & Foundry, bought years ago, which shows me a profit. Would you sell this stock?" E.P.

A) You seem to be an indomitable sort of person, and if you are trying hard to keep off Old Age Assistance, I'm quite sure you will.

I like the first three stocks you mentioned, but I might suggest that by switching American Telephone into New England Telephone you would substantially increase your yield with some loss of growth.

As regards American Machine & Foundry, this stock has been making a moderate recovery and now yields less than 4 per cent. There are risks in this situation, and in your position I would switch to Maytag, yielding 4.5 per cent.

Q) "I am retired, in good health, have excellent income and insurance protection, own my home and have $15,000 savings. Among others, I hold 100 Goodyear; 100 Weyerhauser Timber; 50 Cluett, Peabody; 25 U.S. Playing Card. I like U.S. Playing Card because of its fine yield. I have $4,000 to $5,000 to invest. Would you advise that I add to this list or pick something else?" C.T.

A) I am very much pleased that you have been able to retire under such comfortable circumstances. All your holdings are of good quality.

Cluett, Peabody has been showing a fine growth pattern in recent years due to its expansion of Arrow products, its royalty income from the "Sanforized" trademark, and its move into retail merchandising. I think you might well build up your holdings here to 100 shares.

U. S. Playing Card is facing more competition but is still dominant in the field, and its strong financial position makes the dividend seem secure. I suggest another 75 shares of this stock.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Will Compete for Page One Queen's Crown; Contest Scheduled for This Sunday

DIANA KNIGHT, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Knight of West Hurley has joined other Ulster County contestants in the competition for Page One Queen. A senior at Onteora Central High School, Miss Kright plans to attend Syracuse University in the fall. She is president of the Honor Society and Leaders Club and serves as secretary of the senior class. Miss Knight, who is an avid sports fan, is interested in water skiing, swimming, and scuba diving. The competition will be held on Sunday at 3 p. m. in The Flamingo, Saugerties. Three finalists will be chosen.

JOSEPHINE DEGIORGI is 18 years old and a student at Kingston High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Degiorgi of 156 Hunter Street, this city, lists art as her main interest. Miss Degiorgi plans to major in art in the fall at State University College, New Paltz. She is now art editor of the 1964 Maroon Yearbook and has won awards for her artwork. Miss Degiorgi also plays the accordion and her other interests include swimming, water skiing, and music. She is active in all school and club activities.

GAIL BOYCE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Boyce of 215 Lucas Avenue reigned as Montgomery Ward's 1963 "Back to School Queen." She is a member of the junior class in Kingston High School and serves on the executive council. She is a member also of the Leaders Club and Varsity Cheerleading Squad. Miss Boyce includes skiing, swimming, tennis and dancing amongst her hobbies and says she also enjoys modeling and playing the piano. The queen's competition is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

DENISE HUDELA, 18 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bronislaw Hudela of 198 Washington Avenue, this city, and a student at Academy of St. Ursula, has entered the competition for the Page One Queen's Crown. The girl chosen will reign over the Page One Ball on Saturday, June 6 at the Wiltwyck Country Club. All tickets to the ball have been sold and a cancellation list is now being compiled by the sponsor, the Kingston Newspaper Guild. Miss Hudela plans to major in history when she enters Trinity College in Burlington, Vt. She recently placed in the Singer Sewing Contest. Her other interests include painting, sewing, water skiing, winter skiing, swimming and tennis. (Photo Workshop)

WORRIED ABOUT HER VALUABLE LINEN

Q: My husband and I are planning a large, formal reception in honor of our son's Bar Mitzvah. I will be using my very best china, silverware and linens for the tables. My linens are heirloom and run into hundreds of dollars. It would actually run them should a tea or coffee or food stain get on them. They are cut out and heavily embroidered. Will you please tell me if it would be permissable to use clear plastic table covers over these fine tablecloths to protect them?

A: Plastic tablecloths, while very practical for family use, have no place on a formally set table and if you are afraid that your heirloom tablecloths will be ruined, I would advise your using others rather than cover them with plastic covers.

Anniversary Present to Boy Friend's Parents

Q: My boy friend's parents will soon celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. He and his two sisters have planned a surprise anniversary party for them and I have been invited. This will be my first meeting with his parents and I am anxious to do the right thing. Would it be proper for me to bring a present to the party? I do not want to seem as though I am trying to buy their approval.

A: Never having met his parents, you will not be expected, in fact it would be in rather questionable taste, to take a present to them.

Wants No Silver

Q: A friend of mine will be celebrating her 25th wedding anniversary the end of next month and is planning to give a party. She does not want any silver gifts. Would it be permissable to state this on the invitations?

A: "No gifts please" would be quite all right, but "No silver, please" would not. The reason being that the second assumes that presents are expected. You may, as her best friend, tell others of her dislike for silver.

A Damaged Gift

Q: I received a gift from a relative and it was damaged. She said she would replace it. That was almost two months ago and as yet she hasn't done so. May I remind her of this?

A: It will be best to say nothing and hope that she will remember herself to replace it.

KINGSTON HIGH SCHOOL ART STUDENTS arranging exhibition of work by the high school's art department in Artcraft Gallery are (l-r) Robert Rota, Harold Houghtaling, James Becker and Juanita Bilyou. The exhibition will be open to the public through May 29.

KHS Art Students Open Exhibition Of Work Locally

The 1964 Annual Art Exhibition of the Kingston High School Art Department opened May 16 and will continue through May 29 at the Artcraft Gallery, 694 Broadway, Kingston. The exhibition is distinctive in its variety, showing a creative emphasis in all phases of crafts, drawing and painting.

Included in the showing are models and research projects based on the history of art. These touch the roots of historic art expression and were created after much careful study relating to the Prehistoric, Egyptian, Greek, Medieval and Renaissance periods. Antiqued metal-tooled plaques make use of Assyrian animals in symbolic interpretation. The conventionalized beauty of the Egyptian frieze is represented in original paintings closely following the traditional motifs. Outstanding are the stained glass projects and the illuminated manuscripts as derived from study of the Medieval art.

Basic Art students, exploring the possibilities of paper, various media, and fundemental art concepts, have exhibited their ideas in wide scope. There are pencil perspectives of "moon landscapes," water color impressions, and masks—all of which show individually of rendering and approach.

The advertising classes are exhibiting a group of travel posters, magazine cover designs and other advertising media which "sell" products through the appeal of strong design and lettering in colorful and imaginative combination. These are in contrast to a collection of "fantasy" houses, paintings of the studio classes majoring in drawing and painting. These are houses of the supernatural world — haunted, but fascinating in color and setting. Realistic landscapes, seaside moods and faraway places come alive in the brushwork of the students. Even science becomes an art form when microscopic life is magnified into a new dimension and a new visual experience.

The art classes at Kingston High School are under the direction of Mrs. Althea S. Odell, art coordinator for the Kingston School System.

Success Reported By KHS '39 Class Of Reunion Weekend

The 25th anniversary reunion of the Kingston High School Class of 1939 attracted good turnouts at both the cocktail party and dinner-dance last weekend.

The big event of the reunion schedule occured Saturday night when the dinner-dance took place at the Capri 400 Restaurant in Port Ewen.

James E. Norton, chairman of arrangements for the entire reunion weekend, welcomed the guests and spoke briefly on the work of the committee and his appreciation for the outstanding work done by all concerned.

John A. McCullough acted as master of ceremonies and Dr. Clayton Brower, dean of instruction of Trenton State College, gave the invocation.

McCullough, effered two vocal selections and introduced officers of the Class of 1939 and also Mrs. Marion Murray, Richard Whiston and G. Warren Kias. A letter from Clarence L. Dumm, former principal was read as were telegrams from various membes of the '39 graduates.

Major Donald Weeks, who is connected with the Pentagon in Washington, D. C., and who now makes his home in Virginia, was awarded a prize for the class member traveling the greatest distance to the reunion weekend. Several contests also highlighted the evenings program.

Entertainment and dancing concluded the festivities.

Agnes Cafaro Gardiner and Virginia Luedtke Baltz assisted in plans for the "get acquainted" party Friday night.

In addition to Chairman Norton other officers of the reunion committee were William E. Powers Jr., Mrs. Marion Maines and Mrs. Geraldine Nathan, vice-presidents; Mrs. Gwendolyn Kershaw Barogin, secretary and Mrs. Freida Lipton, treasurer.

Committeemen included Jenner R. Kittle, dinner dance; Lawrence A. Quilty, cocktail party; Miss Bessie Nekos, research and identification; John A. McCullough, entertainment; Mrs. Norma Kittle, flinance and reservations; Mrs. Maxine Wingate, decorations and favors; Mr. and Mrs. William Newkirk, memory book; Mrs. Virginia Baltz, bulletin board; Mrs. Agnes Gardner, hospitality and G. Robert Anderson, special guests.

Little Gardens Club Met Today; Flower Show Program Held

The Little Gardens Club of Kingston met today in the Education Building, Hurley Reformed Church, Hurley, old Route 209, at 12:30. Mrs. James Elder, president, met with the members in the Dutch room for a short business meeting, preceding the afternoon's flower show program.

Miss Jane Austen and her committee planned a flower show schedule titled, "A Tribute to Shakespeare." There were nine classes:

I. "Love's Labor Lost.
When daisies pied and violets blue,
And lady smocks all silver white,
And cuckoo birds of yellow hue
Do point the meadows with delight.

An arrangement of white, blue, and yellow.

II. "As You Like It."

Art Association Hears James Kaman; Exhibit Planned

James Kaman, art teacher at the Rondout Valley Central School, was guest speaker at a meeting of the Ulster County Art Association held this month. An art teacher, Mr. Kaman explained commercial art and the techniques of glazing.

On June 6, Mrs. Irene Owens, Mrs. Margaret O'Conner and William Edelmuth will discuss the origin and history of the Association with Helen Davenport on her local radio program.

Members of the Art Association regularly exhibit paintings at the First Federal Savings and Loan Association on Fair Street and at Wallace's. The Association is planning its annual exhibition on the Academy Green for June 27 and 28 from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

On June 2, all members are asked to have their donation books or to make returns to Miss Saly Gallagher, 574 Delaware Avenue.

Mrs. Henry Eighmey Elected President Of YWCA Directors

At a recent meeting of the Board of Directors of the Young Women's Christian Association, Mrs. Henry P. Eighmey was elected president. Mrs. Eighmey has been active in the various clubs of the YWCA for many years, having served on various committees, and is completing her term of office as president of the Junior Marrieds Club.

Mrs. Eighmey has long been interested in community affairs, having served as a Den Mother in the Cub Scouts of Kingston for ten years. She is on the official Board of the Methodist Church of Shady, and also teaches Sunday school.

Mrs. Henry Millonig, chairman of the nominating committee, announced the slate of officers, and the Board members cast a unanimous ballot for Mrs. Eighmey and her fellow officers who are: first vice president, Mrs. Bernard Trowbridge; second vice president, Miss Kay Heavey; recording secretary, Mrs. William Keith; corresponding secretary, Miss Evelyn Thomas; and treasurer, Miss Agnes Scott Smith.

Mrs. William Wood, outgoing president, handed the gavel to Mrs. Eighmey after the routine committee reports had been given by the chairmen of the standing committees. Mrs. Gerard Hawkins, Y-Teen program director, announced there would be a summer day program for elementary school girls, the dates and details to be announced in the near future. Information about this program may be obtained by calling the YWCA office, 209 Clinton Avenue.

New board members attending their first meeting after being elected for a three-year term at the May 2 membership luncheon were: Mrs. Harold Davis, Mrs. John Glennon, and Miss Louise Luther, and the following who were re-elected for a second term: Mrs. Frederick Burnett, Mrs. John Warren, Mrs. Bernard Trowbridge, Miss Jean Harvey and Miss Mary Staples.

Plans were made during the evening for the June meeting to be held at the home of Miss Mary Staples in the form of a picnic supper in charge of Mrs. John Warren.

United Commercial Travelers

The regular monthly meeting of Kingston Auxiliary 130, United Commercial Travelers, will be held May 26 in the Elks Club, Fair Street, at 8 p. m.

Mrs. David Gruberg, senior counselor, urges all members to attend. Plans will be completed to attend the 64th Grand Council Convention of the New York United Commercial Travelers of America and the Grand Auxiliary of New York to be held in Utica June 3-6.

At the close of the meeting, the auxiliary members will join Kingston Council 356 for a social hour.

AWARDED ELKS SCHOLARSHIP — Miss Kathryn Evans Kurzyna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kurzyna of Elizaville, a senior in the Germantown Central School, has been awarded a $500 New York State Elks Association scholarship. She was among the 21 winners in the state. It is anticipated Miss Kurzyna will receive the award in person in Syracuse tomorrow when several Elks from Red Hook - Rhinebeck Elks Lodge No. 2022 will be in convention. Miss Kurzyna has served two years as president of the National Honor Society, is editor of the Germantown school year book and is a member of the school newspaper staff "The Clipper." She is a member of the school chorus, served for two years as a cheer leader and received the DAR Good Citizenship Award as well as a New York State Regents Scholarship. Miss Kurzyna plans to attend the University of Connecticut in Storrs, Conn. She will major in pharmacy.

School Band To Perform on Memorial Day

An added feature of the annual Memorial Day Parade sponsored by Town of Esopus Post 1298, American Legion, will be the initial public appearance of the Port Ewen School band. The band is an extra-curricular activity at the local school and consists of approximately 50 members including a majorette corps.

Organizer and director of the band is G. Thomas Keehn, instructor of instrumental music at Port Ewen, Chambers and Lake Katrine Schools. Keehn has been with the Kingston Schools Consolidated since the beginning of the school year.

He is a native of Lititz, Pa., and was graduated from Lebanon Valley College with a bachelor of science degree majoring in music education. He is a member of the Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia fraternity and a charter member of Iota Kappa Chapter.

Mr. Keehn and his family reside in Halcyon Park, Lake Katrine.

Parade Chairman Kenneth Bonville praised the work of Keehn and said that local residents will be both surprised and pleased with this newest addition to the annual parade.

Bonville also announced the winners of the American Legion Americanism Essay contest held each year in conjunction with the Memorial Day observance. They are Leah Rappaport, daughter of Rabbi and Mrs. H. Z. Rappaport of Bayard Street, Port Ewen, and Bradley Feil, son of Mrs. Joan Feil of River Road, Port Ewen. Both are students in the sixth grade at Port Ewen School.

Communication

LOUISVILLE (AP) — An Indiana University student, placing a poster in a laundry for the school's traveling showboat, was questioned by a woman. The student explained that the showboat was undergoing a revival — and asked whether she was going. "Oh, I don't go to a showboat," was the reply, "I go to a regular church."

Troy Methodists Study Extending Conference Lines

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Troy Conference of the Methodist Church turned today to the question of enlarging its boundaries—possibly to take in the neighboring Wyoming Conference.

Bishop Lloyd C. Wicke, of the New York area, presiding at the 132nd annual meeting, said he would discuss possible boundary changes in an address to the approximately 400 delegates attending.

The Troy conference includes more than 200 churches in northeastern New York and in Vermont. There has been speculation that it might be merged with the Wyoming conference, which embraces northern Pennsylvania and South-Central New York.

Last year, membership dropped 145 to a total of 88,755 persons, the Rev. Howard M. Hills of Center Brunswick, conference statistician, reported. Church school attendance also declined, he said.

William A. Smith, of Troy, conference treasurer, observed that some churches had failed to meet their apportionments for financial support of world service and missions. He cited no figures.

Expenses climbed last year by $175,000 to $1,262,450, including $580,805 for church buildings. At the same time, indebtedness on church properties was reduced by $36,000.

Lloyd Newcombe, Peoples Choice for State Senator

If you are an enrolled Republican, this is your lucky year. For this year, for the first time in over two generations, the choice of who will be your Republican candidate for State Senator is up to you.

Lloyd A. Newcombe is the man who is giving you that choice. He is running in the June 2nd Republican primary for the nomination as State Senator, not as the hand-picked choice of a handful of political bosses, but as the candidate of the people.

Why is Lloyd A. Newcombe doing this?

As a successful businessman in both Ulster and Greene Counties, he is not doing it for personal gain. At 42, in the prime of life, he is not doing it because he wishes to retire into public office.

He is doing it because he believes in the potential of our district. He is doing it because he believes in the importance of the high office he is seeking. He feels that the choice of a candidate for this important office should be made by the people and not by political bosses.

He is also doing it because, like so many, he feels the need for a change. It is time to get the 34th Senatorial District back on the road of progress. He feels the change is needed NOW. The time to act is NOW.

During this campaign Lloyd Newcombe has made three pledges. 1. He will communicate with the people of the district. 2. He will seek counsel from the people of the district. 3. He will be a full time Senator and will work for the people of the district.

Lloyd A. Newcombe

These are his pledges. He has made no commitment to anyone except the people of the district.

So, if you are an enrolled Republican and feel a change is needed in our representation in Albany, Tuesday, June 2nd can be a red letter day for you. It can be the day you return your Republican Party to the people.

Compare the two candidates. Look at their records. Compare the two men. Then look back over the past eight years of legislative sterility and see if you too don't feel the need for a change is NOW.

If you agree that a change is needed, be sure to vote on June 2nd. You will vote in your regular voting place. The hours are from noon to 9 p.m.

And be sure to bring along a friend. In the months and years ahead, you'll be glad you voted for Newcombe.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

From time to time I get a little note from a reader, like the one who writes in part, that he "has been a resident of Kingston, N. Y. for 68 years" and I see the envelope is post marked Kingston and also Saugerties. I said something to the effect sometime ago, that many folks like to own a little piece of land or home which is really theirs, to do with as they please. He does not agree with me, as he says, "they are only tenants, when they do not pay their (rent) or taxes," out they go. I agree with him. Especially in times like these when taxes are climbing, because of the millions being spent, that those living on a small fixed income, in a home, with or without a mortgage, just cannot hold on to their homes. The taxes will eventually eat up their small savings and they will be left without a home.

It seems the powers that be, could not care less, if these little people are put out of their homes. No one hears about them, as they make very little noise, and their only desire is to remain in their own home, surrounded by the trees and flowers and friends and neighbors they have known for years. I think these people are very important, have been self-supporting, and should somehow be allowed to maintain their dignity and their homes without being eaten up by climbing taxes. These little notes sadden me, and I, like they, know that there is much waste in the name of progress, or is it greed, which is ruining them.

Attorney Henry Kline sent me three local newspapers: May 14, Catskill Mountain Star, May 13, Saugerties Post and April 2, Kingstonian. I like Anton O. Myer's letter in the Saugerties Post on the dangers of spraying of insecticides, which is proven lethal to fish, animal and bird life. Another form of progress detrimental to people who are forced to put up with it.

The Catskill Mountain Star carries an interesting column by Pauline Hommell who has been a teacher for many years, and a recent author of such books as "Teacup Tales" and "Class Dismissed." Her column is titled "Our Area's Part, Mr. Lincoln's War" and the May 14 item tells about Abram and John Shader who enlisted at Saugerties in August 1862, in Co. G, 120th Regiment. The Shaders were mustered out in June, 1865, with other members of the 120th. In 1893, Abram was living in Hurley, and John went to New York City. She adds that no information is available as to their marriages, families, or when or where they died. Perhaps my readers can add to the above.

Miss Hommell also writes that Aug. 22 was the date when the 120th was mustered in, and in later years this was the date of the Regimental picnic, which used to be held at our famous Kingston Point Park on the Hudson, and when our park was abandoned, they held it at Forsyth Park. Both of Miss Hommell's books are entertaining and informative and I am sure can be had at our Kingston City Public Library and no doubt at local book stores.

I see that Memorial Day comes out on Saturday in 1964 which means a short weekend. I remember back in my No. 3 public school days, how we used to bring flowers to school, and then all march to the various cemeteries to place flowers wherever a flag was at a grave, which meant a soldier was buried there. I understand this is no longer done. In my day, Chamber street, on the way to school had private flower gardens, and we used to buy them for this purpose. We paid only 10 or 15 cents for a whole handful of large flowers. Everyone in that section seemed to have flower and vegetable gardens in those days.

Why We Say--

BISHOP BLAISE: This expression in its popular usage needs no explanation. But when it started it was "Drunk as Blaisers." It originated with the practice of wool combers celebrating the festival of their patron saint, Bishop Blaise, by getting drunk on his feast day at their annual festival at Leicester.

Kingston Library Adds New Books

From the recent excellent biographies which have been published this year, the Kingston City Library has chosen for its collection several which are of high quality and are well written. One of the most long awaited in this field is the one which Ernest Hemingway wrote concerning his early years as an expatriate writer in the Paris of the Nineteen twenties.

A Moveable Feast is a series of impressions of Paris of such famous writers as Scott Fitzgerald and Ezra Pound and of Hemingway's own views on writings. A book completed in his lifetime. This is not a posthumous collection by his literary heirs.

Robert Frost: The Aim Was Song by Jean Gould is another biography of an American man of letters now dead. For a year or more before his death, the author talked long and deeply with the poet about his work, his life and his philosophy. The result is an affectionate and perceptive biography of the beloved poet.

Nefertiti by Evelyn Wells tells of the beautiful and little understood wife of the Egyptian pharaoh, Akhenaton, who taught that there was one God. One of the many rulers of Ancient Egypt, he and his queen are among the most important and the most interesting.

The Deputy by Hochuth, a book of great interest, is running currently as a play on Broadway. It accuses Pope Pius of not speaking out and by silence being partly guilty of the murder of six million Jews by Nazi Germany. In the long play, part of which is presented on Broadway, the age old question of "Am I my brother's keeper?" is explored.

Other books of non-fiction added to the library collection include:

The Ancient Engineers by Sprague deCamp traces the history of the ancient profession responsible for building the pyramids, the gothic churches and the New York World's Fair.

The Treasure of the Great Reef by Arthur Clark is a true account of locating and diving for sunken treasure off Ceylon.

South Viet Nam; Nation Under Stress by Robert Scigliano follows this tortured half country from its creation in 1954 to the death of the Diem government in 1963. Because of the deep involvement of the United States in this corner of Asia, Mr. Scigliano's book should be required reading for the Concerned American.

The Big Sell by Pierre Berton is the consumer's revolt against the door to door salesman with hints on how to avoid and avert the pressure technique.

All of these books are available at the Kingston City Library which is open daily from 10:30 a. m. to 8:30 p. m. and from 1 to 5 p. m. on Saturdays.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Hugh Downs, the head man of NBC's "Today Show," somehow manages to crowd an incredible number of activities into his schedule.

He arises at 4:30 a.m., for his daily chores—host, interviewer, salesman, introducer, light conversationist — on the two-hour morning show, and moves on to his job of gamesmaster and pitchman on the network's "Concentration."

He also finds time for flying lessons, French lessons, guitar practice, skin-diving, gun collecting, studying celestial navigation, carrying on a side-business that packages radio and television programs and commercial films, reading, and working for his favorite charity, the Mental Health Society.

Downs, 43, recently returned from a vacation trip to Europe and in August will turn actor briefly to play in a summer stock production of "Love and Kisses."

Downs admits that he does crowd an enormous amount of activity into each day, but insists that he accomplishes it through "my theory of procrastination."

"If there isn't time today, there is always tomorrow or the day after—so just put it off," he explains.

Although Downs does make some plans far ahead—he expects to sail across the Pacific next summer—such foresight is necessary because of his broadcasting work.

"I don't seem to have any long-range goal in life, and I don't believe I ever have had," he says. "I sort of go along with things and see what happens.

"The short-range goal, of course, is to safeguard my family's living standard. And, of course, it would be nice if that could be accomplished with less air time for me. That would give me more time to follow things in which I'm interested."

Downs, his attractive dark-haired wife Ruth and daughter Deirdre, 15, live in a mid-Manhattan apartment, a long walk away from Downs' studio. Son Hugh, 18, will soon be entering Ohio's Bowling Green College. Deirdre is interested in becoming an actress and will study dramatics this summer at Interlaken, Mich.

GROUNDBREAKING AT BLUE MOUNTAIN—Groundbreaking ceremonies were held Thursday afternoon for a new 21-room elementary school estimated to cost $1,130,000 which will be built at Carelas Corners, Blue Mountain. The new school will be named the Dr. Grant D. Morse Elementary School. Dr. Morse is the former superintendent of schools. Saugerties Board of Education President Robert Herb wields shovel. To his left is Dr Dexter O.. Arnold, superintendent of schools. Others (l-r) include school officials, board members, Architect Albert E. Milliken and George Swart of the construction firm, Henry A. Swart and Son of Kingston. (Patryk photo)

Ceremonies Held To Signal Start Of Newest School

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the Grant D. Morse Elementary School at Blue Mountain were conducted at 2 p. m. Thursday. Presiding was Board President Robert Herb, architect Albert E. Milliken, Superintendent of Schools Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, and George Swart of the construction firm of Henry A. Swart and Son, Kingston.

Members of the Board of Education present were Jack O. Pakanen, Anthony Riozzi, Steve Stycos, Stuart Buchan, and Arthur Simmons. Members of the school staff present were Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds David Hildebrandt, Business Manager Gerald Snyder, Director of Elementary Education Miss May Evans, Principal Norman Bolinder of the Main Street School, and Principal Patrick Buonfiglio of the Glasco School.

The school has been named to honor Dr. Grant D. Morse, former superintendent of schools in Saugerties. Dr. Morse served 43 years as a public school administrator in New York State. The last 39 years, up until his retirement in January of 1963, were spent in the Saugerties system, 37 years as superintendent, and two years previous to that as high school principal. He came here from Salem, New York where he was supervising principal of Washington Academy.

Dr. Morse graduated from Roxbury High School in Delaware County; from Winston Academy in Easthampton, Mass. and from New York University, where he earned the AB Degree; and where during his graduate years, he was a member of Delta Upsilon Fraternity, a member of the varsity debate team, and editor-in-chief of the college magazine, "The Medley." Six years after graduation from NYU he earned the MA Degree and a superintendent's diploma from Columbia University in New York.

In 1941 he earned a PhD Degree from New York University where he specialized in public school administration, and wrote his doctoral thesis on the effectiveness of an educational offering to the needs of various levels of intelligence.

Dr. and Mrs. Morse are the parents of three children who went through the Saugerties schools system—Dr. Roger A. Morse, currently assistant professor of entomology, Cornell University; Mrs. Jean Kallop of Voorheesville, formerly an elementary teacher after graduation from Oneonta State Teachers College; and Stanley C. Morse, currently a student of business administration at Rider College, Trenton, N. J. Dr. and Mrs. Morse reside on Ulster Avenue in Saugerties.

The sum of $1,130,000 was allocated for construction of the Grant D. Morse Elementary School and is part of the $2,875,000 bond issue voted last June. The 21-room elementary school for grades K-6 is scheduled for completion prior to the beginning of school in September, 1965, and is expected to eliminate the need for split-sessions in the elementary grades during that year.

Contractor for general construction is Henry A. Swart and Son of Kingston; heating and ventilating contractor, Tougher Heating and Plumbing, Incorporated of Albany; plumbing contractor, C. B. Strain of Kingston; electrical contractors, E. R. A. Electrical Construction Corporation of Kingston; and paving contractor, William E. West Incorporated of Woodstock.

Legion Announces Memorial Day Speaker, Schedule

Lamouree-Hackett Post American Legion of Saugerties, brings back another "native son" as principal speaker for its annual Memorial Day ceremonies, on May 30th.

Activities will include a ceremony at the monument in the rear of the Legion Building, and a parade to the Main Street school grounds where Air Force Chaplain Colonel John P. Fellows will deliver the Memorial Day address.

Col. Fellows was born and reared in Saugerties. He received his Bachelor of Arts from Colgate University in 1933 and Bachelor of Divinity from Union Theological Seminary, New York, in 1936.

He served as pastor of Methodist churches in Cairo, and Lakeville, Conn., prior to duty with the Army Air Force at Dow Field, Maine in March 1942. After being selected as a first lieutenant in March 1943, he was transferred to post chaplain at the U. S. Military Academy at West Point.

COL. JOHN P. FELLOWS

1949; Chaplain School, Lackland AFB Tex. 1950-51 where he was promoted to lt. colonel; Scott Air Force Base, April 1951-52; Tech. Training Base, Gulfport Miss. 1952-54; Air War College, Air University, 1954-55 where he was promoted to colonel and then appointed staff chaplain Northeast Air command for period to 1957.

Col. Fellows served until 1958 as staff chaplain, Atlantic Division MATS, McGuire AFB, N. J. when he was transferred to Hq MATS, Scott AFB, Ill. In 1960 he was assigned to Hq PACAF Hawaii as command chaplain and in August 1963 became command chaplain of Hq AFSC, at the Pentagon, Washington, D. C., his present tour of duty.

Chaplain Fellows is married to the former Ethel Teschmacher and is the father of three children. His hobbies include building Hi Fi components, fishing, golf and woodwork. He is the son of Mrs. Lewis F. Fellows of Virginia Avenue, Saugerties.

As in past years, the American Legion invites all school, civic, veteran, fraternal, church, and other groups to join in the parade line to pay respects to our war dead on Memorial Day. Details of the parade formation, line of march will be announced next week.

Reformed Church Lists Activities

"When We Pray" will be the sermon subject of the Rev. Orville Jay Hine at the 11 a. m. Sunday service at Saugerties Reformed Church.

The sermon will deal with a discussion of the Christian Life. Music will be by the senior choir who will sing the anthem entitled "Blessed Are They."

At the 9:45 a. m. session of Sunday church school, a film depicting the work of the American Bible Society will be shown by George Turner at the opening worship.

Youth Fellowship will meet at 5 p. m. This is a postponed meeting. There will be recreation, worship and a hot dog roast. Each person attending the meeting is asked to bring their own box lunch.

Saugerties Area Council of Churches meets for its annual meeting at Flatbush Reformed Church Monday. Those wishing to attend may communicate with the pastor or Walter Karch, delegate to the Council of Churches.

In Field Exercise

WITH DESERT STRIKE FORCES IN THE SOUTHWEST U. S. — Airman Second Class Robert Curry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Curry of Route 1, Saugerties, is in the field with U. S. Air Force Military Air Transport Service (MATS) airlift units now engaged in Exercise Desert Strike being conducted by U. S. Strike Command. The realistic combat operation is the largest joint air-ground training maneuver in the southwestern states since World War II.

Airman Curry, an aircraft propeller repairman, and other members of flying and support units of the MATS world-wide airlift force, are part of the vast Air Force team providing full air support for the U. S. Army battlefield troops participating. The exercise will run through May 30 on 13,000,000 acres of desert land in California, Arizona and Nevada.

The airman, permanently assigned to Dover AFB, Del., is a graduate of Saugerties High School.

Mother of Year Addresses Nearly 100 at West Camp

Nearly 100 attending the mothers and daughters dinner of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, West Camp Wednesday night heard the address of Mrs. Alma Kitchell of Larchmont, this year's New York State Mother of the Year.

The annual dinner also featured a hat contest, the presentation of several awards, and a program with youth of the church participating.

Adult winners were: Funniest, Mrs. Rose Altevogt; most original, Mrs. Betty Knaust, and prettiest, Mrs. Billie Stewart.

Special awards in the following categories were announced: Youngest mother, Mrs. Gretchen Coons Craft; most children in attendance, Mrs. Nettie Nehr and Mrs. Betty Knaust, both three; grandmother with most grandchildren in attendance, Mrs. Rosette Winchell and Mrs. Katherine Knaust, both four.

Mrs. Ella Stewart received special recognition on the occasion of her 80th birthday, although she could not attend.

Mrs. Fred Messersmith, mother of the Rev. Alvin F. Messersmith, pastor of the church, was also recognized for the mother that traveled the farthest. She came from Buffalo.

Mrs. Kitchell in her address spoke about the many types of things for which mothers are honored. Mrs. Herman Knaust Sr., served as mistress of ceremonies.

The program included a vocal solo by Mrs. Betty Knaust, presentations by Josie Winchell, Diana Lewis and Sharon Moon. Mrs. Henry Knaust was program chairman.

Saugerties Area Council, Churches Dinner Scheduled

The annual meeting of the Saugerties area Council of Churches will be held on Monday 6 p. m. at Flatbush Reformed Church.

At the evening service the officers for 1964-65 will be installed.

Those who were elected at the April meeting were: President, the Rev. Joseph H. Rainear; first vice president, the Rev. Henry Reinewald; second vice president, the Rev. George D. Wood; secretary, Robert F. Myer and treasurer, Earle R. Haley.

The Rev. Alvin F. Messersmith, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, West Camp, a past president of the council, will be the installing officer.

The guest speaker will be the Rev. Roy Severance of Hyde Park. He is chairman of the Commission on Radio and Television of the New York State Council of Churches. The meeting is open to all.

Reservations for the dinner should be made by contacting Mrs. Dorothy Borcherdt or Mrs. Elsa Sorensen.

Eltinge Award Presented to Fair St. Youth

The Ella O. Eltinge Memorial Award was presented by the Fair Street Reformed Church to Gary R. Ballou recently.

This award was established in 1962 to honor the memory of Mrs. Ella O. Eltinge who served as organist at the Fair Street Reformed Church for 48 years, retiring in 1958. Each year it is presented to one of the young people of the church for "outstanding contributions to the life of the church through the avenue of music or other activity, and for exemplary Christian character."

Ballou is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Ballou, 202 West Chestnut Street, Kingston. He is a junior at Kingston High School, and a member of the Senior Reformed Church Youth Fellowship at the Fair Street Church, which he is serving as treasurer. He also serves the Reformed Church Youth Fellowship of the Classis of Ulster as treasurer. He was a preacher in the church on Youth Sunday in 1963. He was a member of the basketball team which won the championship in the Protestant Church Basketball League in 1963 and was runner-up this year and he was selected to be a member of the league's all-star team. An active participant in all phases of activity at the Fair Street Church, Ballou is a member of the Senior Seminar Church School Class.

The Eltinge Memorial Award was presented as a part of the morning worship service at the Fair Street Church by S. James Matthews, chairman of the Christian Education Commission which had chosen Gary Ballou as the winner.

Gould Selected

gram of educational TV in the New York City area.

The university president, however, also receives a $10,000 annual allowance for expenses and is provided with a state-owned official residence and automobile.

Gould, a native and current resident of New York City, was graduated from Bates College, Lewiston, Me., with Phi Beta Kappa honors in 1930 and received a master of arts degree from New York University in 1936. He tolds honorary doctor of laws degrees from Bates College and Wilberforce University, Wilberforce, Ohio.

He served as president of Antioch College, at Yellow Springs, Colo., from 1954 to 1959, when he became chancellor of the University of California at Santa Barbara. He shifted to his present post in 1962.

Hopes to Stay 15 Years

The president-designate said he was "pleased and exhilarated" by the appointment and hoped he would be able to hold the post for "about 15 years." Hamilton held it three years.

"I accept the job as a challenge and I certainly hope to give it all I have,"- Gould said.

As university president, he will preside over a $1-billion expansion program designed to increase its capacity from the present 75,000 full-time students to 160,000 by 1970.

The university was created in 1948 by merging a score of institutions scattered across the state. It now comprises 58 units, including 3 graduate centers, 2 medical centers, a graduate school, 18 four-year colleges, 6 two-year agricultural and technical institutes and 28 two-year community colleges.

In the absence of a president, J. Lawrence Murray, university secretary, has been acting as chief administrative officer.

Gould's appointment drew words of approval from the state's chief education official, Education Commissioner James E. Allen Jr.

Allen called Gould "a capable and imaginative educator with a rich experience" and expressed confidence that "he will give outstanding leadership to the State University."

Some good cooks like to let their pastry for pies "rest" about 10 minutes before rolling it out.

Worker Crushed in Cab

LAKE GEORGE, N.Y. (AP) —A steam shovel operator working on a highway project in this Upstate resort village was crushed in his cab Thursday when a dump truck backed into the steam shovel.

Frederick Maye, 38, of Ticonderoga, died of internal injuries at Glens Falls Hospital, a few hours after the accident.

New Chemical Phenomenon Ends Floor Waxing Forever

From the Research Laboratories of a pioneer chemical formulator for the Polaris Nuclear Submarines, Missile and Space Industries comes a new discovery so unusual it's almost unbelievable.

Newark, N. J. (Special)—The most wasteful, time-consuming chore in every household, is the ardous, weekly task of a woman bending over, scrubbing, waxing her floors. Homes with their large areas of asphalt, vinyl-asbestos, rubber, linoleum, vinyl and wood floors in kitchens, living and game rooms, virtually chain the housewife to her wax applicator and buffing machine, for hundreds of dreary hours of body-grinding drudgery.

Some years ago there was not much that could be done to eliminate this weekly drudgery of floor waxing and buffing. Things have changed however. There is now available in this area, a new chemical phenomenon, a clear, liquid plastic polyurethane coating, developed by PROTEX-A-COTE, INC., Newark 14, N. J. and the name of this back saver is PORSELON PT-100 and is manufactured by no other company in the world.

PT-100, can be safely and easily applied by use of a lamb's wool applicator, brush or spray to all types of floors: Asphalt tiles, vinyl, vinyl-asbestos, rubber, composition, linoleum, wood, terrazzo and concrete as well, and is manufactured by the makers of protective coatings for the Polaris Nuclear Submarines, Polaris, Talos and Minuteman missiles, highways, bridges, airports, missile bases, General Motors, Ford Motor Co., Du Pont, General Dynamic, General Electric, Westinghouse, Republic and Grumman Aviation, ITT Telephone, Union Carbide, Lehman Bros. Properties, Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, etc.

Now for the first time in history, you can take the drudgery out of floor waxing and polishing forever. PT-100 imparts a high-gloss mirrorlike, non-slip, long-lasting finish that never, never has to be waxed or polished. An occasional swish of a damp mop keeps your floors sparkling clean.

At first PT-100 was sold only to industrial and commercial users. In one test application, a clear polyurethane coating was applied to 30,000 square feet of wood flooring in a chemical plant. A year later, after having been continually subjected to steel-wheeled fork lift trucks and daily wear by 10,000 carts, chemical spillage and heavy foot traffic, the clear polyurethane finish was still intact with its original high gloss unmarred by the exposure. By comparison, high priced, nationally known, clear floor coatings, exposed to the same conditions at the same time, disappeared almost entirely in the first four months.

Your floors will be waterproof, pet and baby-proof extremely resistant to spilled juices, boiling water, acids, oils, greases, all types of soaps and detergents. Dries dustfree in less than 60 minutes, will not chip, peel, crack or blister. It's non-slip gloss is extremely high, without dulling or yellowing with ageing.

PT-100's famous secret formula many have tried to imitate but, of course, no one has been able to copy it exactly. PT-100 is fortified with *ZALBA, wonder chemical provides film toughness, abrasion-resistance. Test in independent laboratories have proven an increase in film life of more than 20 times.

PT-100 is available in clear, white, black and 12 decorators colors with at least a 5 year life expectancy, and there is virtually no limit to what you can coat with PT-100, interior or exterior, on any of hundreds of other surfaces, siding, boats, tanks, farm machinery, trucks, silos, metal railings, swimming pools, patios, damp basements, etc. and you'll have a hard-time wearing it out.

Want proof of PT-100 effectiveness? For a limited time only, you get $1.00 off on a quart, test it on us for 30 days and judge for yourself its incredible performance. You must be 100% satisfied or our authorized dealer will refund your money in full on this money saving offer cheerfully and immediately.

Note: Limit only one trial quart per family with this ad. Clip this ad right now while it's still fresh in your mind and you'll never, never have to wax floors again.

Our authorized progressive dealer in Saugerties is C. Freeman Lasher.

Thank you for reading this far.

Tied with net 40's were Mrs. Gerald Overbagh and Mrs. Howard DeWitt. Mrs. Richard Stewart was all alone at 43.

Locked in a tie with 44's were Mrs. Raymond Sawyer, Mrs. Gerald Gruberg, Mrs. Raymond Hodge, Mrs. Bernard Carpinelli.

Scores of net 45 were posted by Mrs. Franklin Crusius, Mrs. Werner Kolln and Mrs. Jerome Mills.

Newburgh JVs Blank Kingston

A steal of home and an unearned run gave the Newburgh Jayvees a 2-0 victory over Kingston High's Jayvees in a game in which the combined hit total was five.

Carl Kirel, a fastballing right hander, limited the locals to two hits and fanned nine. Frank McGowan and John Spinneweber of Kigston yielded only three hits.

Jack Heeney of Newburgh stole home in the fourth inning for Newburgh's first run and an error accounted for the second tally in the fifth. Heeney hit a double for the only extra base blow of the contest.

Locals Get Runs In 1st Inning; Rios Hurls Win

Kingston High was able to garner just two hits but the Maroon players picked them up at the right time as they defeated Newburgh Free Academy, 6-3, in a DUSO game yesterday at Dietz Stadium.

The win keeps the KHS pennant hopes alive. First place Port Jervis squeezed by Middletown, 5-4, to remain on top.

Standings:

Team	Won	Lost

Kingston	5	2
Middletown	2	4
Newburgh	2	4
Poughkeepsie	1	4

Starter Mickey Scott was as wild as a March wind. He gave up four walks and a hit in the first inning. Pistol Pete Petrillo relieved and was nicked for another safety, before settling down. By then it was too late. The home side had its half dozen runs and Gene Rios proceeded to make them stand up.

Scott walked Lou Perry, Nick Berardi and Paul Gruner to start the game. Rod DeVeau reached base on a fielders choice to score Perry. Mike Canning was walked to force in another run.

Petrillo Relives

Joe Amendola sent Scott to his early shower by singling home a pair of runs. Petrillo came in and Neil Becchtold sacrificed. After second baseman Bill Egan became the second out, Rios cracked a single to finish the KHS scoring for the afternoon.

The deflated defending champions nicked Rios for a pair of markers in the fourth on two walks and a hit. They added another in the sixth on a base on balls, a passed ball and two infield outs.

Meanwhile, Petrillo kept throwing goose eggs. The junior lefty walked two and fanned eight the rest of the way but it was too late with too little.

Coach Al Gruner's surprising club, with a 9-3 mark, closes its DUSO league season Monday at Poughkeepsie. Port has contests left with Newburgh and Poughkeepsie and must win both to insure the crown, provided the locals capture their Monday tilt.

Sport Club Booters Will Play Troy Sunday

Kingston Sport Club booters return to Central New York league action against the Troy Athletic Club, Sunday at 3 p. m. at Oehler's Mountain Lodge field.

The locals hold a one-point lead over Albany Sport Club, with four weeks remaining on the 1963-64 schedule. The KSP is a solid favorite to wrap up its fourth straight pennant but there is plenty of rugged opposition ahead.

Troy comes to town with one of its best team in years and an exciting contest is expected.

Marlboro Wins, 14-2, Over Onteora Central

Nearing a second straight UCAL championship, the Dukes of Marlboro used an eight-run second inning as an impetus in defeating Onteora, 14-2, yesterday at the Boiceville diamond.

Southpaw Vince Caserto hurled five excellent frames for coach Jack Kroh's club and Neil Fino finished the job. Linden Frasier had an off day for the losers, being nicked for 12 runs. John Mower turned in a good relief job.

Caserto was touched for a pair of runs in the first to offset a Marlboro marker in the top of the inning. However, the Dukes came back with eight big ones in the top of the second to put the contest out of reach.

Ben Trapani reached Mower for a homer in the seventh. Caserto had a bases loaded double while Rod Aurigemma and John Mataraza also doubled.

Caserto fanned 11 in his five inning stint. He walked four and gave up two hits. Fino surrendered two safeties, walked one and fanned five.

Marlboro will host New Paltz on Monday. Onteora is slated to play at Rondout on Tuesday.

Tex Riley, Wrestler, Dies After Contest

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—Tex Riley, a long-time veteran of professional wrestling, died in Memorial Hospital Thursday night shortly after losing a match.

Riley, about 50, and his partner, Joe Scarpa, had just lost a tag team match with the Von Brauner twins, Kurt and Karl, when Riley complained of chest pains.

Riley was listed variously as a native of Mule Shoe or Amarillo, Tex., but in recent years had lived in Nashville, Tenn. He began his wrestling career in 1937.

NFL Rejects All-Star Bid

NEW YORK (AP) — The pro football World Series is not just around the corner. In fact, we may have a man on the moon first.

The latest attempt to get the two leagues together was turned down flatly by the National Football League.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle wired an official of the National Broadcasting Co. that "the NFL has no interest in your publicized proposal".

NBC had offered to donate $500,000 to the Kennedy Memorial Library Fund for television rights to an all-star game between the NFL and the American Football League.

AFL Commissioner Joe Foss wired his acceptance from the league meeting in Kansas City.

"Any time pro football wants to attain the high level of major league baseball the leagues have got to meet headon," Foss said. "I think it's a terrific idea."

In turning down the proposal, Rozelle said the league had made plans several weeks ago with the Kennedy family for participation in the Memorial Library Fund. He pointed out that the fund would share in receipts of an exhibition game between Philadelphia and Detroit at Philadelphia Aug. 23.

Gaffney, Pauker Fire 70's As Maroon Routs MHS, 11-1

Dan Gaffney and Neil Pauker fired par 70's to pace Kingston High's golf varsity to a 11-1 rout of Middletown High in a DUSO League match Thursday at Twaalfskill.

Gaffney scorched the Twaalfskill layout with seven birdies en route to nines of 38 and 32. Pauker, 36-34-70, had four birdies on his card.

Duden's 65 Low In Memphis Golf

By VAN SAVELL

MEMPHIS (AP)—Bob Duden hasn't won a golf tournament in 14 years on the pro circuit, but you wouldn't believe it after his last 36 holes.

The veteran from Portland, Ore., who uses his bent-shaft putter like a croquet mallet, has everything but a hole-in-one to his credit. Duden had a 68 Wednesday, including a double eagle, an eagle and a triple bogey. That was only a preview.

Duden fired a five-under-par 65 Thursday and took the first-round lead in the $50,000 Memphis Open Golf Tournament. He had five birdies and 13 par holes.

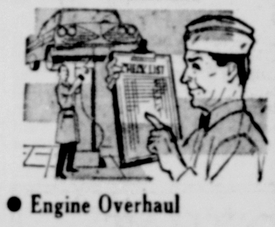

Trailing the 43-year-old Duden by one stroke with 66s were pre-tournament favorite Arnold Palmer, Gene Littler, Gay Brewer and young Paul Bondeson. Bruce Devlin, Mason Rudolph and Doug Sanders were bunched at 67.

Defending champion Tony Lema, his ailing back much improved, had a 68. Jack Nicklaus, unable to recover from a double bogey first hole, shot a 520-over-par 72.

In all, 33 golfers broke par over the 6,466-yard, par 34-36—70 Colonial Country Club course. There were 15 others bunched at 70. The first cut will be made today with the low 80 going in Saturday's round. The low 60 will go in Sunday's final round with $7,500 going to the winner.

Bruno Sammartino-Mortier Head Next Wrestling Card

Wrestling's hottest piece of merchandise — Bruno Sammartino, the current world champion, returns to the municipal auditorium on Wednesday, June 3, for the main bout with the new German sensation, Han Mortier.

Sammartino and Dr. Jerry Graham drew one of the largest wrestling crowds in many years and the Sammartino fans are expected to return in droves.

Mortier is a newcomer to the top ranks of wrestling. He came to the United States after scoring sensational successes in Europe and around the world.

"The Sammartino-Mortier bout should be just as exciting as the last one between Sammartino and Graham," Promoter Ed Ceccolini of Ossining said.

The five-bout card also features a tag-team match between Bobo Brazil of Michigan and Ernie (Cat) Ladd of the San Diego Football Chargers against 300-pound Bulldog Gannon and Mike Zerbes of Texas in a best-of-three falls bout.

Three Solo Bouts

Don McClarity of Omaha meets Max Mortier of Germany.

The popular Miguel Perez takes on Klondike Bill of Alaska and the opening bout pairs Pedro Morales of Puerto Rico against Boris Malenko of Russia.

Sammartino will again be the big lure. He has risen in stature to equal the fabulous Argentine Rocca as box office attraction. Two weeks ago he battled Gorilla Monsoon for more than an hour before 16,000 fans at Madison Square Garden.

Promoter Ed Ceccolini of Ossining predicted Kingston area fans will be pleased with the several new faces on the card.

Ruth Jessen Has Record Low 64

DALLAS (AP)—Ruth Jessen shot a seven-under-par 64, the lowest round ever for the Dallas Civitan Open Golf Tournament.

It was just one of a dozen subpar rounds, all made possible largely by movement of the tee markers in such a way that 302 yards were cut from the Glen Lakes Country Club course. It was trimmed to 5,936 yards.

The ladies PGA didn't like it but will recognize the 64 as equaling the all-time record set By Patty Berg at Richmond, Calif., in 1952. That gave Miss Jessen a three-stroke lead in the first round of the $13,500 tourney.

Mickey Wright, defending champion of the Civitan, shot a one-under-par 70 Thursday as she opened her bid for her fourth straight tournament championship.

In second place as the tournament moves into its second round are Judy Torluemke, a comparative newcomer to the tour, and Carol Mann, who won the Western Open this year. They had 67s.

Louise Suggs, three-time winner of the Civitan and one of the favorites this year, had a 71.

Dark Rates Mays As Mgr. Prospect

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "Willie Mays, as far as I'm concerned, is managerial material," said San Francisco Giants Manager Alvin Dark in naming the star center fielder as the club's field captain.

Dark wouldn't expand his comment on managerial potential yet the possibility exists that the 33-year-old Mays might eventually become the first Negro to manage in the major leagues.

In appointing Willie captain on Thursday, Dark said, "I put a lot of importance on this job."

It hasn't been filled since the present manager served as the Giants captain from 1950 until 1956 under Leo Durocher.

Mays commented, "I'm very proud to be captain." Asked about any managerial aspirations, he answered, "It's too early to think about managing. I hope I have four or five more years of playing before I think about managing."

Acutally, the appointment only makes official many of the things Mays has been doing unofficially for years, primarily moving the outfielders into defensive positions.

Boxing Commission To Join World Group

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The New York State Boxing Commission probably will be admitted as a full member of the World Boxing Council at the council's next convention, a council official said Thursday night.

The convention will be held next September in Vienna.

When the council was organized here, the New York Commission's entry as a full member was opposed on grounds that the World Boxing Association should represent New York as it did the rest of the United States.

Daniels Wins 5th For Nats

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bennie Daniels, who used to throw bee bees, has switched to baseballs and is off to the best start of his unspectacular major league career.

Daniels, 31-year-old right-hander of the Washington Senators, joined Dave Wickersham of Detroit and Minnesota's Camilo Pascual as the American League's winningest pitchers, picking up his fifth victory in the Senators' 8-2 triumph over the Tigers Thursday.

His victory total equals the number of games he won last season when he didn't gain a triumph until June 27.

Daniels needed relief help from Jim Duckworth in the ninth inning but still allowed the Tigers only four hits as he reduced his earned-run average to 2.94. He now has permitted one earned run in 15 2-3 innings.

Daniels never has reached the potential others thought he had when he joined the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1957. He pitched in four seasons with the Pirates but won only eight games while losing 16.

However, he was so fast it was said he threw bee bees.

Daniels won 12 games for the Senators in 1961, his career high, but won progressively fewer games the next two years. In 1962, for example, he won on opening day, then lost 10 in a row.

In other AL games, Baltimore outlasted Kansas City 7-6 despite Manny Jimenez' grand-slam home run and Boston nipped Los Angeles 8-7.

Gets Early Support

The Senators provided Daniels with early support, scoring three runs in the first inning against Jack Hamilton in his first American League game. Chuck Hinton's double and Jim King's single sent home two of the runs. Hinton singled across two more runs in Washington's three-run seventh.

Ed Brinkman homered in the eighth for the Senators while Gates Brown connected in the first for Detroit. The Tigers added an unearned run in the sixth.

The Orioles led 7-2 going into the Athletics' eighth. Wally Bunker, who had scattered four hits, gave up singles to Nelson Mathews and Ed Charles before walking Jim Gentile.

Stu Miller came on for the 16th time this season and got Rocky Colavito on a fly ball. Jimenez then smashed his homer, cutting Baltimore's lead to a run.

Colavito homered in the fourth, tying Harmon Killebrew for the AL lead with 11. Brooks Robinson drove in three runs and Boog Powell two for Baltimore.

The Red Sox eased by the Angels on a hit batsman and Carl Yastrzemski's triple to center field in the sixth off reliever Willie Smith.

The Angels tied the game 7-7 with five runs in the fifth. Arnold Earley walked in two of the runs. Frank Malzone singled home two Boston runs in the five-run second, and Ed Bressoud slammed a two-run homer in the fourth.

Expansion Is Major Headache For AFL Moguls

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Development of an expansion policy today is the No. 1 task on the American Football League agenda, made more crowded by a proposed all-star game rejected by the National Football League.

Dave Dixon of New Orleans, using warm weather and January television exposure as his selling points, will propose a three-game AFL title playoff. The second game—and third if needed—would be in New Orleans.

Dixon's proposal had been scheduled for Thursday, before the National Broadcasting Co. made its offer to donate $500,000 to the Kennedy Memorial Library Fund for rights to an AFL-NFL all-star game.

Joe Foss, AFL commissioner, called a special meeting before the regular session. The AFL owners unanimously approved the NBC offer.

No target date for expansion is expected to come out of the AFL meeting which ends tonight, but Foss said the owners will establish a policy and provide budget information and application blanks to prospective owners.

The AFL owners want time to consolidate their positions under the $36 million five-year NBC contract which starts in 1965 before considering new members. If and when the eight-club league decides to expand, it's likely New Orleans would be one of the first clubs considered.

Kelso in Debut For '64 Season

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mighty Kelso, Horse of the Year for the past four years, makes his 1964 debut Saturday in the $50,000 Los Angeles Handicap in the top thoroughbred race of the day.

Second only to Round Table in the all-time money-winning list with earnings of $1,581,702, Kelso will use his start in the seven-furlong Los Angeles at Hollywood Park as a tuneup for the $100,000 Californian two weeks later.

Slated to go to the post against the Golden Gelding from Mrs. Richard duPont's Bohemia Stable is a strong field including Cyrano, Admiral's Voyage, Mr. Consistency and Mustard Plaster.

Kelso, making his first start since he was beaten by Mongo in the Washington, D.C. International at Laurel last November, will tote 130 pounds including his usual rider, Ismae (Milo) Valenzuela. He indicated his fitness with a sizzling 58-second workout for five furlongs Thursday.

Cyrano, assigned 124 pounds, and Admiral's Voyage, 121, also indicated their sharpness with half-mile works of 45 3-5 and 45 4-5, respectively.

Herbert Peck's Bridge Leaders

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Peck of Woodland posted a fine 62½ per cent score to lead the North-South side of the Glenerie Bridge Club tournament. Leaders on the East-West side were Mrs. Vera Wilkins of Shokan and Dr. John Comstock of Kingston with 56½ per cent.

The runnersup were:

North-South: Mrs. Eleanor Triller, Poughkeepsie, and Harry Thayer, Kingston, 59 per cent; Leon Miller and L. Bergman, Kingston, 57½ per cent; Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Wheatcroft, Kingston, 53½ per cent.

East-West: Dr. and Mrs. John Olivet, Kingston, 56 per cent; Dr. and Mrs. Harry McNamara, Hurley, 54½ per cent; Roy Wulff and Joseph Mautner, Kingston, 54 per cent.

A fractional point game is scheduled tonight at 8 o'clock at the Bridge Studios, 271 Fair Street.

Jeremiah Hanover Is Winner in 1:58

Jeremiah Hanover stepped off a torrid 1:58 3-5 mile Thursday night to capture the $4,000 conditioned pace as Vernon Downs opened its harness racing season.

A crowd of 7,038 wagered $315,045, a record handle for Vernon Downs, as the season began at the central New York track.

Jeremiah Hanover, driven by Del MacTavish, moved to the front halfway down the back stretch and finished ahead of Lou Song and Mrs. Jones.

Jeremiah Hanover paid $5.40 to win.

Vernon officials said the winner's time was the fastest for a pace in the nation this year.

Other harness activity:

Yonkers Raceway — Overtrick ($3.40) scored a neck victory over Cardigan Bay in the $50,000 International Pace. Country Don was third. The time for the 1⅛ mile pace

Buffalo Raceway — Kwik Kat won the $2,000 invitational pace by edging out Stoney Burke and Scottish Port in a photo finish. The time for the mile was 2:03 1-5. The winner, driven by Ed Arthur, paid $3.80.

Williams Takes Lead Over Mays

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Move over Willie. Here comes Billy.

Forget it Willie. There goes Billy.

That's how fast the National League batting lead changed hands Thursday as Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs boosted his average to .402 and took over the top spot held by San Francisco's Willie Mays since April 22.

Hitless in 10 at-bats, Mays broke out of his slump by tagging his 15th and 16th homers and powering the Giants to a 9-4 victory over Philadelphia that lifted San Francisco back into first place. Mays' 2-for-4 performance left him with a .397 average.

Williams, meanwhile, stroked two singles and a double in four at-bats during the Cubs' 10-3 loss to St. Louis, finally overcoming a Mays' lead that stood at 177 points less than a month ago.

Williams began Operation Overhaul on April 29 when he was hitting .311 and Mays was batting .488. Since then, Williams has been on a 19-game tear, swinging at a .458 clip, while Mays has hit a more-than-respectable .346 but still lost 91 points off his average.

In the other two games scheduled, pitchers stole the spotlight. Dick Farrell tied San Francisco's Juan Marichal for the most victories in the majors by winning his sixth in Houston's 3-1 triumph over Pittsburgh and Sandy Koufax struck out 11 in the Los Angeles Dodgers' 6-1 triumph over the New York Mets.

The Phillies and Giants were tied 4-4 in the fifth when Mays and Orlando Cepeda took over. Mays, who homered with one on in the first inning, snapped the tie with a solo shot and Cepeda put it out of reach by connecting after a walk to Willie McCovey. Mays and Cepeda each drove in three runs.

Richie Allen homered for the Phillies, who were stopped on one hit over the last six innings by reliever Bob Bolin.

Williams, battling to become the first Cub to win the batting title since Phil Cavaretta in 1945, led a 12-hit attack against Ray Sadecki, but the Cardinals had the power.

Tim McCarver and Bill White each tagged two-run homers and Doug Clemens smacked a bases-loaded triple. With that support, Sadecki went all the way, squaring his record at 3-3 with his third straight victory.

Farrell, bringing his record to 6-1, needed Hal Woodeshick's relief help in the ninth after Bill Virdon and Jerry Lynch opened with singles. Woodeshick got Roberto Clemente to hit into a doubleplay and struck out Gene Freese to end the threat.

The Colts got all the runs they needed in the fourth against Vern Law, now 1-4, scoring twice on singles by Nellie Fox, Walt Bond and Mike White plus an error by Lynch on the last hit.

Koufax brought his record to 4-3 and struck out 10 or more in one game for the 53rd time in his career. The record for 10-strikeout performances is 54, held jointly by Rube Waddell and Bob Feller. Koufax was touched for seven hits by the Mets.

Tommy Davis went 3-for-3 for the Dodgers while Jim Gilliam and Frank Howard each collected two hits. Koufax contributed to his own cause, singling in the fifth inning and starting a four-run rally.

Front Office Post For Old Luke Easter

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Veteran Luke Easter of the Rochester Red Wings has been deactiviated to assume fulltime duties as a coach and parttime chores in the Rochester front office, it was announced Thursday night.

General Manager George Sisler Jr., in making the announcement, said that Easter will maintain his coaching duties with the Wings and will assume promotional tasks with the Wings' manage,ent a job Luke has enjoyed in the past.

Admitting to 52 years of age, Easter had two hits in eight times at bat with the Wings this season after a long career in the minor leagues and term of service with the Cleveland Indians in the majors.

Parents Walk Shore, Find Body of Son, 22

OSWEGO, N.Y. (AP) — After five weeks of futile searching, Mrs. Rockwell Powers told neighbors Thursday she expected she would find the body of her drowned son that very day.

Later, as Mr. and Mrs. Powers walked along the shore of Lake Ontario west of here, they came upon the body of 22-year-old James H. Powers.

He was one of four young people who perished in a boating accident April 13.

The bodies of the other three were found previously but that of young Powers had remained missing. His parents, who live in Sterling, Cayuga County, refused to give up the search, however.

They found the body at a point about five miles from the place where the 20 foot motorboat was swamped during a storm. The identification was aided by a leg brace he wore since a childhood attack of polio and by a sweater.

Sheriff's deputies said Mrs. Powers told neighbors in advance that she had a feeling she would find the body. The deputies said the body probably had been washed ashore Monday when high winds whipped the lake.

The other victims were William Wheeler, 18, his wife, Peggy, 17, of Red Creek, and Thomas Baker, 18, of Hannibal.

Dog Scheduled to Die

EAST ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—A three-time loser has lost the final round and is scheduled to die today, despite efforts by friends to save him.

Rex, a 13-month-old German Shepherd, owned by Mrs. Wilbur C. Bubel of East Rochester, has been in trouble with the law since March, when he began biting children. He was reprimanded by Peace Justice Nicholas Morabito after the first three bitings.

The only thing that saved him after the fourth biting were the impassioned pleas of Mrs. Bubel, who said Rex would be kept confined according to the village leash law.

Won't Rebuild Road

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Burma's military government has canceled plans to rebuild the road to Mandalay with $31.5 million in U.S. aid.

The foreign office said since the agreement with the United States was signed in 1962, the 400-mile highway between Rangoon and central Burma's chief city had lost its priority status.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Reliable Vatican sources said today Pope Paul VI will soon create a commission to reform and modernize the curia, central administration of the Roman Catholic Church.

Johnson Speaks To Grads About Chance to Serve

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—President Johnson told 4,900 graduating students today that during their lives they "have the opportunity to move not only toward the rich society and the powerful society, but upward to the great society."

It will require, he said, the rebuilding of cities and countryside.

Johnson, in a philosophical speech prepared for commencement exercises at the University of Michigan, declared that the challenge of the next half century is whether the nation has the wisdom to use its wealth "to enrich and elevate our national life—and to advance the quality of American civilization."

"The great society," he said, "rests on abundance and liberty for all. It demands an end to poverty and racial injustice but that is just the beginning."

Johnson pictured the great society as an affluent, cultured oasis, "where man can renew contact with nature" and where people "are more concerned with the quality of their goals than the quantity of their goods."

This would be a place, he said, of completely rebuilt cities, unspoiled countryside and bustling classrooms.

"In the next 40 years," he said, "we must rebuild the entire urban United States."

Johnson quoted the philosopher Aristotle that "men come together in cities in order to live, but they remain together in order to live the good life."

The President added: "It is harder and harder to live the good life in American cities."

Hotel Worker Is Facing Other Charges

A New Jersey man who is serving time in Ulster County Jail after conviction earlier this week on three charges, is awaiting arrest by authorities from New York and New Jersey on bad check charges.

State Police at the Ellenville substation said that Julius Nyars, 53, of Irvington, N. J., was sentenced Tuesday by Peace Justice Herbert Poppel, Town of Wawarsing, to 100 days in jail when he admitted charges of petit larceny, passing a fraudulent check and public intoxication. The petit larceny charge was reduced from an original charge of forgery by consent of the district attorney. Poppel sentenced Nyars to terms of 60 days on the bad check charge, 30 days on the petit larceny charge and 10 days for public intoxication.

Troopers said that Binghamton city police have a warrant for Nyars' arrest on a fraudulent charge and that Trenton, N. J. police filed a detainer on a similar charge. They said Nyers had been employed by the Pine Grove Hotel in Kerhonkson.

'64 'Ark' on Way

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—A 96-foot vessel built in 1891 as a fireboat is heading for Alaska's Aleutian Islands with a deckload of baled hay, a hold full of livestock and a pioneering family that thinks Montana's getting too crowded.

Aboard the freighter Robert Eugene are 500 sheep, five horses, half a dozen pigs, one rooster, a dog named Smokey, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Choate and their three children.

"We're all looking forward to this," Choate said Thursday. "We will have our ranch and a chance to build it as big as we want it. We're all used to hard work."

Hot Air Starts Eastward Move

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Unseasonably hot weather that sent temperatures to record high marks for the date in many Midwest areas Thursday moved eastward today, indicating an end of a cool spell in some eastern sections of the nation.

The midsummer heat covered most of the Plains and Midwest with temperatures in the 80s and 90s. In North Dakota the mercury hit the 100-degree mark in Grand Forks and 98 in Fargo, record high marks for May 21.

Minnesota also reported top marks for the date, including 95 International Falls, on the Canadian border.

Readings were in the 100-degree level in the Southwest desert region Thursday for the fourth straight day.

Some cooler air appeared headed into the northern Plains as the hot air spread eastward and was expected to extend over the Great Lakes region, the Ohio Vally and the Middle and North Atlantic States.

Warm Spell Area Outlook

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Extended forecasts, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau, from 7 p.m. today to 7 p.m. Wednesday:

Eastern New York — Warm. Temperatures averaging well above normal and rising to near mid-summer levels for the next few days. No significant rainfall indicated. A chance of a few isolated thundershowers in the next five days.

Western New York — Midsummer temperatures during the next five days, averaging 8 to 10 degrees above seasonal normals. Very warm over the weekend, moderating to near normal Monday and rising rapidly Tuesday and Wednesday. Precipitation will average about one-fourth of an inch in the form of showers and thundershowers Sunday and Wednesday.

Temperature normals — Daytime highs, 65-74. Nighttime lows, 46-51.

Kong Le Gets Help

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Gen. Kong Le, hard - pressed commander of the Laotian neutralist army, reportedly has been reinforced by 800 troops who fought through Communist lines to rejoin him southwest of the Plaine des Jarres.

Military sources said the 800 had been cut off southeast of Kong Le's abandoned command post at Muong Phanh last weekend when the Pathet Lao launched an offensive that swept the neutralists from the strategic plateau 110 miles northeast of Vientiane.

Lenny Acquitted . . . But

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A judge listened to a recording of Lenny Bruce's night club act then acquitted him on an obscenity charge.

"If people want to pay to sit and listen to him, they deserve to hear what they hear," said the judge at the trial Thursday.

"Mr. Bruce has a dirty mind and degrades the American language and morality," the judge said.

4-H Area Dress Reviews

The Ulster County 4-H Club Area Dress Reviews began in Hurley on Wednesday, May 13 at the Hurley Reformed Church. Miss Jo Ann Maxwell, General Chairman, selected Mrs. Frank Kurtsfeldt, Hurley; Mrs. Dorothy Darling, Port Ewen; Mrs. Bernard Kramer, Kingston; Mrs. Ernest Myer Jr., West Hurley and Mrs. Frank Bell of Port Ewen as Judges at this Review which was themed, "Fashions for You."

Miss Lynne Charlton, a member of the Hurley Busy Bees, took charge of the commentaries. Mrs. Floyd Nickerson and Mrs. James Roosa directed the modeling practice and line-up. Staging and Decorations were done by Mrs. Andrew Currie, Mrs. Earl Wright and Mrs. H. Seitz. Room arrangements for pressing and dressing were the duties of Mrs. Edward Muller and Mrs. Harvey Krause.

On Thursday, May 14, the Stone Ridge Area held their Dress Review at the Marbletown School. Mrs. William Larsen, General Chairman, selected for the Judging: Mrs. Kenneth Bell, Mrs. Robert Davenport, Mrs. Patrick Donnelly, Mrs. Oskar Larsen, Mrs. Oscar Johnson, Mrs. James Dunbar, Mrs. Vernon Goetchius and Mrs. Elizabeth Barnhart. These judges awarded 63 blue ribbons and 30 red to 87 little girls who modeled 93 garments.

Serving as Commentators were: Misses Lillian Bogart, Lorraine Paetow, Kathy Stokes and Patty Duke.

Mrs. Charles Link, a local leader of the Stone Ridge Junior Busy Beavers took charge of the modeling practice and line-up. She was assisted by Mrs. William Warren and Mrs. Charles McGuffey. Staging and Decorations: Mrs. William Warren, Mrs. Alex Embree and Mrs. Richard Stokes. Publicity: Mrs. Elmer Schoonmaker; Room Arrangements: Mrs. William Warren and Mrs. William Larsen. Coffee Hour, Mrs. George Larsen and Mrs. George VonBargen.

On Friday, May 15, at the Wallkill School, the third Area Dress Review was held. Mrs. Francis Garrison, New Hurley was general chairman and Mrs. George Wildrick, co-chairman. Judges: Mrs. William Comfort, Mrs. Leland Hufcut, Mrs. Elmer Fries and Mrs. Herbert Carnes, all of Orange County.

Four of the older girls, Susan Masten, Beverly Schoonmaker, Debra Sherwood, and Barbara Backofen did the commentaries. Mrs. Gerald DuBois and Mrs. Bart Colluci handled the line-up and modeling practice. The Supper-hour Chairman was Mrs. John Bruhlman assisted by Mrs. James Cleveland, and Mrs. S. Schoonmaker.

Here 70 girls modeled 72 garments and were awarded 55 blue, 16 red, and 1 white ribbon.

Mrs. McLean F. Reynolds, Assistant County 4-H Club Agent made the welcoming remarks and distributed the awards and certificates at each of the Area Dress Reviews. Miss Margaret Gippert, 4-H Club Office Secretary was in charge of registration and many of the other activities necessary to the smooth operation of the 4-H Club Program. Miss Gippert is assisted by Mrs. Dorothy Green.

The final summary of the 4-H Dress Review for 1964 including the County Review for girls over 14 years of age held at the Rondout Valley Central School, May 9, are as follows: 4-H Club members participating, 285; garments 315, blue ribbons 215, red, 97; white, only 3.

According to Mrs. McLean F. Reynolds, the Assistant County 4-H Club Agent this has been a wonderful year for clothing construction.

The Top Ten Tea Selection will be held at Williams Lake on Wednesday, May 27th attended by the Selected Top Ten, their parents, and leaders; the 4-H Executive Committee and Homemaking Committee and the 4-H Club Office Staff.

Woman Holds Lead

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Genevieve Blatt held a 55-vote lead today in the nip-and-tuck contest for Pennsylvania's Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate as a complete recheck of the voting machines used in Philadelphia was underway.

The county board of elections ordered the opening of vote machines Thursday after checks in some wards showed some differences in the announced vote totals and the number of votes cast on the machines in the April 28 primary.

Before the recheck started Miss Blatt, state secretary of internal affairs, and State Supreme Court Justice Michael A. Musmanno, the Democratic organization - backed candidate, were in a tie.

Routine for Pilot

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—"It was all pretty much routine," says X15 pilot Milton O. Thompson after a forced landing.

Thompson walked away uninjured Thursday after engine failure forced him to land his X15 rocket plane on a dry lake bed 30 miles east of this desert test center.

May Picket Ships

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A vice president of the Marine Beneficial Engineers Association (MBEA) says all eight ships of the Hanna Mining Co. will be picketed in all Great Lakes ports until settlement is reached on a new contract.

Operations were shut down at the American ship building yard here when nearly 500 of its employes refused to cross an MBEA picket line Thursday.

Melvin Pelfrey, association vice president, said the picketing was against the Ernest T. Weir, a Hanna vessel undergoing repairs at the shipyard. He said his union and Hanna have been negotiating on the contract since July, 1962.
